BRITISH OVERAWE KEMALIST POLICE

Troops Seize Constantinople Custom House, Aiding Armenians to Escape.

TURKS DETAINING REFUGEES

They Confiscate 100 Armenians' Passports and Prevent Sailing of a French Rescue Ship.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—In consequence of the action of the Kemalist police in confiscating the passports of 100 Armenians as they were about to board ship, British troops took possession of the Custom House today and, armed with machine guns, protected the embarkation of the refugees.

Rafet Pasha, the Military Governor, had a four hours' conference with the Allied High Commissioners and Generals, and a provisional agreement was reached permitting the embarkation of all presenting themselves until this evening, but the question of principle was not settled, and further meetings have been arranged.

Rafet Pasha takes the attitude that the Allies are not in occupation of Constantinople and refuses to recognize their right to interfere between him and native Christians.

The Armenians with whom the Kemalist police interfered today in every case carried French protégé passports. The Turkish authorities declared that they were Ottoman subjects and must have permission of the Turkish passports officials before leaving the country.

It is reported that in many instances the Kemalist police exacted payments of from $50 to $100 from individual Armenians before permitting them even to approach the ships.

Under a new Nationalist regulation all Greeks and Armenians between the ages of 18 and 45 must pay a military exemption tax of $50 before leaving the country.

The Turkish police today prevented the embarkation of refugees on a French steamship at Samsun, on the Black Sea coast of Asia Minor, despite permission granted by the Italian authorities there.

The Turks' refusal to permit Greek vessels to embark additional Christian refugees from Asia Minor has created been disappointment in American relief circles here. All preparations has been completed for the use of American destroyers to facilitate the transfer of refugees to the relief ships, as was done at Smyrna.

Four large Greek vessels, under the direction of A. K. Jennings, arrived yesterday from Piraeus, ready to proceed to the Black Sea. Mr. Jennings is the resourceful Young Men's Christian Association Secretary who earned the title "Admiral of the Refugee Fleet" at the time of the Smyrna disaster by mobilizing fifty ships and rescuing 300,000 persons.

He had six more ships ready in Greek ports for his present task, these, together with the four arriving here, giving a total carrying capacity of 50,000 persons.

The refusal of the Angora Government to permit further embarkations was received at Samsun by Commander Raley Powell of the American destroyer Edsall, who immediately forwarded the news to Constantinople by wireless.

The Turks declared that not only would they prohibit further departures on Greek ships, but would deport to the interior all Christians who remained in the Black Sea coastal towns after the next few days.

Officials at the American embassy declined to comment upon this ruling, but made no attempt to hide their surprise at the Kemalists' attitude. They explained that they had asked nothing more of the Nationalists than their sanction for the use of American naval officers as intermediaries between the local officials in the Black Sea ports and the officers of the Greek refugee vessels.

The Turks' failure to meet the American proposals raises doubts as to the safety of 50,000 persons who made their way to the sea with the hope of leaving the country. It is believed that they will be deported to the interior unless the Allies or the United States make representations to Angora.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—The American naval authorities at Constantinople have taken only an informal part in negotiations between the Greek High Commissioner and the Kemalist Government at Angora relative to the employment of Greek ships to evacuate refugees now gathered at Black Sea ports. The Greeks' request that their ships be permitted to do this work was transmitted by the office of the American High Commissioner at Constantinople to Angora, and it is understood that in other informal ways the American naval forces have stood ready to aid in the humanitarian work at the Black Sea ports.

Conditions under which Greek ships may operate in Turkish waters are fixed by the terms of the Mudania armistice between Greece and the Turkish Nationalists. As the United States has no part in that agreement, its representatives in Turkish waters cannot go beyond offering their good offices even in connection with the evacuation of refugees. The Greek High Commissioner is understood to have asked that guarantees be secured from the Angora Government to cover Greek ships entering the Black Sea to take off refugees, and also that American destroyers escort such ships. This was found impossible, however, as the American Government cannot participate except in an informal way in view of the armistice conditions.

A resolution expressing the hope of the American Government that the Government of Turkey will take "such decisive measures as shall stay the hand of fanaticism and lawless violence and secure to the unoffending Christians of Turkey all the rights," was introduced today by Representative Fish, Republican, of New York. Mr. Fish declared in a statement that Congress would support the President in "the most vigorous action he may take for protection of Americans in Turkey and to obtain redress for injury to the persons and property."

SEE TROUBLE FOR TURKS.

British Observers Think a Split With Russia Will Develop Soon.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The deadlock at Lausanne over the question of the Straits is considered in well-informed circles here to be a much more awkward matter for the Turks than for the Allies. The adoption of the proposals of Tchitcherin would transform the Black Sea into a Russian lake, and that, in the light of history, could not be for the lasting benefit of the Turkish State. For the moment, indeed, Soviet Russia and the Angora Turks are acting together, but it is not believed here that their alliance can last for long. Sooner or later Russia must revert to her traditional policy of stretching out toward Constantinople, and if the Turks alienate the Western Allies now they will have no one to turn to in their hour of need.

For it is not believed here that there is any real community of feeling between Angora and Moscow. Each has been trying to use the other for its own purposes, and the doctrines of Bolshevism have made no progress among the Turks. The Angora Government is nationalist and nothing else, and it is believed here that it is already beginning to tire of the road along which the Soviet Government is leading it. Consequently, the silence of Ismet Pasha is attributed here largely to embarrassment and doubt as to the line he should take in the face of Tchitcherin's proposals. So it is expected that it will not be long before distinct lines of cleavage between the Russian and Turkish delegates will begin to reveal themselves.

WAS TOLD COUNCILMEN WERE TO GET $5,000

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—The Municipal Finance Commission will ask the Supreme Court for an order to compel City Councilor Daniel W. Lane to disclose the name of the man who told him that $5,000 was paid to city officials last Summer for the passage of a project for the widening of Province Street.

This was announced tonight as the aftermath of a dramatic moment today at the commission's investigation of charges of graft relating ot the sale to the city of a north end synagogue as a playground site. Councilor Lane, after testifying that word had come to the City Council from the Mayor's office that "there was something in the Province Street scheme," refused to name the person who brought the message, on the ground that he might violate a confidence. The order for the street widening passed first reading in the Council July 31, the same day that the synagogue purchase order was reintroduced by President David J. Brickley, who had previously voted against it.

Lane told the commission that the story of the Province Street money came to him during that Council meeting. He said that during an afternoon recess he had seen Councilors Brickley, Moriarty, Donoghue and Walsh in conference and argument in an office near the Council room. Earlier in the day these Councilors had denied that they took part in such a conference. Lane, who had "counted noses" on the Province Street order with Councilor Henry Hagen and believed that seven members would vote against it, told Hagen after seeing the conference that the order would be beaten.

"Did you learn later why it passed?" the witness was asked.

"I was told that word came from the Mayor's office that there was something in it."

When pressed to define the word "something" Lane mentioned the sum of $5,000. He said he had his information from somebody "officially connected with the city."

Councilor Hagen, who had previously told the story as repeated to him by Lane, was asked about the $5,000, and said he had heard this amount mentioned. He said that "presumably" it was to be divided among four City Councilors.

REFUGEE ROYALTIES SEE RUSSIAN DRAMA

PARIS, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Former Grand Dukes, Grand Duchesses, Ambassadors and other celebrities of the Russian imperial régime, some of whom sacrificed their last penny to buy a seat, crowded the opening performance here tonight of the Moscow Art Theatre players, who recently were permitted to enter France by special permission of the Government. The play was "Czar Feodor."

The Russian section of the audience was visibly moved at hearing the old Russian language and filled with patriotic pride at the profound impression the art of the players made on the discriminating Parisian audience, among whom were many prominent Americans.

All the leading characters were greeted and applauded enthusiastically.

HUNTER COLLEGE DRAMA.

Rostand's "The Faraway Princess" Played by the Pipers.

Edmond Rostand's "The Far Away Princess" was played by the Pipers of Hunter College in the college chapel, Park Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street, last evening. The four-act drama, given in English, was translated from the French by Isabel Schein and Helen Herschdorfer of the class of 1923.

The leading parts were played by Marguerite E. Jones, as Jeffroy Rudel, and Minna Ast, as Melissinde. Entr'actes and incidental music were furnished by the Hunter College Orchestra under Flora Rubin, and by Anna Welsh, harpist.

The Pipers are a group of Hunter alumnae, instructors and undergraduates, organized in 1921 to aid in obtaining wider public recognition of the college.

BAVARIAN PREMIER TALKS OF REVOLT

GETS A HINT FROM CUNO

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—The Bavarian Prime Minister, Dr. von Knilling, arrived in Berlin this morning to confer with Chancellor Cuno regarding the satisfaction demanded by the French Government for insults offered the French Commission in Bavaria, notably in the cities of Ingolstadt and Passau.

Dr. von Knilling impressed Herr Cuno with the necessity of instructing the German Ambassador in Paris to make every effort possible to get more moderate conditions from Premier Poincaré, since otherwise he could not guarantee to preserve peace in Bavaria and the security of other Entente commissions in that State.

To extort 1,000,000 gold marks from two poor towns like Ingolstadt and Passau that were on the verge of bankruptcy anyway, was, he argued, simply impossible, and must lead to a fatal revolt of all classes, not only in those towns but in many other Bavarian cities, especially Munich, where the entire population sympathized with the culpable communities.

Cuno Suggests Way Out.

Chancellor Cuno promised that every effort should be matie in the direction Dr. von Knilling desired, but he also expressed the opinion that if the French Government should refuse to moderate its demands Munich and the other cities sympathizing with Ingolstadt and Passau should help them find the 1,000,000 gold marks.

Though the Bavarian Prime Minister declared that Ingolstadt and Passau had the support of all classes in Bavaria, the Munich Democratic, Centrist and Socialist organs declare that the monarchist parties are responsible for the excesses and that these should be made to pay.

The press is still very much excited over the arrest of Captain Erhardt of Kapputsch fame and is trying hard to show that his case comes under the amnesty regulations that exculpate ordinary military leaders who only obeyed Luettwitz's orders.

The latest version spread by monarchist circles is that Erhardt was not arrested at all, but voluntarily gave himself up because he was tired of being continuously hunted and had been convinced that no court would find him guilty of high treason.

There is also a movement afoot to bring about revision of the sentence on the notorious Von Jagow, who under Kapp's régime had assumed the office of Minister of the Interior, for which crime he is now serving seven years' imprisonment.

It is quite evident that the reactionary parties believe they have the support of some of their friends in the Cuno Cabinet.

Protest Against French Plans.

COLOGNE, Dec. 5.—All four of the German Bourgeois political parties and the United Socialists in the Rhineland have joined in issuing a public protest against the rumored plans of the French to extend the Rhineland occupation. The parties besides the Socialists are the Centre Party, the German Democrats, the People's and the National People's Parties.

The manifesto sets forth that the political parties in the Rhineland have steadfastly maintained their allegiance to Germany. It calls attention to the right of self-determination for peoples proclaimed in allied quarters during the war and objects, therefore, to any encroachment on German jurisdiction and administration of this territory.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Notwithstanding the secrecy surrounding the meeting of the Cabinet yesterday, it is now learned that the Ministers were strongly inclined to support France's energetic proposals for direct action in the Ruhr district if such a course becomes necessary through Germany's failure to abandon what is considered her passive or obstructive attitude toward reparations.

Belgium, it is understood, has good hope for a successful arrangement through British cancellation of war debts and a French agreement to reduce the reparations total to an amount justifying an international loan to Germany.

HOPE TO FIND PHARAOH INTACT IN HIS TOMB

But Ante-Chambers of Death Must Be Cleared Before the Sealed Door Is Opened.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Luxor correspondent of The London Times visited Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter, who furnished him with the following statement in regard to their recent discovery:

"Our impressions, gathered from our initial investigation, are that the chambers opened are really ante-chambers to the King's mausoleum, and from seals on the doorway still unopened there is every indication we shall find Pharaoh Tutankhamen.

"From the famous papyri at Turin, giving a description of the tomb of Rameses IV., we know the custom was that the King would not only be buried in his sarcophagus enclosed in three coffins, but that the sarcophagus itself was protected by a series of funeral canopies, which from details in these papyri seem to have been constructed of wood. Therefore, as this door is unharmed, with the exception of a small hole made by the famous metal robbers in the reign of Rameses IX., and reclosed by inspectors of that monarch, we have every reason to hope that whatever may have happened to the metal objects of value the King himself will be found intact.

"Robbers' confessions, recorded in the Abbott, Meyer and Amherst papyri, record that the King's funeral equipment was most magnificent, so that if our expectation is realized we shall be confronted with an unimaginably rich and archaeologically valuable result. Naturally, as this holy of holies is even further and deeper beneath the mountains the preservation of the objects which will be found there should be even better than that of those in the outer chambers.

"Judging from the plan of this hypogeum, as far as we have got, it appears to be after the style of the El Amarna Royal tombs and not the Ban. If this is the case we must expect more than one chamber to come. Royal tombs of the Ban vary from fifty to two hundred meters in length, comprising a series of passages, staircases and chambers hewn in the mountains. The Amarna Royal tombs, as far as we know them, are not so large, and in place of passages connecting chambers the chambers themselves join one another. The plan of the present discovery appears to be of the latter type.

"What makes this find so fortunate and important is that this is the first instance in which a royal tomb has been found with the doorways intact, as sealed by the hands of inspectors of Rameses IX. Naturally, we are most anxious to break the further seals and enter, but this cannot be done with safety until the objects in the first chambers have been removed and preserved.

"We must, therefore, ask for the patience and indulgence of the archaeological world until we are able to carry out this. We hope the next two months will suffice to place us in a position to investigate these farther chambers."

EDWARDS PLURALITY 89,133.

Jersey State Canvassers Report Official Election Figures.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 5.—According to the official figures prepared by Secretary of State Thomas F. Martin for the State Board of Canvassers, Governor Edwards, Democrat, received 451,832 votes for United States Senator and Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Republican, 362,699, giving Edwards a plurality of 89,133. Former Judge George S. Silzer, Democrat, of Metuchen, received 427,206 votes, against 383,312 for former State Senator William N. Runyon, Republican, of Plainfield, a plurality of 43,894.

The Republicans elected seventeen State Senators to four Democrats and forty-four Republicans in the Assembly to sixteen Democrats. The $40,000,000 State highway bond issue had a plurality of 17,064 in its favor.

REFUSAL OF MANDATE SUITS WHITE HOUSE

ANSWERS TO CLEMENCEAU

Government Does Not Intend to Take Any Mandatory Responsibility.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The publication in THE NEW YORK TIMES, through the courtesy of The Editor and Publisher, of the text of the long-withheld report on Near Eastern conditions submitted to Woodrow Wilson when he was President and furnished by him to The Editor and Publisher, was the occasion for some comments at the White House today in regard to the foreign policy of the United States. What was said there reflected the views of President Harding. They were generally unfavorable to the proposals of the American mission for placing certain Turkish possessions under an American mandate.

This report was prepared by President Henry Churchill King of Oberlin College and Charles R. Crane of Chicago, the American Commission on Mandates sent to former Turkish territory after the meeting of the Peace Conference at Paris. White House comment was prefaced by the statement that the President was not familiar with the details of the report; and nothing was said by a spokesman for the President to indicate that he would undertake to discuss the findings and recommendations contained in it. The White House comment, based on a question as to what was thought of the report, was directed merely to the matter of the advisability of the United States assuming mandatory authority over non-American countries.

It was said that there was no hesitancy on the part of the present Administration in saying that every day it rejoiced that the Government had not undertaken the responsibility of mandatary for any Turkish territory. Furthermore, it was declared, the Government did not intend to take any such responsibility. As time passed, it was said, the conviction became stronger than ever that the traditional foreign policy of the United States was "pretty wise." This Government, according to the statement made, would not consent to take on its shoulders responsibility for the affairs of the rest of the world.

What was said at the White House was construed as the Administration's answer to the plea of M. Clemenceau for American help for France. The whole tenor of the remarks made indicated that the Administration was set in its belief that it would be unwise for America to take any part in the adjustment of European political affairs. At the same time it was clearly set forth that all the influence the United States possessed was being exerted in the Near Eastern conference at Lausanne, and it was added that what this Government was doing at Lausanne was in consonance with the best judgment of the world's statesmen in touch with the situation.

Silver Society Has Exhibition to Aid Animal Hospital.

Many beautiful cats were shown yesterday at the exhibition of the Silver Society held in the Italian Gardens of the Biltmore for the benefit of the Ellin Prince Speyer Hospital for Animals. It was the tenth specialty show of the society and as side issues there were tea and candy for sale, and fancy articles, to help in raising a large sum to benefit the hospital for animals founded by the late Mrs. James Speyer in this city.

The Silver Society is a small and select one. The cats exhibited must all be "silver" in one of its four variants. These are the pure silver, the shaded silver, the silver tabby—striped silver—and the London black. The latter is the oxidized silver, very dark for a silver, sealskin; the color is called, with hair white inside.

There were eighty-nine entries for yesterday's show, exhibitors coming long distances to compete for an extra inducement—a silver cup which was offered by the Hotel Biltmore for the best silver neuter. There were many prizes in cups and money, small sums of money being offered by individuals for different specialties. The prize for the first in his class, shaded silver, and best cat in the show went to Winter Fox, grandson of the Champion King Winter, owned by Miss Carroll Macy. The award carried with it money prizes, cups and trophies. Mrs. Arthur H. Churchill is President of the Silver Society.

NO FORTS IN STRAITS, ALLIES ARE AGREED

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

not in danger and asserting that the Greeks had proposed the much-discussed exchange of populations. This statement is mendacious, for, while it is true that M. Venizelos proposed the exchange of populations, he did it only after the Turks had stated that all Greeks must leave Turkey.

Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, Commissioner of the League of Nations, issued an appeal today on behalf of the refugees from Turkey. He said that in Greece alone there were 900,000 refugees, mostly Greek, plus 50,000 Armenians, whom the Greeks had admitted to their territory. He asks not only that immediate aid be given these people, but that the nations of the world try to absorb an important part of them according to their economic needs. Pointing to the impoverished condition of Greece, Dr. Nansen says that the country cannot be expected to feed and clothe all those who have run away from the danger of Turkish vengeance, and calls attention to 300,000 or 400,000 more now on their way to Greece. Dr. Nansen asks that any offers of aid be sent to the Secretariat of the League at Geneva.

Riza Nur Bey, a member of the Turkish delegation, said in an interview with journalists today that the plight of these refugees was being used as propaganda against the Turkish delegation in the Lausanne conference. He tried to belittle the horror of the situation by saying that the American figures as to the number of Greeks in Anatolia were exaggerated. Instead of 1,000,000 he said the number of Greeks in Anatolia who had been forced to flee was only 900,000. When pressed by questions he declared that all Greeks, including even those in Constantinople, must quit Turkey.

"It is impossible for Greeks and Turks to live together," he said. "We wish to exchange populations; we wish to be rid of these Greeks. The Armenians may stay if they life, but the Greeks must go."

He charged that up to thirty years ago there had been no troubles between Turks and Christians, but after that time the missionaries, including Americans, had let themselves become the tools of European propaganda against the Turks, which, he said, had started all the troubles.

In response to the charge that the Turks had expelled orphans cared for by Americans, he said that the Americans themselves had asked permission to remove the orphans, and the Kemalist Government had granted it.

In reply to a pointed question Riza Nur Bey said that not only those Greek inhabitants of Constantinople who were born in Greece, but also those who were born in Turkey, must get out. He explained that they were rich, and that with their goods the Turkish Government could reimburse those who had suffered from the Greek invasion. He said that there were 400,000 Turks in Greek territory for whom the Turks would exchange the 200,000 Greeks in Constantinople.

The conference has not yet accepted the plan for the compulsory exchange of these populations.

The object of the Turks is clear. They wish to rid Turkey of all Christians and all Christianity. One has only to talk with them to see that they want to end all American and other Christian missionary work. Any Christians who remain under the Crescent will have a hard life.

Belligerent Warships to Be Excepted.

Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LAUSANNE, Dec. 5.—France, Great Britain and Italy arrived at an accord tonight regarding their future policy with regard to the control of the Straits.

They will insist that warships as well as merchantmen shall have the right to pass through the Straits in time of peace as well as in time of war. This, however, does not apply to the warships of belligerents. At tomorrow's meeting this will be their reply to the proposal put forward yesterday by the Russians.

The Allies' plan calls for a Turkish delegate to be President of the international control commission which will be established for the Straits. This will probably imply that the Turkish President will have two votes.

LAUSANNE, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Representatives of the American missionary and charitable organizations operating in Turkey are working for the inclusion of protective guarantees in the new treaty which America hopes to negotiate with the Turks and which the Turks say they are ready to negotiate here.

The Rev. James L. Barton of Boston, Foreign Secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, and W. W. Peet, head of the American Board of Missions in Turkey, have submitted to Richard Washburn Child, chief of the American delegation to the Near East Conference, a detailed statement on the situation, and Mr. Child may take up the entire question either directly with the Turkish delegates, or, if necessary, before the conference.

In a statement issued today Dr. Barton and Dr. Peet declared that the American missionary, educational and charitable work in Turkey has always been non-political and conducted in harmony with the laws of the country. The statement is in the form of a comment upon the communiqué made public recently by the Turkish delegation on the subject of capitulations, in which the Turks accused some of the foreign missionaries, including Americans, of conducting schools in which Greek and Armenian pupils were educated in a spirit harmful to the interests of the Turks as true masters of the country.

"The American Principals and teachers," says the statement by Drs. Barton and Peet, "are under strictest instructions not to teach or harbor revolutionary ideas or to defend any one connected with an American institution against whom charges of disloyalty in teaching or in promoting such ideas are proved.

"From the beginning the American schools in Turkey have stood for loyalty and have discouraged disloyalty. They have been conducted in harmony with the laws of the country and for training the boys, girls, men and women to be loyal and worthy citizens.

"Among the large number of students there may have been now and then, as in the Government schools, some whose sentiments were not in harmony with the purposes and aims of the schools. Whenever these became active they have been compelled to withdraw. The American schools have been among the most helpfully constructive institutions in Turkey during the last fifty years."

The American missionary leaders declare they desire no special privileges over the Turkish Government schools, but are strongly of the opinion that the capitulations and permits under which the various American educational and philanthropic works were begun a century ago should not be abrogated without equally satisfactory guarantees whereby the work can be continued unhindered and without curtailment.

Although the leaders of the new Turkish Government may be disposed to do everything in their power to facilitate the activities of the American institutions trouble has sometimes been experienced with local officials in the interior, and a legal document clearly setting forth the American rights is advocated.

All the schools opened and conducted by Americans, as well as the other institutions, were officially recognized by the Sultan's Government, which issued firmans, or Imperial permits, sanctioning the work, and it is desired that these be recognized by the new Government. Ismet Pasha, Kemalist Foreign Minister and head of the Turkish delegation here, has repeatedly voiced his wish to maintain the American institutions, and it is expected that negotiations fixing their future status can easily be concluded.

Pope Appeals to the Conference.

Representations were made to the Near East Conference today by the Holy See on behalf of the Constantinople Christians. Mgr. Maglione, the Nuncio of the Catholic Church in Switzerland, presented a communication to the President of the conference asking that prompt and efficacious methods be adopted to protect the various Christian populations of Constantinople, whose situation, the communication stated, had become most alarming.

The communication from the Vatican presented by Mgr. Maglione was as follows:

"The Holy See is receiving daily from Constantinople the most alarming news. The Christians of European nationality are panic-stricken. Many have left and many others have the means to leave. Those who wish to leave the city must promise in writing never to return. Their goods are sequestrated, and all possessions of Europeans and of religious congregations are in the greatest peril. There is general fear of the arrival of irregular bands and of disastrous consequences which may follow.

"The Armenians are terror-stricken. They have no refuge, and are even more exposed than the others.

"In bringing these facts to the attention of the Lausanne conference, which was summoned to establish peace in the Orient, the Holy See begs it most earnestly, in the name of humanity, to adopt measures in the most prompt and efficacious manner to reassure the populations which already have been so cruelly stricken."

Copies of the foregoing were sent to Camille Barrère, French Ambassador to Italy, Lord Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary, and the Marquis di Garroni, the Presidents of the three main commissions of the conference.

Advices from other sources, including those of American origin, indicate that chaotic conditions prevail in the interior of Turkey, with constant pressure brought to bear upon the Christians, especially the Greeks and Armenians, to leave the country. American mail advices from Smyrna confirm reports that all the British have received instructions to quit Smyrna, where the relief work is continuing in the hands of Americans.

Ismet Denies the Pope's Charges.

Ismet issued a statement declaring that the situation of the Christians in Constantinople was not such as to cause uneasiness, and charging the Greeks with the circulation of alarming reports in order to influence the Lausanne negotiations in favor of Greece. His statement foloiws:

"Ismet Pasha authorizes the press to state that it is false that the situation of the Greeks in Constantinople is such as to inspire apprehension.

"During the conference the Greek delegation has proposed exchange of the Turkish and Greek (minority) populations between the two countries, but wishes to except the Greeks of Constantinople. The purpose of the Greek delegation was to have Greek refugees occupy the homes of the Turks now living in Greek territory and to expel the Moslems in the midst of Winter. The houses which it is pretended are available in Anatolia for the Turks expelled from Greece have been burned by the Greeks.

"It is logical that the Greeks in Constantinople be subjected to the same exchange as the others. It is thus easy to understand that the circulation of reports relative to the pretended insecurity of the Greeks in Constantinople is a Greek manoeuvre to exempt the Constantinople Greeks from exchange. These indefensibly false reports are not supported by the facts.

"The Holy See has, under circumstances extremely difficult and in periods of even graver confusion, repeatedly manifested its satisfaction at the treatment given Christians. We can certify that this same treatment is now guaranteed the Christian element, and that the rumors circulated at this moment are designed to influence the negotiations in the interests of the Greeks."

The frenzied character of yesterday's proceedings, in which Russia came to the fore as the willing champion of Turkish autonomy, is indicative of the extreme nervousness of Europe and the general unsettled conditions which provoked feelings of genuine despair on the part of the conference leaders.

So long as no actual break occurs there is hope that time will bring conciliatory views. That the worst is expected, however, is shown by the appearance here of a suggestion that a general war could be launched against Turkey by the League of Nations. Such a resort to force, it is suggested, might take the form of a sort of crusade through the issuance of an appeal for the help of all nations, so that the war might be ended quickly.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 5.—In response to a call from the French delegation to the Near East Conference General Pelle, French High Commissioner in Constantinople left here for Lausanne today for the purpose of briefing the conferees first-hand information concerning the local military and political situations.

It Just Can't Be Done!

Why home-made bread can't be as nutritious as

VITOVIM BREAD

THIS advertisement is addressed particularly to those women who for one reason or another still adhere to the old-fashioned practice of home-baking.

You are doubtless proud of your baking skill, and perhaps with good reason.

But no matter how tasty your home-made bread may be, you will have to admit that you cannot make a loaf as nourishing as WARD'S VITOVIM BREAD.

Your home-made bread will contain little or no vitamin B, that essential food-substance which your children need to make them grow big and strong and sturdy and which all of us, young and old, must have to help keep us healthy and vigorous.

Neither will your home-made bread contain the same wealth of mineral nutrients found in VITOVIM BREAD—the substances that help build up and preserve all parts of our bodies particularly our bones and teeth and which make this bread particularly valuable for expectant and nursing mothers and growing children.

Nor will it be so rich in the balanced proteins needed to nourish and repair the losses occasioned by the daily wear and tear on our body-tissues.

Only the Ward Baking Company knows how to extract all these vital food-factors from the germ and bran of the wheat and restore them to white bread.

In order to do this it was first necessary for the Ward Baking Company to construct in Warren, Ohio, a million-dollar extraction plant for the recovery of these elements from the germ or heart of the wheat berry.

This part of the wheat is one of Nature's richest storehouses of these precious nutrients, yet it must be discarded in the milling of white flour.

To make VITOVIM still more nourishing, every drop of water ordinarily used in bread-dough is replaced in the VITOVIM dough by rich whole milk—two-thirds of a pint to every loaf.

Even before the coming of VITOVIM, the Super-Bread, most women had abandoned home-baking as a foolish waste of time, labor and money. Now that science has created a loaf of bread far more nourishing than any home-made loaf can ever be, there is no longer any reasonable excuse for the drudgery of home-baking.

Remember our challenge: All competitive breads and all home-made breads are challenged to equal in public tests the nutritional value of WARD'S VITOVIM BREAD.

GREECE IS TOLD AMERICA IS SHOCKED

U. S. Charge d'Affaires Advises Acting Foreign Minister Sympathy Here Is Alienated.

PAPOULAS IS RELEASED

General Frangos Also Is Set Free by the Revolutionary Government at Athens.

ATHENS, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Jefferson Caffery, American Charge d'Affaires, visited M. Rentzis, Acting Foreign Minister in the new Government, for the first time today. Mr. Caffery denied rumors current here to the effect that diplomatic tension existed between the United States and Greece as a result of recent events in this country.

The rumors were strengthen by the presence of an American destroyer at Phaleron, which is now said to be stationed there to insure wireless communication with Constantinople, as it is feared that the Turks may obtain control of the cable. Regular communication between Athens and Constantinople is essential not only for official business, but to enable American relief organizations to communicate with each other.

General Papoulas, former commander-in-chief of the Greek army, and one of those arrested by the Revolutionary Committee in connection with the Greek military disaster in Asia Minor, has been liberated.

General Frangos, who commanded the Greek troops on the island of Mitylene, off the Smyrna coast, also was set free on parole, because of ill health.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—A dispatch to The London Times from Athens says Mr. Caffery told the acting French Minister that the executions of the former Ministers had created a most painful impression in the United States. The American Charge d'Affaires showed M. Rentzis extracts from American newspapers in support of his statement.

Mr. Caffery added, according to the dispatch, that Greece had alienated American sympathies for her and that Turkish propaganda in the United States was gaining ground. The American Government, however, did not wish to interfere in Greece's internal affairs.

Petros Tatanis, publisher of the Greek National Herald of New York, in a statement issued yesterday concerning the resignation of L. Coromilas, Greek Minister to Washington, said: "Mr. Coromilas has resigned because two of the executed Greek officials were his relatives. General Hadjianestis was his half brother, N. Stratos was his nephew."

CONDEMNS OUR NAVY POLICY

London Telegraph Says It Will Undo Work of Washington Conference.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Daily Telegraph, commenting on President Harding's expectation of a budget surplus next year, says:

"It is evidently the belief of President Harding that America can well afford to continue to support a national establishment which to the eyes of the poverty-stricken nations of Europe must appear to verge on extravagance. At any rate, he holds out no hope of a reduction of taxation in the near future. If any such hopes were entertained, it is apparent that they cannot be realized should the War and Navy Departments succeed in convincing the public of the virtue of the policies which they have outlined."

As to the announcement that the Navy Department intends, subject to the approval of Congress, "to create, maintain and operate a navy second to none and in conformity with the ratios of capital ships established by the treaty for the limitation of naval armaments," The Telegraph says:

"If that interpretation is adopted—and no doubt the United States is in a financial position to carry it out—it points to the undoing of the work accomplished last Spring at Washington. Whatever might be the attitude of this country—and, as was explained earlier in the year, the British Empire, being essentially maritime and this country being fed from the sea, needs many more cruisers than any other country—Japan, France and Italy would certainly protest against the general application of the 5-5-3-1.75-1.75 standard to all types of naval craft."

COUNT KAROLYI ON TRIAL.

Accused of High Treason in Delivering Hungary to Reds.

BUDAPEST, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—The trial of Count Michael Karolyi, former President of the Hungarian National Council, who is charged with high treason in delivering Hungary to Bolshevism, has begun here. The public prosecutor demanded the confiscation of all the accused's property.

The defense pleaded that the Karolyi family was reduced to poverty.

OLD LINER NEW YORK SOLD.

CONTANTINOPLE, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—The transatlantic liner New York, once the pride of the American passenger fleet, was sold at auction today by the American Consul General to an Italian merchant for $78,000, in partial satisfaction for the claims of half a dozen creditors aggregating a quarter of a million dollars.

On her last voyage the New York took forty days to reach Constantinople from New York. She was offered to the Near East Relief as a floating asylum for orphans, but the offer was declined, as it was found it would cost half a million dollars to condition her for service.

"KATY" WILL REORGANIZE.

New Company Is Authorized—Receivership to End.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Reorganization plans for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad, which has been in receivership for several years, were approved today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The new company, authorized to acquire all of the railroad lines and terminal properties of the old system, will have total stock and bond issues with a par value of $196,800,000 and 1,000,000 shares of common stock without par value. Its annual fixed interest charges will amount to $5,458,000. The commission also calculated that the total capitalization of the old company was $243,176,000, while its annual fixed charges had been $7,183,000.

The reorganization will start the new Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad in operation with capital liabilities of $46,-376,000 less than those carried by its predecessor.

Earnings of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas for the last eighteen months, the commission said, have been sufficient to meet the total annual bond interest and other fixed charges as the reorganization will leave them.

TO THE IRISH FREE STATE, 1922

"Ireland is now a nation. In that character I hail her, and bowing to her august presence, I say, esto perpetua."—Henry Grattan in the Irish House of Commons, Dublin, April 16, 1782.

I.
Deep soul of Ireland:
Motherland, sireland,
Burning, unquenchable soul
Of dauntless and dear Innisfail!
Out of sunbeam and moonbeam,
I'd spin for your wearing
The wild warp and woof
Of the faery-winged dream
Of the Gael,
Spotless and whole.

II.
On bended knees,
As I would my God,
I welcome you in the morning's gleam,
The sunburst gleam
Of cowslip gold,
To the gladness of the singing harps
Of old,
Tender and beautiful soul.

III.
Was it surely you, my love,
The pitiful woman of vanished time,
Crooning thro' nights of desperate years
For your martyred sons,
Their fallen pikes red-stained with rust,
Your daughters in the dust,

IV.
But now as the sun-clad vision lifts
Of Erin ruling our old Erin free,
Let your glory glow,
A dazzling flame
Shaped as our ancient sword
And I'll kiss your white feet on the hills
Of green,
My adored!

V.
Victorious, loving, past all bars
As the long years roll,
Sweep the world's heart with you
In a wave of joy
On Ireland's path among the stars.
Divine, immortal soul!

VI.
And whence your olden foe long launched
The bitter bolts of war,
Take heart and see a kinder face,
Her hand salute our deathless race,
Hear her Godspeed where love may lead
The footsteps of our fair Free State
To nobler heights of mind and heart;
Across the Irish Sea no bar,

VII.
And over all for signal
Let our purpose firm be seen
In the Union Flag of Ireland,
Our orange, white and green!

JOSEPH I. C. CLARKE.
New York, Dec. 5, 1922.

IRISH FREE STATE GETS KING'S ASSENT

and Mr. Healy a bitter fued existed from Parnell's time to a couple of years ago, refers to the appointment as an interesting departure from the invariable practice, as the Free State had asserted its right to select for its Governor General its own citizen and a commoner.

There is extraordinary quiet in Dublin this evening and from the country not a single report has been received of even the smallest operation by the republicans.

In an interview tonight at his beautiful residence at Chapelizod, in the suburbs of Dublin, Governor General Healy said that Ireland has received a measure of freedom such as not enjoyed by any of the States of the American Union, the only blot being the separation of the northern six counties. But he has the highest hopes that in time the feelings of the North and South will undergo a change and mutual concessions in a few years will discover some amalgamation to bring about reunification.

He was delighted to meet Mr. Cosgrave and General Mulcahy at Holyhead, and said:

"We were a very joyous company, and while we feel intensely its sorrows and sufferings which have accompanied the rebirth of the Irish nation I think the civic courage displayed by those who took the matter in hand is the best proof that nothing which public virtue and private worth can accomplish will be lacking in alleviating the strife or composing animosities of the people. We would ask the American public to give the new Government moral support, and at any rate not to give its enemies financial support."

Recalls Visit to United States.

Mr. Healy recalled that forty-one years ago he visited nearly every State in the Union, seeking Irish and American sympathy for Ireland's struggle, going to every State from New York to Galveston and from Galveston to San Francisco. The sustentation fund then raised had much to do with planting the Irish tenantry as freeholders of the soil, liberated from what Lord Balfour admitted was the most odious and impossible system of land tenure that ever cursed agriculture.

"Now," said Mr. Healy, "as the opponents of the Free State have no policy save wrecking railways, breaking canals, robbing banks, burning houses, ambushing troops and laying road mines, any American or Irish-American who sends money here to injure the Free State should know the nature of the campaign he is subscribing to keep up."

Mr. Healy next discussed the duties of the Governor General as regards parliamentary bills and said he would have to see that there were no infractions of the Constitution on the one side or of the treaty on the other. As regards taking orders from the Irish Government he thinks his position is much the same as the Canadian Governor General.

As regards his residence he hopes to remain where he is, and asked if there will be any vice-regal state he replied he hoped not. As to a vice-regal court, he said it was the last thing he should think of. He would never, he declared, accept a title. The keynote of his office would be simplicity, and on ceremonial occasions he hoped to be allowed to dress as he was alluding to the morning suit he was wearing. "But that, he said, "is in the hands of the Irish Government." He added:

"I have always been Tim Healy, and as Governor General of the Irish Free State I shall always hope to remain the same Tim Healy."

Asked if he would have a bodyguard, he replied that de Valera would be a better judge of that. Free State guards have been posted to protect Healy against any rebel plot.

Free State Will Be Set Up Today.

Tomorrow the Irish Free State—the Saorstat Eireann, to give it its official Gaelic title—will be formally established.

From her bed in a nursing home, whither she was removed after her release from Mountjoy Prison, Miss Mary MacSwiney declared today: "The Free State is dead." To an unprejudiced observer, on the contrary, it appears to be very much alive, and public confidence is indicated by the fact that competition in the property market, which had declined to the vanishing point, is once more brisk.

The Republicans, diminished though they are numerically owing to the vigilance of the National army, are determined to continue their efforts to encompass their ideal. Liam Lynch, rebel leader, is understood to have slipped through cordons and to be at present in Dublin with de Valera, and the prospect of militant plans maturing must not be ignored.

From a military source it is learned that the only parts of the country where a writ of the Free State does not run are in sections of Cork, Kerry, Northern Sligo, Mayo and West Galway. Elsewhere except for tip and run attacks, which are spasmodically organized, the Free State armies are firmly installed.

A system of patrol boats has been instigurated to prevent gun-running, especially into the neighborhood of Dublin.

The formal creation of the Free State will be marked by the Post Office by an issue to a limited extent of new stamps.

Mr. Healy will be sworn in tomorrow as Governor General by Lord Chief Justice Molony, probably at the Viceregal Lodge, and the fact that this function is reposed in the head of the Irish judiciary is another evidence of the independent status of the Saorstat Eireann.

Healy's first official act, according to one of the Cabinet, will be the appointment of the Speaker, and he may also address the Dail. The Deputies will be required to subscribe to the approved affirmation laid down in the treaty and afterward the President will be elected and the Ministry formed.

Rebels Ban Payment of Taxes.

A republican proclamation was issued tonight enjoining all citizens of the "republic" to refuse payment of income tax, land commission annuities, rents or payments to the Congested Districts Board, and generally all moneys demanded by any department "acting with or under authority of the British Government, directly or through its servants and agents; to the so-called provisional Government of Southern Ireland or any other body purporting to exercise authority devolved from the Irish Parliament." All such moneys, it says, must be paid to the Government of the "republic."

The proclamation declares that the "Republican Government" will make arrangements to assess, collect and disburse in the interests of the citizens all taxes, rents, annuities and other public revenues.

The proclamation is signed by P. Rutledge, Minister of Home Affairs, and Austin Stack, Minister of Finance. A notice attached says that no money, securities or other assets of the "republic" are to be paid, transferred or handed over to any person, body or corporation except on written order of Finance Minister Stack and "President" de Valera.

COSGRAVE GREETS HEALY.

He and Mulcahy Go to Holyhead to Escort New Governor to Ireland.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The dash of William T. Cosgrave, President of the Dail Eireann, to England last night was followed this morning by a dramatic meeting with Tim Healy, which may mark the turning point in the turbulent history of Ireland—that of the first President of the new Free tate and its first Governor General.

There was much speculation as to the reason that brought Mr. Cosgrave away from his sick wife's bedside to make this hurried journey to Holyhead. It was his wish to greet Mr. Healy before he left this country and to escort him to Ireland. With Mr. Cosgrave was General Mulcahy, the Irish Commander in Chief, and their historic meeting with Mr. Healy, which was most cordial, took place at Holyhead aboard the mailboat Hibernia bound for Kingstown.

Mr. Healy's arrival at Holyhead was as unexpected as Mr. Cosgrave's departure from Dublin last night. Few people knew that the new Governor General was aboard the Hibernia. As Mr. Healy stepped from the train to embark on the steamer a porter seized his baggage and it was searched for arms and ammunition by a customs officer as if he were an ordinary passenger. The officer smiled when he learned whose baggage it was and said he found nothing to confiscate.

When President Cosgrave was questioned as to the reason for his arrival at Holyhead, he replied at first that he was merely meeting a friend from London, but afterwards he admitted it was for the purpose of greeting Mr. Healy.

Mr. Cosgrave said the situation in Ireland was well in hand and that he had high hopes that the end of their troubles was in sight. The union of the North and the South, he added, could not long be delayed, for the line which divided them was an unnatural one. He expressed delight at Mr. Healy's appointment, which he declared would undoubtedly be popular among all classes in Ireland.

Mr. Healy's selection has been received in England with the greatest satisfaction, and reports from abroad show that it has world-wide approval.

HID MUNITIONS FOR IRELAND

Supplies Labeled Putty Found in Vessel From Liverpool.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—On a vessel sailing from Liverpool to a port in South Ireland have been found many thousand rounds of rifle and revolver ammunition and a large quantity of chemicals used in the manufacture of high explosives. The ammunition was discovered in bandoliers concealed in innocent-looking cases labeled "putty" and actually covered with a six-inch layer of putty.

In twelve large cases labeled as containing soda and purporting to have come from London were stored chemicals.

Searches on other vessels bound for Ireland revealed 1,200 rounds of ammunition concealed in cattle food.

FASCISTI WARN CRIMINALS.

Beating First, Then Killing for Alessandria Offenders.

ROME, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—The Fascisti organization in the Province of Alessandria has called a stern halt to the activities of criminals. Dr. Ramindo Sala, the Secretary, caused all the known malefactors to be summoned before him, and then addressed them in the following words:

"Hereafter the Fascisti undertake the administration of justice, adopting different laws from those of the judicial authorities. Whoever is guilty will not be sent to prison, but to the hospital—after being clubbed.

"If, after such lessons, inveterate offenders still exist, the next time the clubbing will be such as to send them not to the hospital but to the cemetery."

After this warning the criminals, including murderers, thieves, forgers and blackmailers filed before Dr. Sala, who took their names and addresses and asked whether they were unemployed. If so, he promised to find work for them.

A short time later two of the men who had attended the meeting were found stealing in the market place. The Fascisti clubbed them severely, bundled them off to a hospital, and then denounced them to the judicial authorities.

Mauretania to Go Into Dry Dock.

SOUTHAMPTON, Dec. 5.—In consequence of trouble with her turbines, the Cunard Line steamer Mauretania will go into dry dock for overhauling. The vessel will not resume her transatlantic sailings until the new year.

WOMEN ASK TREATIES IN SPIRIT OF LEAGUE

HAVE FAILED IN OPERATION

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 5.—The Executive Committee of the Women's Conference has decided not to discuss the five resolutions prepared for presentation because the time is insufficient. Only the following summary resolution will be proposed Saturday:

"The peace treaties are contrary to the armistice terms, that is, Wilson's fourteen points. They are inconsistent with the spirit of the League of Nations as expressed in the covenant, and do, in fact, 'endanger world peace.' They have proved disastrous in practice, notably by preventing (a) economic reconstruction, (b) preventing progress in disarmament and (c) making a real and effective League of Nations impossible. Therefore this conference demands a new peace based on new international agreements."

The delegates live in an atmosphere of idealism. The Chairman of the Dutch section, Mme. Ramondt Hirschmann, when asked why nothing would be said regarding the German colonies, answered that the conference members were against any colonies at all. Asked whether the conference was pro-German, she declared its standpoint was international and the Germans kept themselves in the background, but that M. Buisson, a member of the French Parliament, would address the conference.

Altogether the delegates feel that the world's ills cannot be healed except through international co-operation, which is sadly lacking, and this they once more desire to impress on the world, still hoping, almost against hope, that they can do some good.

The conference will begin on Thursday with an address of welcome by Mme. Rasmondt Hirschmann and opened by Miss Jane Addams, while Mrs. Swanwick of London and Mrs. Surofsova of Ukrainia will discuss the general and political effects of the peace treaties.

Friday will be devoted entirely to the economic effects of the treaties, the speakers being Sir George Paish, Alfons Horten, Mrs. Helene Stoecker, Miss Margaret Bondfield and M. Buisson.

Saturday, the third and last day, the militiary effects of the treaties will be discussed by Mrs. Biddle Lewis of America and Mlle. Pottecher Arnould of Paris, and their psychic effects by Mme. Jouve of Paris and Mme. Vilma Glucklich of Budapest. Finally the summary resolution will be proposed.

The conference takes place at the Hotel Wittebrug, but public meetings the same evening at the Zoological Gardens will be addressed by Mlle. Jeanne Melin of France, Mme. Bakker Van Bosse, Holland; Mme. Lucie Dejardin, Belgium; Fraulein Lida Gustave Heymann, Germany; Comte Lucidi, Italy, and Miss Catharine Marshall, England.

SUTPHIN TELLS OF SLAYING.

Forced to Shoot Bierman, He Says, Testifying in His Own Defense.

Harry Sutphin, Queens politician, and editor of The Borough Bulletin, who is being tried before Justice Lewis L. Fawcett in Queens Supreme Court on a charge of manslaughter in the first degree in connection with the killing of William Bierman of Jamaica, Oct. 9, told the jury yesterday, as a witness in his own defense, that he shot Bierman when Bierman assaulted him over a political difference.

Sutphin testified that Bierman had said to him, "You've got to line up and support Noble." The reference was to Surrogate Daniel Noble, who was a candidate for re-election last November. Sutphin testified that he tried to avoid Bierman, but the latter kept following him. In the Oxford Hotel, where they arrived late at night, he said Bierman struck him twice. In front of his home Sutphin said that Bierman grabbed him by the throat and said he was going to kill him. Sutphin then drew his revolver and shot, he said.

Mexico to Deport Rebellious Chinese

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5.—One hundred and seventy-eight Chinese are imprisoned at Mazatlan awaiting deportation. They are charged with rebellious activities in Sinaloa. They attempted to mutiny last night, but the guards succeeded in putting down the disorders.

ZIONIST FACTIONS MEET.

They Agree to Co-operate in Palestine Development Projects.

Representatives of the Zionist Organization of America and of the Palestine Development Council at a conference last night in the offices of Nathan Straus, in the Aeolian Building, appointed a joint committee to devise means of co-operation between the two bodies in raising funds for the Rutenberg electrification and the irrigation project for Palestine.

The Zionist Organization of America has been split since June, 1921, when the then administration, headed by Justice Louis D. Brandeis and Judge Julian W. Mack, resigned from office in consequence of a difference of opinion over the Zionist policy of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, as head of the World Zionist Organization. Together with their followers, the outgoing administration subsequently established the Palestine Development Council, ultimately becoming a "body composed of Zionists and non-Zionists alike and limited in its activities to social and economic enterprises for the upbuilding of Palestine." The Zionist Organization of America, at its last convention in Philadelphia in June, adopted a resolution extending an invitation to the Palestine Development Council for a conference.

At the conference, on behalf of the Palestine Development Council, were Judge Julian W. Mack, Chairman; Mrs. Mary Fels, Dr. Stephen S. Wise and Messrs. Sol Rosenbloom, Louis Rosensohn and Gedalia Bublick, and on behalf of the Zionist Organization, Morris Rothenberg, Chairman of the committee; Judge Jacob Mosee of Baltimore, and Louis Robison, William Edlin, William Topkis and Senior Abel.

A resolution was unanimously adopted which in part declared:

"It is the sense of this meeting that the Zionist Organization of America and the Palestine Development Council cooperate in raising the necessary funds for the Rutenberg project by the sale of trust certificates or stock and that a sub-committee of two from each of the groups in this conference be appointed to work out the details of co-operation."

CHURCH TO HEAR DANCER.

Isadora Duncan to Speak in St. Mark's, but Not Perform.

Isadora Duncan, whose scantily clad dancing recently made Boston and Chicago indignant, announced in Memphis, Tenn., Monday, that she would dance on Christmas Eve in the Episcopal Church of St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie in New York and that she would deliver a sermon there on "The Moralising Effect of Dancing on the Human Soul." According to Miss Duncan the church pipe organ will furnish the music for her terpsichorean performance. She added that she had received an invitation from the Rev. Dr. William Norman Guthrie, rector of the church, soon after she reached Memphis, and had telegraphed her acceptance.

The Rev. Dr. Guthrie, who has favored the use of dancing in connection with religion, and has introduced some unusual features of that nature at his church, was out of the city yesterday. His secretary said that Miss Duncan would give a short talk in the church on the afternoon of Dec. 24, but denied that she was to dance.

RUSSELL MUST DEFEND SUIT

Mississippi Governor's Demurrer in Stenographer's Action Fails.

OXFORD, Miss., Dec. 5.—Trial of the suit for damages brought by Miss Frances C. Birkhead, stenographer, against Lee M. Russell, Governor of Mississippi, will begin tomorrow in the United States District Court here. Preliminaries were cleared today with a ruling by Judge Holmes setting aside a demurrer in which the defense contended that the allegations as made in the declaration were insufficient to warrant the suit.

Judge Holmes agreed with the defense on one point, that a promise of marriage such as is alleged by Miss Birkhead to have been made to her by Governor Russell, would be void as an allegation as against public policy. Miss Birkhead charged the Governor with breach of promise incidental to the basic charge of seduction, on which one count in her suit for damages is based.

ROBERTSON FIGHTS TRIAL.

Oklahoma Governor Again Seeks to Bar Action on Bribery Charge.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—A petition for a writ of prohibition restraining Special Judge Thomas A. Edwards from "attempting to hold a term of court at Ada on Dec. 12, or any other date when said court is not in session," was filed by District Judge J. W. Bolen of Ada in the State Supreme Court late today.

Judge Edwards was appointed by Chief Justice John E. Harrison of the Supreme Court to try the bribery charge against Governor J. C. Robertson at Ada on Dec. 12, after Judge Bolen had been restrained from acting in the case.

POLICE GIVE BANTON LIST OF 800 IN KLAN

police have been keeping a close watch on Klan activities since the Mayor's instructions, but doubt was expressed that they had succeeded in discovering any violation of the law.

It is in violation of the law for three or more masked persons to meet in public places or other places, but this provision seems to be known to the Klan leaders, for in at least two meetings where masked Klansmen are said to have appeared, precautions were taken not to violate this provision. At one of these meetings, according to those who were present, only two men appeared in masks, while at the other meeting only the speaker was shrouded in hood and gown.

Mr. Pecora said he doubted if the law prohibiting the assemblage of disguised persons in "public places" would apply to a Klan meeting held in a private house or apartment.

BLAME CHURCH FIRES ON KLAN IN CANADA

OKA, Quebec, Dec. 5.—Priceless historical records of the early days of New France, removed to this village in 1821 for preservation, were lost today in a fire that swept the Rest House of the priestly order known as the Gentlemen of St. Sulpice, part of which was used as a presbytery for parish priests. The property damage was estimated at nearly $100,000.

The Sulpician Church, next to the burned building, and the Convent of the Sisters of the Congregation of Notre Dame, adjoining, escaped the flames.

The burned structure contained forty rooms and served during the Summer as a rest house for members of the Sulpician order. It was situated on the shore of the Lake of Two Mountains. Only the walls remain in the section of the building where the blaze started.

MONTREAL, Dec. 5.—A denial that the Ku Klux Klan was in any way responsible for the series of conflagrations which have occurred during the last fortnight in Catholic institutions in widely separated cities of Canada was contained in a telegram received by the authorities tonight from William J. Simmons of Atlanta, Ga., Imperial Wizard of the Klan.

"Authorize you to make categorical denial that the Ku Klux Klan is in any way responsible for incendiary fires in Canada or elsewhere," said the message.

It is presumed to have been prompted by publication of reports that Mayor Martin had received numerous communications signed "K. K. K." claiming responsibility for the Montreal University fire of two weeks ago.

K. K. K. threats to burn other Catholic institutions also have been received by the Mayor, he revealed today.

Previous indications of a campaign of incendiarism against Catholic institutions in Canada have been reported recently, and the burning of the Sulpician Fathers' historic seminary and church at Oka today was the fifth fire in Catholic institutions in the Dominion in the last few weeks. St. Boniface College, near Winnipeg, was destroyed on Nov. 28, when ten students lost their lives. The dental school of the University of Montreal was damaged twice last month and Tuyenant College was damaged in the blaze that devastated the village of Terrebonne on Dec. 1.

NEGRO RECEIVES A MESSAGE

"Segregation Is Right," Atlantic City Klan Tells Lawyer.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 5.—"Segregation is right." This brief sentence, written on the stationery of the Ku Klux Klan, has created a sensation here. The letter was received by James A. Lightfoot, a negro attorney, who has been one of the chief opponents of the move on the part of the Board of Education to segregate negro school children.

The communication is accepted as evidence that a chapter of the Klan has been formed in Atlantic County. There have been frequent reports that Klansmen in their white regalia have been in various parts of the county. The reader of the letter brought a hurried conference between Lightfoot and Lloyd Nutter, another negro attorney. They are the recognized leaders of about 12,000 negro voters in the county. In a joint statement they defied what they termed a threat.

Klan Wants Religion in Schools.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Dec. 5.—The Board of Education today considered a request by the Youngstown branch of the Ku Klux Klan that representatives of the Klan, the Knights of Columbus and the B'nai Brith be summoned to a conference to work out a system of religious instruction in the public schools. The board decided to consider the proposal, but took no definite action.

ITALY NEGOTIATING TREATY WITH SOVIET

MOSCOW OFFERS GRANTS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Dec. 5.—Leonid Krassin, the Soviet Minister of Trade, has been in Italy for some time, displaying great activity in negotiations for a commercial treaty between Italy and Russia. With this object in view, he has already had important conversations with several leading Italians, including Premier Mussolini.

Krassin found Mussolini very willing to come to some understanding, it being part of the Premier's policy, as explained to the Chamber at its opening session recently, to arrive at a rapprochement with Russia.

This is not the first attempt at an Italo-Russian commercial treaty. After the Genoa Conference M. Tchitcherin remained several days in Genoa discussing a proposed commercial treaty with Senator Schanzer, and an agreement was reached, but the Soviet refused to ratify the treaty as drafted, with the result that it never went into force. Now, however, from all indications it appears that the negotiations with Mussolini are about to bear fruit.

Russians Offer Concessions.

The Russians offer the Italians important concessions in South Russia, including oil in the Caucasus, coal in the Donets basin, farming lands in Ukrainia and certain mines of lesser importance. The Italians, on their part, it is proposed, shall bind themselves to send fully equipped workmen to exploit these riches on a profit-sharing basis with Russia, contributing energy and money to the rebuilding of Russia.

Two main points have so far been decided. They are:

First, that Italy will send Russia a diplomatic representative, even if he is to have the character of a commercial and economic representative.

Second, that a mixed committee will be formed of judicial, commercial and economic experts to examine in a friendly spirit the various problems of common interest.

Mussolini Meeting With Ninchich.

The negotiations have been interrupted owing to Mussolini going to Milan for a meeting with M. Ninchich, the Jugoslav Foreign Minister. It is unlikely that they will be resumed until after his return from the London conference of allied Premiers.

The Italian press is inclined to attach great importance to the meeting between Mussolini and Ninchich, all the more so because the news of Mussolini's going to Milan was published simultaneously with word that Premier Pachitch had presented his resignation to the King of Jugoslavia. It is pointed out that Pachitch has represented the intransigeant section of the Jugoslavs, while Ninchich has stood for greater moderation. Mussolini was accompanied by Senator Contarini, who played a great part in drafting the treaty of Rapallo.

All questions between Italy and Jugoslavia were settled in the treaty of Rapallo, and Mussolini has declared to the Chamber that his foreign policy would be based on the principle that all treaties, whether good or bad, must be loyally carried out once they were ratified. As the treaty of Rapallo has never been ratified by the Italian Parliament, Mussolini believes that he is still in time to alter it without breaking his word. It is significant, however, that it was Ninchich, not Mussolini, who asked for the meeting.

Claim on Saloniki Renewed.

The facts leading up to the meeting are:

In the treaty of Bucharest, after the second Balkan war, Greece bound herself to give Serbia, which then possessed no outlet to the sea, the free use of Saloniki Harbor for her commerce. After the World War, when Serbia absorbed Croatia to form the Jugoslav Kingdom, thereby gaining outlets on the Adriatic, Greece thought that the agreement relative to Saloniki no longer had any raison d'être. Jugoslavia, not wishing to cause embarrassment for Greece, which was engaged in war with Turkey, took no steps to enforce the agreement.

Now, however, that the whole Near Eastern and Balkan question is being gone into at Lausanne, Jugoslavia again wishes to bring forward its claim on Saloniki. To have Italy's support for Jugoslavia's claims Ninchich asked to have the conversation with Mussolini.

Mussolini's view is that if Jugoslavia has an outlet on the Aegean she will not need so many outlets on the Adriatic. He therefore proposes that if Jugoslavia wishes to press her claim on Saloniki she should first revise with Italy her position on the Adriatic. What Italy chiefly wants are improved conditions for Fiume and the enlargement of the hinterland around Zara.

Russians Seize Italian Ships.

RIGA, Dec. 5.—The Russian Soviet Government has closed and sealed the Odessa premises of the Italian Lloyd Triestino and confiscated three of the company's steamers, besides goods belonging to Italian merchants.

The Government declares that it will rescind its order of confiscation provided that normal commercial activity is guaranteed to Russian representatives in Italy and the orders relative to the sequestration of Russian deposits in Italy are withdrawn.

WON'T RECOGNIZE SOVIET.

State Department Says Skvirsky Has No Official Status Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Both at the White House and the State Department today it was made plain that the amalgamation of the so-called Far Eastern Republic of Siberia with Soviet Russia has effected no change in the attitude of the American Government toward the Bolshevist régime.

This was in reply to inquiries concerning reports that, as American Consular representatives in the territory of the former Chita Government are now in territory falling under the jurdiction of Moscow Soviet régime in direct contact, as bringing the United States and the Moscow Soviet régime in direct contact.

According to the same reports, Boris E. Skvirsky, who has been in Washington for a year serving as Acting Chairman of the special trade delegation of the Far Eastern Republic to the United States, would now become the accredited representative of the Soviet Government in Washington.

A high official of the State Department explained that M. Skvirsky had never been received by the American Government in any accredited capacity and that he has no status except that of an alien living in Washington.

HILLMAN HAS FAITH IN SOVIET PURPOSE

WILL GO AHEAD WITH PLAN

Declares Investors Will Be Guaranteed Dividends by Treasury of the Country.

In spite of the withdrawal of William O. Thompson as financial adviser of the Russian-American Industrial Corporation, due to his distrust of the Soviet Government, Sidney Hillman, President of the corporation, announced yesterday that he still had faith in the integrity of the Russian authorities and that he intended to continue the plan to establish clothing manufactories in that country.

Mr. Hillman, who is also General President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, has just returned from Russia, where he completed negotiations with the Soviet authorities for the clothing enterprise. He declared that there was no foundation for the statements by Mr. Thompson that the money of the investors in the corporation was not secured and would be "merely handing over to the Government a large sum of money for its own purposes."

Outlines Soviet Contract.

"Before referring to any of Mr. Thompson's statements in detail," said Mr. Hillman, "we must make plain what contracts and assurances we have from the Soviet Government.

"We are investing immediately $200,000 in the syndicate which heads the national clothing and textile industry, does its buying and selling, and one of whose chief functions is the furnishing of working capital. We are prepared to invest the rest of the $1,000,000 as the opportunity arises. We shall share in the profits of this industry in proportion to our investment. Whether or not the profits are sufficient, however, we are guaranteed, through a contract with the Supreme Council of Public Economy, a minimum dividend of 8 per cent., payable annually.

"This contract is underwritten by the supreme authority of the Soviet Government, the Council of Labor and Defense. Funds to meet dividend payments, if they do not come from profits of the textile and clothing industry, are therefore to be paid out of other funds controlled by the Supreme Council of Public Economy, and if such funds are not sufficient, they are to be paid out of the National Treasury of Russia.

"According to the decree of the Council of Labor and Defense, we may withdraw our investments at the end of three years, or the investment may be paid back at any time after the three-year period on the initiative of the Russian Government itself. All payments to us, whether of dividends or of principal, are to be made in dollars, at such points as we specify. All such payments are also specifically exempted from taxation.

"The security of the American investors in the corporation therefore rests upon the pledged and contracted faith of the Soviet Government. No Government could do more.

Takes Issue With Thompson.

"Mr. Thompson makes the point that we are not at present sharing in the management of the Russian factories themselves, and that our partnership in the syndicate puts us in the position of minority stockholders. In answer to this it must be said that management of the factories was offered to us in Mr. Thompson's hearing, and was refused for the present because we are not yet ready to determine to what extent we are ready and able to participate in the management. It was thought that for a while we should be safer not to share in this special responsibility at such a distance. We can, however, alter our decision in the future, if we wish to do so.

"Mr. Thompson, speaking according to his experience and his lights, had a right to come to the conclusion which he has indicated. We are not offering stock in the Russian-American Industrial Corporation to those whose principal interest is in obtaining the largest possible security in an investment for purely money-making purposes. We are offering it to those who are interested in Russian industrial reconstruction and wish to help. We know of no more practical way to help Russian industries, because its chief need at present is working capital. We believe firmly that investors in our corporation will be protected by the stability and good faith of the Soviet Government."

Mr. Hillman made public a radiogram from Mr. Thompson to the stockholders of the corporation, which showed that his attitude is still friendly to the undertaking.

In this telegram Mr. Thompson said that he could not consider the venture from the business standpoint and for that reason had resigned, adding: "I realize full well that in such economic experiments the faith and hope of a people is a large factor in success and I believe that your venture may be well worth while for the investment of those who believe in such an experiment even though I do not share in this belief."

BELLEVUE ORDERLY HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Wright, 20, Accused of Felonious Assault on One Man and Simple Assault on Another.

Accused of having seriously injured two men in a fist fight in a Bellevue Hospital dormitory late Monday night, Harold Wright, 20, for the last eighteen days an orderly at the hospital, was yesterday arraigned before Magistrate Earl in the Yorkville Court.

The injured were David Laghlan, 30, whose skull possibly was fractured when he fell to the dormitory floor from a blow, and Joseph O'Connor, special officer at the hospital, who suffered a fractured nose and lacerations of the face when he tried to stop the fight between Wright and Laghlan.

Wright, said to be a former sailor and prizefighter, was charged with felonious assault for the attack on Laghlan and simple assault for the attack on O'Connor. He was held without bail on the first charge and in bail of $1,000 on the second for examination Dec. 7 by Magistrate Earl Smith.

No one, including Wright, seemed to know how the fight started. Orderlies and porters in the dormitory tried to stop the fight, but it was not until Patrolman Patrick Brennan of the East Twenty-second Street Station was called that order was restored.

SALE OF EARLY FURNITURE.

American Block Front Bureau Brings Top Price, $590.

The first session of the sale of early American and English furniture from the collection of Wilbur J. Cooke of Philadelphia, brought $7,710.50 yesterday afternoon at the Anderson Galleries. Included in the sale are specimens by Duncan Phyfe and Savery, and family portraits by Rembrandt Peale, Sully, Copley and Stewart.

An eighteenth century American block front bureau of mahogany was bought by H. M. Lehman for $590, the highest price of the afternoon. This is one of the two pieces acquired from the estate of Anne Cooke of Hartford. An eighteenth century carved mahogany Chippendale flat top writing table was bought on order for $430. F. L. Crocker paid $400 for six carved beech eighteenth century Queen Anne chairs, and $400 for four similar armchairs and $300 for a Queen Anne settee.

NEW YORK MAIL LOOT FOUND IN TWO CITIES

Ten Philadelphia Business Men to Be Asked About $280,000 Bonds in Bank There.

NEW YORKERS INVOLVED

Chicago Police Seek Man Who Got Loan on $21,000 Bonds Also Stolen in This City.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Ten prominent business men of this city have been subpoenaed to appear before the Federal Grand Jury Thursday to explain what they know of the discovery of $280,000 worth of bonds in a national bank in this city. The bonds are part of a $1,300,000 robbery of securities from a mail truck in New York one year ago.

The Philadelphians are part of the large number of men who were asked by a "group" of bankers in New York to negotiate a loan from a local national bank and the stolen bonds were used as security. Government officials refused to discuss the case and to make public the names of the men who will be summoned before the Grand Jury.

It is known, however, that four business men of New York came to this city and through the Philadelphia group negotiated loans aggregating $274,400 from the bank, offering the stolen bonds and other bonds which it is now believed were also stolen, as security. The collateral which was put up at the bank amounted to $300,000. One of the men who helped negotiate the loan and who is said to be a prominent Philadelphian, told the representatives at the bank when he applied for the loan that he was an agent of the Soviet Government and desired the loan in order to purchase farming implements for the Russian Government.

The total loans of $274,000 were made by the bank in four instalments. The first instalment was for $85,000, the second for $53,000, the third for $133,000 and the fourth for $3,400. Two of the bonds which the group of Philadelphians is said to have offered as collateral have been identified as those which were stolen in a robbery in Los Angeles some time ago, and another was said to have been identified as having been taken from the office of a New York lawyer three months ago.

Neither United States Attorney George W. Coles, nor his assistant, J. Paul Mackrell, who is in active charge of the case, would discuss it to any extent.

"I will not give out the names of anyone connected with this affair until the matter is presented to the Grand Jury," Mr. Coles said. "We want to determine whether the men we have summoned had any knowledge that the bonds had been stolen, and we will try to learn that fact through an investigation by the Grand Jury.

"It would not be fair to these men, who are prominent business men, to mention their names at this time. I want the Federal Grand Jury to go thoroughly into the matter. One of the important features of the investigation will be the circumstances under which the loans were negotiated and who acted as representative of the bank, and how the persons to whom the loans were made were able to obtain such large amounts, although the security offered was apparently 'gilt-edged.'"

It was learned today that the bonds were located in the bank some time ago by Secret Service agents who were detailed on the case some time ago. The matter was kept a secret until the Government agents had finished their investigation, and a report was then made to United States Attorney Coles.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Recovery of $21,000 in Argentine bonds stolen in a mail robbery in New York in October, 1921, started the police today in a search for a man who placed them as collateral at a west side bank.

The man gave his name as James Mullen when he deposited $21,000 in Argentine bonds. They were identified as part of the New York loot after he had borrowed $16,000 on them and then had ordered them sold.

Money, securities and jewelry to the amount of $2,400,000 were obtained by three bandits when they stared the hold-up of the mail truck in Leonard Street near Broadway on the evening of Oct. 24, 1921. Gerald Chapman and George Anderson were sentenced to twenty-five years' imprisonment each last August for taking part in the hold-up and Charles Loerber, the third bandit, who testified against them in the Federal Court, received a year's imprisonment.

Appoints Feury Surgeon General.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 5.—Governor Edwards today relieved William G. Schauffler of Princeton as Surgeon General of the New Jersey National Guard, and named Lieut. Col. Nicholas F. Feury of Jersey City, a member of the Executive's personal staff, to the position. The Governor also set Dec. 15 for the election of a Brigadier General.

CANCER HOSPITAL RETIRES A DOCTOR

from active service at the hospital, although he still was a member of the medical staff, the Board of Governors and the Executive Committee. Two weeks ago, he said, he had gone down to the hospital, at Second Avenue and Nineteenth Street, to give diplomas to the Bulkley Nurses Training School, connected with the institution.

On the Staff Since 1882.

"I have been on the staff of the hospital ever since I helped to create it in 1882," he said. "I was the only physician on the staff at that time and I appointed the others. After the hospital had grown I took charge of the skin diseases and the cancer section was in charge of others, who were for the most part surgeons. Although my work was dermatology, I became interested in the treatment of cancer by medicine. When I wrote my first book on cancer in 1905 I sent copies of it to members of the Board of Governors.

"Members of the board later asked me why the treatment that I described in my book was not given at the hospital, and it was suggested that a medical clinic for the treatment of cancer be started. I took charge of this clinic and treated from fifty to one hundred persons a week. It got bigger than the surgical clinic.

"The medical staff of the hospital, which has about ten members, passed resolutions about a year ago recommending that the medical treatment of cancer at the hospital be stopped. The recommendation was acted upon at a governors meeting at which I was present and, as I had urged that the recommendation of the medical staff be adopted in medical and surgical matters, the clinic was discontinued. That ended my active work at the hospital."

Dr. Bulkley said that he had treated more than 100,000 cancer cases by medicine. He contends that more good is accomplished by careful dietetic, hygienic and medicinal measures than by surgery, X-rays and medicine. Not more than one in 100 cases of cancer is treated by medicine, however, he said.

"I will make a fuller statement in reply to the Board of Governors as soon as I can spare the time from my new book," he said.

3 KILLED, 11 HURT IN AUTO CRASHES

6 CHILDREN AMONG INJURED

Boy Suffers Broken Jaw When Machine Hits Trolley Car—Auto Strikes "L" Pillar, 4 Hurt.

Two men and a woman were killed and eleven injured in automobile accidents yesterday.

Knute Peterson, 48, of Twenty-fourth Street and Siegal Avenue, East Elmhurst, Queens, died in a Flushing Hospital ambulance from injuries sustained last night when he was struck by a truck owned by the New York and Queens Electric Light and Power Company at Astoria Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, near his home. Thomas Whittaker of 212 Vanderventer Avenue, Flushing, operator of the truck, was arrested on a charge of homicide.

Charles Freuk, 61, of 1,000 Hicksville Street, struck while crossing the street at Nostrand Avenue and Fulton Street, Brooklyn, died from injuries. Arthur H. Moodke of 508 Hendrix Street, the driver, was held in $10,000 bail on a charge of homicide in the Gates Avenue Court.

Mrs. Bridget Ansley, 60, was killed near her home, in Kirkwood, N. J. The driver escaped.

Six children, invited for a ride by Roger O'Gara of 221 East Forty-eighth Street were injured last evening when O'Gara lost control and the machine crashed into the rear of a surface car at First Avenue and Seventy-first Street.

Francis Welt, 15, of 1,327 Avenue A, suffered a broken jaw, and Harry O'Dowd, 14, of 1,218 First Avenue, sustained lacerations. They were attended by Ambulance surgeons. Catherine O'Keefe, 10, and her brother, John, 5, of 438 East Sixty-sixth Street; Jeremiah Shurik, 10, of 425 East Sixty-fifth Street, and Hugo Baemler, 10, of 1,280 Avenue A, were treated for shock.

A chauffeur was seriously hurt and three young women suffered lacerations and bruises when their car crashed into an elevated pillar at Broadway and 218th Street. Anthony Aulio, 25, of 506 West Fifty-fifth Street, was removed to Columbus Hospital. Alice Tillo, Pearl Ip, of 152 East 109th Street; Miss Mary Martin, 19, of 250 West Fifty-second Street, and Miss Norma Parks, 25, of 363 West Fifty-seventh Street, were attended by Dr. Sabatis, of the hospital, then went to their homes. While crossing Sixth Avenue at Forty-third Street, Mrs. Consuelo Austin, 29, of 363 West 116th Street, was knocked down by a taxicab. She was treated at Roosevelt Hospital for contusions.

Horse-Drawn Truck Kills Boy of 6.

Leo Schulcrab, 6, 208 East 109th Street, was killed yesterday afternoon when he was run down by a horse-drawn truck owned by Conners Bros., contractors and builders, 15 West Ninety-first Street, and driven by Charles Burgess, 1,240 Fulton Avenue. The boy had climbed to the back of the truck and when ordered off he fell under the rear wheel in dismounting.

GOES BAREFOOT FOR HEALTH

Chelsea Man Has Traveled 50,000 Miles Without Shoes.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—"If you want to remain immune to pneumonia this Winter go around barefoot," declares "Barefoot Gene" Willard of Chelsea.

"Barefoot Gene," as he is known to every man, woman and child in Chelsea, has traveled over 50,000 miles in his bare feet. His wanderings have taken him into almost every city and town in this country and in Europe. The only time he wears shoes is when propriety demands.

The weather has no terrors for Willard. He has traveled snow-capped mountains and burning sands. His favorite weather is about 10 degrees above zero, and if this temperature happens to produce a snowstorm "Barefoot Gene" gets so much more enjoyment when out in it.

It is in the wetting of the Kayser Italian Silk Vests that their superior quality and exquisite tailoring are given the truest test. Just three inches above the knee—they do not wrinkle or roll up.

Look for the Marseille reinforcement in the crotch of every pair of Kayser Italian Silk Bloomers—it insures their durability. Stretches with every step, giving comfort and ease of movement.

Marseille reinforcement $3.50 and up

$6.00 and up

Kayser vests simply can't roll up or wrinkle, because they are so long and shaped to fit the waist and hips. They stay down.

BESIDES, they are Italian Silk—the best silk there is—and Italian Silk, so well tailored, hangs snugly to the lines of the body with a feeling of fitness that has never been equalled.

Kayser Italian Silk Underwear is the most luxurious—yet it costs less, because it lasts so long.

BRITISH FINANCIER CONVICTED OF FRAUD

EXTRADITED FROM VIENNA

He Had Fled From England in an Airplane After Collapse of His Ventures.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Gerald Lee Bevan, former Chairman of the City Equitable Fire Insurance Company, was found guilty at the Old Bailey today on fifteen of sixteen counts in charges of fraud brought against him, and was sentenced to seven years penal servitude.

The Bevan case attracted an enormous amount of public attention, not merely because of the magnitude of the financial speculations in which he was concerned, but also because of the social position of some of his fellow-Directors in various companies. His flight to the continent by airplane and arrest in Vienna added to the sensational aspect of the case.

Mr. Justice Avery, in summing up, dealt with the defense's contention that Bevan had signed certain minutes of the board meetings of the City Equitable Company without reading them, and so failed to detect their error. He asked the jury to consider how that could have been possible unless Bevan had done it with his eyes shut, and he declared that it was impossible to doubt that Bevan was the dominating spirit of the directorate.

Then the court took up the £96,000 overdraft which had been allowed to General Manager Mansell, although he drew in salary and commission £8,000 or £9,000 per annum. Bevan had excused the matter on the plea that Mansell was so valuable to the business, but the Judge asked whether there was good reason to keep a dishonest servant because he obtained business. The court pointed out that Bevan's only explanation of his flight was that he had been asked to leave the country, but had declined to say by whom, and he instructed the jury that if they held him guilty of the charges they could not leave out of consideration the fact that he fled and could give no real explanation of the reason.

Finally, the court dealt with the "window dressing" of the company's balance sheet, by purchasing Government securities for the day the balance sheet was made up. He drew a distinction between honest and dishonest "window dressing," saying: "Suppose a shopkeeper put in his window attractive goods with attractive prices, and than when a customer hands over money for them he keeps the cash, but says 'I cannot deliver the goods because they are only borrowed.' What would you think of him?

"Yet that does not differ from the action of the company in recording as assets in its balance sheet securities that it does not possess. I hope it is not true that such 'window dressing' is an everyday transaction in the City of London."

30 COAL OPERATORS WILL MEET UNION MEN

Effort to Be Made at Conference for Settlement Plan.

FOR DISTRICT CONTRACTS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—With a definite proposal already drafted by the mine owners, thirty coal operators, representing fourteen bituminous States, and an equal number of union representatives will meet here tomorrow in an effort to agree upon a plan of procedure for a joint wage conference to be held next month.

The plan to be submitted by the operators has these three major provisions: 1. Each of the fifteen districts would be left free to negotiate a contract to its liking. Under this arrangement the old four-State agreement of the central competitive field might be revived, but this, it is said, is wholly improbable. An impartial tribunal would be set up to dispose of all disputes. Union officials have declared themselves unalterably opposed to arbitration. A sliding wage scale would be put into effect, instead of the fixed, uniform pay rate now in force.

The operators have been in session at the Congress Hotel since yesterday morning. John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, and other union leaders, arrived last night to attend the joint meeting.

The operators' plan, unanimously adopted today, was formulated by a committee composed of Charles O'Neill and J. H. Sanford, representing Pennsylvania operators; Rice Miller, Illinois; Hugh Shirley, Indiana; Harry Taylor, the Southwest, and E. S. Brooks, Wyoming.

While declining to be quoted, some of the operators conceded doubt that their proposal would meet with the approval of the union representatives. While the provision as to the scope of any agreement leaves room for any grouping of districts, it is known that most of the operators favor separate negotiation for each district.

No matter how approached, the question of arbitration will be turned aside by the union chiefs, according to some forecasts.

The sliding wage scale, based largely on market prices of competing coal, also is regarded as another probable stumbling block.

WOMAN, ON 'SOUL' ISSUE, ASKS HARVEY'S RECALL

Mrs. Tinsley, in Letter to Congress, Accuses Ambassador of 'Gross Profanations.'

Mrs. Leila M. Tinsley of the Church for Service has written to Representative Ogden L. Mills and to Congress asking that the House recall George Harvey as Ambassador to the Court of St. James's because of his speech questioning the possession of souls by women. Mrs. Tinsley figured in the news some time ago when she fought unsuccessfully an increase in rent or eviction by the Aeolian Company and armed herself with a Bible as her weapon in that losing fight. In the letter to Mr. Ogden, in which she signs herself "Mrs. Leila M. Tinsley, Servant," she accuses the Ambassador of "gross profanations of the Word of God." In a letter to the Speaker, which she wants read to the House, Mrs. Tinsley says her church bears no malice toward Mr. Harvey, and continues:

"We do not claim that Ambassador Harvey is more unrighteous than are we; we know, indeed, that he is not one more full of sin than are the individuals of the Church for Service or of Congress. Whatever good there may be in you, in him or in me is not our good; we have no right or title to it, for it is the sole possession of our Heavenly Father, who loans it to us in ratio to the reception our freedom of choice extends to it. The only possessions that we can rightly lay any claim to are evil and falsity. The prominence of Ambassador Harvey's position merely makes his sins more conspicuous than yours, perhaps, and far more conspicuous than mine; therefore he is likely to spread the influence of sin and profanation over a greater area of human intellect, which intellect is already threatened with a deluge of phantasy fully as perilous as that experienced by the people of Noah because of their profanations.

"In our action against Ambassador Harvey we do not at all desire to disregard that holy command, 'Resist not evil'; our purpose is merely to grasp the event as an opportunity to exalt the Ten Commandments as the light to government, to science and to religion today when each seems sadly in need of divine visitation."

The writer assails the various religious denominations for not coming to the defense of our country "now invaded by the devastating army of bootleggers which is far more to be feared than ever was an invasion of the Central Powers."

The letter continues:

"The Church for Service has had its experience with these doctrines. Their response has always been silence, causing me to conclude that these doctrines were merely burial places of the righteous, and that their ghostly spirits had departed for Oberammergau, there to expend emotions on the Passion Play, oblivious to the fact that the real crucifixion has been taking place anew in New Brunswick, N. J., for some time past and is still continuing. If a word of advice may be offered to the Ku Klux Klan through Congress, then let it be said that it would be becoming to cease dark actions against Jews and Catholics to direct their attacks toward the very right reverends and the very wrong reverends of the Protestant faith who sit in state washing their hands of profanations, calling for larger salaries from the people, and leaving the laws of God to the laws and lawyers among men.

"When the press reports of the Ambassador's address in question were read, it was recalled that it had also been reported that the Ambassador was appearing at English Court functions in knee breeches, and this fifteenth chapter of Numbers instantly flashed to mind, and I said to myself, 'Now should Uncle Sam recall George, or should he send him as a Christmas present some blue-bordered fringe to baste onto those knee breeches to keep him in mind of the Holy Commandments as well as to veil his bare legs while presenting Uncle Sam's greetings of the season to "Saint" James's "soulless" Queen?'"

SPEEDERS TO FARE HARD.

Indianapolis Mayor Orders Them Taken to Prison in Patrol Wagon.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 5.—In an effort to curb speeding in Indianapolis, Mayor Samuel Lewis Shank today had police officers line up six of eight persons arrested for speeding before John Mitchell, whose wife and a girl companion were killed last night by an automobile, which witnesses said was speeding. Mitchell told of the accident.

Mayor Shank warned speeders late yesterday that hereafter they would be taken to the city prison in a patrol wagon and held under high bond. Soon after this warning the two women were killed by the same automobile.

In a statement to members of the motorcycle department of the city police, the Mayor said "Treat 'em all alike. I don't care who they are either," the Mayor added. "If it happens to be the daughter of a bank president or the wife of a wealthy manufacturer, treat 'em all alike; call the wagon and take them down and make them give a $5,000 bond."

REPORT TSING-TAO SEIZED BY BANDITS

They Are Said to Have Captured Port Just as Japanese Were to Return It to China.

WANT CHIEF AS GOVERNOR

And Demand $100,000 Ransom for Chinese Officials—American Warship Ordered There.

TIEN-TSIN, China, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Reports received here say that Chinese bandits have taken control of Tsing-tao, Shantung, the Kiao-Chau port whose stormy career in war and diplomacy was about to culminate in its return to China after twenty-four years of alien rule, the first sixteen under Germany and the last eight under Japan. The population is reported fleeing from the city.

Trains from Tsing-tao are said to be crowded with refugees. Chinese police sent from Peking to take over the city are reported to have been driven out of their barracks.

The bandits, according to the telegrams, demand $100,000 ransom for the delivery of Government officials and police in their hands. The outlaws also hold out for the appointment of their chief as Governor of the port.

Shops and residences are being looted nightly, the dispatches say. The 20,000 Japanese who remain in Tsing-tao, unorganized for defending the city, apparently are impotent in face of the menace.

Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

TOKIO, Dec. 5.—Japan was notified today that an American warship is proceeding to Tsing-tao to assist in guarding against possible disorders following the evacuation of Shantung, which has been set for Dec. 10. China's unpreparedness, with reports of bandits gathering, is thoroughly alarming the population, Chinese and foreign.

The Chinese force which had been sent to take over the policing of the city arrived unarmed. Japan is hastening arms to be loaned to these troops. Small shipments of arms are expected, for which Japan is obliged to furnish an armed guard during the transportation of these arms through the city from the station to the barracks to prevent organized bandits in the city from capturing them.

KIAO-CHAU, China, Dec. 5.—Two Japanese destroyers are in the harbor here as a precaution against trouble from bandits who, it is feared, may molest Japanese nationals. Many bandits are known to be in the district.

LONDON, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—An official statement issued by the Foreign Office at Tokio last Friday, prior to the actual signing of the Shantung agreement, says that China and Japan are in accord in all matters covered by the treaty except the details concerning the transfer of the Shantung Railway.

The statement received by The Central News said "negotiations will be continued concerning the Shantung Railway, and it is expected that an agreement will soon be reached thereon, so that the transfer of the railway may occur long before March, 1924, the date fixed in the treaty."

SPANISH CABINET OUT IN MOROCCO FLURRY

MADRID, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Premier Sanchez Guerra presented the resignation of his Ministry today for the second time in four days, the crisis growing out of the continued endeavors to place responsibility for the Spanish reverses in Morocco in July, 1921.

The Chamber of Deputies, sitting as a committee of the whole, resolved to approve the presentation of Señor Cambo's motion demanding the impeachment of the members of the Allende Salazar Ministry for their responsibility in the disaster to the Spanish arms in Morocco. The Chamber then began discussion of the motion.

There were exciting scenes in the Chamber after the debate was suspended owing to the departure of the Premier for the palace. The Deputies of the opposing factions engaged in noisy disputes, sometimes coming to blows, and there was much shouting from the crowded galleries.

The Socialist Deputies raised anti-monarchist cries, while the Conservatives replied with "Long live the King!" The police tried to eject the disturbers, but were resisted.

In the Senate General Berenguer, former High Commissioner in Morocco, made a sensational speech in which he declared that when he took over the command in Morocco on July 21, 1921, he made himself responsible for everything that occurred in the Melilla zone. He pleaded with the Senate to accede to the demand for his impeachment, saying that if any one was to be held responsible and liable to punishment he desired to be that one. He concluded that he was ready to sacrifice himself alone for the nation. His offer to sacrifice himself was received in tense silence.

CANADA WANTS NEW POSTAL AGREEMENT

Convention to Supersede That of 1888 Will Be Submitted to Washington for Approval.

OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—A new postal agreement between Canada and the United States will be prepared by Canadian post office officials, it was announced today at the close of the first international postal conference between officials of the two countries.

The new convention, which will supersede that of 1888 and will embody the decisions of the conference just closed, will be forwarded to Washington for approval. It is planned to make the new agreement effective next Jan. 1.

Officials agreed in the closing session that each country should grant to the other free transit across its territory, by all trains used for its own mails, of the closed post made up by any authorized exchange office of either country addressed to any other exchange of the same country.

The United States also agreed to carry Canadian parcel post in transit across United States territory to South American countries by routes now used for the transmission of her own parcels on payment of 20 cents a round by Canada. At present Canadian parcels sent to some of the South American countries have to be routed by way of England.

SIX KILLED IN MEXICAN CITY.

Municipal Election at Chiapas Causes Street Fighting.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5.—Six persons were killed and many injured at Comitan, State of Chiapas, during the municipal elections there on Sunday, according to delayed advices received by the Secretary of the Interior.

The greatest milliner of them all says we've to have new shapes in hats. Paris shows three—toy hats and little hats, hats for all types . . . quite different. You've no idea what one of these hats would do to your personality until you've seen the Holiday Number of Vogue

The Holiday Number of

VOGUE

Have you all the ideas you need, about gifts, and decorating, and where to go and what to do? If not—try Vogue!

Quaint Christmas customs from France and England—a gift ship from Norway—a carnival of Jack Frost in blue, pale gold and silver—menus new and old, with a chef's clear directions for executing them—pages of delightful last-minute gifts—jewels from Cartier set in the last new designs and worn by Ina Claire in fashion's newest manner, the loveliest gifts of all—Christmas decorations for the house treated in new and fascinating ways by James Reynolds, the creator of so many lovely sets and costumes for the Follies—a dozen Claire Avery designs for the youngest generation's absurd little clothes—places where New York is dining and dancing and supping this season, information that puts you completely in the know.

All these things have been described, photographed and sketched by some of those charming people Vogue always seems able to persuade into its pages.

Then, of course, there are new frocks and hats and furs for the holidays. Sorel, the best-dressed woman in the world, has come to America with heaven knows how many trunks of clothes. Reboux has issued her new Ten Commandments on millinery. Vogue shows them all.

Then there are two pages of unusual negligees—how to be decorative, though warm. Plenty of smart sports clothes, too, at prices anyone can afford. Clothes for the in-between young lady who is so hard to dress, but to whom the season is so terribly important. . . .

That isn't nearly all of it. But isn't it enough? . . . Your part is to make a note of it, quickly, before you forget—December 15th Vogue.

This answers women's annual Christmas puzzle

THE question uppermost in a woman's mind when she shops for men's gifts is this: "will it be just what he wants?" Her anxiety is justified, for men are notoriously particular about their attire. They have mysterious masculine standards hard for women to fathom.

But if she will do her shopping in a Weber and Heilbroner store, she will solve the puzzle and simplify her task in one quick stroke.

For by their own choice men have made Weber and Heilbroner the largest and most authoritative haberdashery business in America—and women who buy their presents here, relying on our experience and judgement, are certain to get the best of value for their money, and give him "just what he wants" in the bargain.

MOTT TO CONTINUE HALL-MILLS INQUIRY

Attorney General McCran of New Jersey Makes Announcement After Conference.

EDGE CAN'T HELP MILLS

U. S. Senator Writes Murdered Woman's Husband That Indictments Must Be Found First.

After a two-hour conference with Deputy Attorney General Wilbur A. Mott in Trenton yesterday, Attorney General Thomas F. McCran of New Jersey announced that Mr. Mott would continue in charge of the investigation of the Hall-Mills murder case at New Brunswick. Mr. Mott went to Trenton with his law partner, David Bernheim. They reached the State Capitol at 11 o'clock. When Mr. Mott went into the conference his law partner informed reporters that Mr. Mott, who failed to get indictments after calling sixty-seven witnesses before the Grand Jury in Somerville last week, probably would withdraw from the case. This prediction proved inaccurate. When the conference concluded Attorney General McCran made this statement:

"The status of Mr. Mott remains the same. He is to continue in charge of the investigation and we are confident that the case will be solved eventually. As a Special Deputy Attorney General, he will retain his staff of investigators intact."

Mr. McCran refused to express an opinion regarding the progress of the case. Mr. Mott had nothing to say. Mr. Mott has neither said nor done anything in the case, as far as known, since the day the Grand Jury refused to return indictments. After he heard the Grand Jury's decision that day, Mr. Mott informed reporters that he was in a state of "suspended animation."

Beekman Will Co-operate.

Prosecutor Azariah M. Beekman of Somerset County, who has been working under Mr. Mott since the State superseded the county authorities, made the following comment when informed that Mr. Mott would stay in the case:

"That's good. I'm glad he is going to stay and I will co-operate with him in every way." Prosecutor Joseph E. Stricker of Middlesex County also said he was glad the Deputy Attorney General would remain on the job. Although the crime was committed in Somerset County, Mr. Stricker and his detectives have co-operated in the inquiry because the victims were residents of New Brunswick.

The Somerset County Grand Jury will meet again in Somerville next Tuesday, but only to hear cases of local interest. The December Grand Jury will be drawn tomorrow, and will prepare to take up its duties on Dec. 19. There is a possibility that the whole case may be presented to the December Grand Jury.

Senator Edge for Punishment.

James Mills, husband of the murdered woman, yesterday received a reply from Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, to whom he had written in Washington asking for help in pursuing the investigation after the Grand Jury had failed to indict.

"To permit a crime of this sort to go unpunished," Senator Edge wrote, "is altogether unthinkable and a blot on the fine reputation of New Jersey for law, order and justice. I have inquired of the Federal Department of Justice as to any possible jurisdiction they could have in the matter. They advise me that the law will not permit them to enter the case. Of course, under our criminal law, parties cannot be tried unless an indictment is found by a jury of their peers.

"I feel positive that the State prosecuting authorities, with whom rests full responsibility, will never cease their determined efforts to bring evidence before a Grand Jury which will warrant indictments and trial. If there was a possible way to assist in the matter, I would gladly do so, but there is nothing more so far as my position is concerned that I can suggest but to join with you and all other law-abiding citizens in the hope that no possible effort will be spared to bring the parties to trial."

Mrs. Henry Stevens, sister-in-law of Mrs. Hall, the murdered rector's widow, said in Lavallette, N. J., yesterday that she hoped the mystery would be solved.

"We certainly do not want to see the investigation dropped," said Mrs. Stevens, "and we want to see the murderers brought to justice, but it rather looks as though, instead of conducting an investigation into the crime, as they should, the authorities have simply been looking for a scapegoat. It seems to me that the officials merely wanted to fasten the crime upon somebody, anybody, and they have been bending all the evidence toward building up a case against the first people who came along."

HEBREW UNION DORMITORY.

Start on Building in Cincinnati Will Be Made Tomorrow.

Ground will be broken tomorrow for the dormitory and gymnasium at Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati. Public officials, members of the faculty lic officials, members of the Faculty and Board of Governors of Hebrew tee of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations will join with the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods in celebrating this event. The program will be opened with a processional, in which members of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, students and Faculty members of the college and officers of the Union will participate.

The route of the procession will be through the college grounds to the location of the new dormitory, where Dr. Julian Morgenstern, President of the college, will offer the prayer of consecration, and Mrs. Abram Simon, Chairman of the Hebrew Union College Dormitory Committee, and Mrs. Joseph Wiesenfeld, President of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, will deliver addresses. The student choir of Hebrew Union College will sing.

The erection of the new buildings will be begun at once. The dormitory building, it is estimated, will cost $250,000, and will contain living quarters, study and recreation rooms and a dining hall for the use of rabbinical students who attend the college.

STOKES DIVORCE UP AGAIN.

Motion Is Heard to Restore Case to Calendar for Retrial.

Supreme Court Justice Bijur yesterday took under advisement a motion of Daniel F. Nugent, of counsel for W. E. D. Stokes, to have his client's suit for a divorce against Helen Elwood Stokes restored to the calendar for retrial. The Court declined to grant an adjournment until Jan. 1 for consideration of the motion. Justice Bijur said he desired to be kept informed of the progress of a move made by Louis Marshall, representing Mrs. Stokes, to have the designation of Justice Edward R. Finch of the Appellate Division withdrawn in order to permit his signing a decree in the case of Stokes against Stokes.

Lawrence Steinhardt, of counsel for Mrs. Stokes, told the court that Mr. Marshall was unable to be present because of an accident last Sunday. He said that Mr. Marshall fell while out walking, but would soon return to his office.

To Manufacturers and Wholesalers of Commodities Distributed through the great Retail Dry Goods and Department Store Market

Your Ledger Tells Only One Half Of Your 1922 Business Story

It deals with cold figures. It is vital to you but only to you, and those dependent on you. It is a record of the past.

There is another chapter equally vital to you but also intensely interesting to your customers and your prospects. It is your record of achievement in helping your trade make money.

Every merchandise or manufacturing "coup" you have carried through during 1922 is part of this chapter. Every time you have cut production costs, better styled your merchandise or improved your service you have registered in this chapter that which has been responsible for your product, in this greatest market of the world, that recognition, respect and active support which is your insurance for the years to come.

You have made history which is sure to have a vital effect on your business in 1923.

You know this. That is why you coach your organization in the problems of production. That is why you help your salesmen by showing them how you are meeting competition. But why stop here? Why not broadcast your chapter so that it will become a living thing working steadily among retailers—the men and women who like you are fighting for business?

Remember that when they have written "finis" on their 1922 chapters, and face the New Year, their selection boils down to a small number of firms, whose acts, now history, have established reputations which automatically send business to them.

Business prestige is rarely written round a single thing. Brains, daring and courage expressed in merchandise or service have formed the basis of news which, filtering down through the market, has won recognition from its human side.

They watch the leaders, these men and women who serve the American dry goods consumer, and on the history of the great houses they mould their thought and their action.

There are thousands of them. They range from the Fields and Altmans to the potential Mertons of the Movies, in hundreds of hamlets. Large or small, your ledger success is in exact ratio to your success in getting your story over to them.

There is a Way You Can Efficiently and Economically Get Your Chapter Over to This Great Dry Goods Market of Which They Are the Corner Stone.

In 10,646 towns of the United States, in 35,000 stores which do over 75% of the dry goods and apparel business of the country, are thousands of men and women who regularly read the business papers of

The Economist Group

to increase their ability to select merchandise for the community, to widen their selling skill and to keep themselves informed regarding the swing of Style.

Being successful they depend largely on their own judgment. They put the acid test to merchandise statements. What you are going to do does not interest them half as much as how the historical record of your business indicates your ability to serve them.

For this reason you can do nothing better to solidify them behind your product for 1923 than to place before them your 1922 history as you tell it face to face.

1923 Spring Fashion Number of The Dry Goods Economist Published Dec. 23, 1922.

Fashion influences the purchase and selling of practically every article they handle. Apparel, fabrics or fancy goods—all feel the impulse of Fashion, and Fashion knowledge is essential to the dry goods merchant.

From the pages of The Spring Fashion Number of the Dry Goods Economist thousands of merchants will take their "cue" for 1923. Not alone the great stores of the United States and Canada, but over 2,000 additional stores in Great Britain, Europe, South America, Australia, Africa and the Orient.

The Spring Fashion Number has come to be a high peak in a publishing organization noted for editorial achievement. This not alone because its editorial pages are so important to its readers, but because for so many years makers and distributors of merchandise have found it so profitable to start their New Year's drive along with the authoritative style presentation.

Your chapter of 1922 achievement, along with your program for 1923, humanly told in this great publication, can make you an even greater part of the merchandising structure which so powerfully affects your product's sale.

We will be glad to help you or your advertising agent in preparing such a story for the Men and women who can do more for your product in their towns than you can do for yourself, or for them.

G. O. P. OLD GUARD REVOLT RUMORED

MAY TRY TO UNSEAT WARD

Complaint Is Made of Executive Committee Make-Up—Koenig Unworried by Move.

Following the Republican disaster in the recent election rumors of factional warfare are filling the air. On the heels of the "progressive" revolt, for which the rallying cry was sounded last week by Representatives Hamilton Fish Jr. of Putnam and Luther Wright Mott of Oswego, a report reached some Republican leaders in this city yesterday which indicated that certain Old Guard leaders up State were banded together to "start something"—just what the report did not clearly reveal. It was taken for granted, however, that the "something" would not prove helpful to the handful of men in positions of leadership who just now are engaged in the difficult task of digging the party organization out of the wreckage of the election and mapping out a course for the immediate future.

Benjamin B. Odell, former Governor and Republican State leader, whose name was mentioned in connection with the rumored Old Guard rebellion, said last night at the Union League Club that he knew nothing about it and did not believe there was any truth in the report. The names of half a dozen other leaders of less prestige were mentioned, but their days of leadership lie so far back that in many instances their names have vanished from the party rosters, and consequently the report that they were raising a new banner of revolt did not terrify the New York City leaders who heard of the venture.

Samuel S. Koenig, President of the Republican County Committee, said last night he did not believe any of the half dozen leaders whose names appeared in the east were in a position to stage a comeback, no matter how opportune the time might seem for such an adventure.

"In my opinion," Mr. Koenig said, "nothing will come either of this or of the so-called 'progressive' movement started by the two Congressmen. There is nothing that can or need be done now in the way of reorganization. Let us wait and see how the Smith administration works out at Albany."

Mr. Koenig said he had no intention of attending the "progressive" gathering of Messrs. Fish and Mott at Albany, even if invited, and as yet no invitation had reached him.

"So far as I am concerned," he said, "I am in sympathy with their purpose of holding the incoming Democratic administration to its promises and furnishing it with no excuse for failing to make good. Anything I can do to give important features of the Smith program support in the Assembly I will do."

It was stated last night with some degree of authority that Republican leaders up-State were unwilling to go so far, except in matters affecting New York City exclusively. Speaker Machold, it was stated, would not be likely to lend his influence to any movement in the Assembly that would give aid to the incoming Governor in a wholesale attack upon constructive measures enacted during the Miller Administration, such as the act embodying the Governor's water power policy and the amendments to the election law restoring the Convention as the agency for nominating candidates for State offices and for the Supreme Court.

The movement of the up-State Old Guard leaders, according to the report that reached this city, was directed more particularly against William L. Ward, Republican leader of Westchester, in his capacity as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Republican State Committee and was said to have for its purpose the reorganization of that body with a view to give representation on it to certain up-State localities which now have none.

"The centre of gravity of the Republican Party is north of the Bronx," one of the old-time leaders was quoted as saying in this connection, "but the Executive Committee is top-heavy with representatives of constituencies in New York City and the lower end of the State, which cannot be depended upon to do anything substantial in State elections toward the success of Republican candidates."

LACKING $15,000 BAIL, VAIL STAYS IN JAIL

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Unable to furnish $15,000 bail Ezra Reed Vail of New York City, charged with bucketing and stock swindling in Westchester County, is in the county jail. Vail, who was arrested last night in Manhattan, was arraigned this afternoon before County Judge Bleakley. When he could not furnish the bond, Judge Bleakley instructed District Attorney Weeks to investigate the prisoner's financial status.

Mr. Weeks refused to divulge the names of Vail's alleged victims. There are sixteen indictments, charging the prisoner with fraudulent stock operations and a seventeenth Grand Jury finding, accusing Vail of grand larceny. The heaviest loser is said to be a New Rochelle banker.

Vail formed a stock partnership with Frederick T. Brooks, a Bronx garage man, and they established a corporation in New Rochelle, called Brooks & Co., it was said, Brooks, giving it little attention. Later Brooks, with a force of auditors, went over the company's books. Before the crash came the firm paid $4,000 for a seat in the Cosmopolitan Stock Exchange, it was declared.

Vail is said to have operated in Chalmers Motors, American Drug and sugar stocks. He will probably be tried early next month.

BRINGS MASTODON BONES.

Prof. Shackleford Returning With Parts of a Baluchitherium.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—Professor J. B. Shackleford of the American Museum of Natural History is preparing to leave for New York with several bone specimens of a Baluchitherium mastodon and other specimens of extinct animals unearthed by the expedition which the museum is maintaining in the Baluchistan region of Central Mongolia. He arrived yesterday with the specimens.

An English paleontologist named Cooper discovered a few bones of the mastodon within recent years, but Professor Shackleford said today that he had nearly enough specimens to make up a complete skeleton. The bones resemble those of an elephant, but are much larger.

Its roadability unexcelled

—says F. B. Rentschler

"In choosing a four passenger Marmon speedster for my personal driving, I was influenced primarily by the fact that I consider the six cylinder Marmon engine by far the most desirable type for a motor car and, in my opinion, embodying the best of design and workmanship of any type. In the selection of a four passenger Marmon sedan for Mrs. Rentschler's driving, the deciding factors were ease of driving and control, smooth riding qualities and attractive and practical body.

"The daily use of these cars more than fulfills my expectations. Both cars are a new sensation in motoring, not only in daily routine service, but particularly for longer distance touring. I do not believe that their power, smoothness and roadability can be exceeded or even appreciably approached."

PRESIDENT
ORIENT AERONAUTICAL CORPORATION

MARMON'S nation-wide investigation of owner's actual maintenance costs for cars of the 1922 series showed the national average for all cars so far reported to be but $4.71 per car per month.

The following table shows the monthly cost per car in a few cities taken at random:

New York	$4.35 average upkeep per month per car
Kansas City	4.28 average upkeep per month per car
Indianapolis	4.44 average upkeep per month per car
Boston	4.01 average upkeep per month per car

These certified figures prove more strongly than generalities, the actual fact—that in Marmon of all cars, economy of maintenance is combined with superior roadability and efficiency.

The cost figures quoted will be shown any interested person.

BIG BUSINESS!

Big business is best expressed with big equipment. As big printers we are particularly equipped to produce work in black or colors, at minimum cost.

Each of our floors is space stands one of the most complete lithographing and printing plants in the country, a plant thoroughly equipped with the modern process, including a large offset press that prints two sides of a sheet at one time. We specialize in OFFSET PRINTING OF CHARACTER AND CHARM.

Certain classes of folders, booklets, circulars and even stationery forms adapt themselves to the offset process. The appearance of the finished product is many times enhanced and the saving with our equipment is ultimately lower.

In other words, we are offering maximum quality at minimum cost. Not a bad combination when you can get it, and you CAN get exactly that by passing your problems on to us.

Leader—Goullet. Record—1,053 miles 5 laps, made by Cameron Kaiser in 1915.

The standing in the thirty-third international six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden experienced a sharp revision early this morning. With a record early morning crowd of about 8,000 fans present one of the wildest jams in the history of the Winter fixture was carried through to a successful conclusion. When the excitement was over the American-Italian team of Alf Goullet and Gaetano Belloni and the American-French team of Willie Coburn and Maurice Brocco were leading by one lap for the fiftieth hour. Oscar Egg and Ray Eaton, Swiss-American pair, were one lap behind Goullet and Belloni and Brocco and Coburn and one lap ahead of the other rival combinations.

Two laps behind Goullet and Belloni and Coburn and Brocco and one lap behind Egg and Eaton were Hill and Verraes, Taylor and Lands, Horan and Fitzsimmons, Bello and Gaffney, Grenda and McNamara, Madden and Kaiser and Gastman and Grimm. Then came Rutt and Mcbeath, Spiessens and Eyckman and Kopsky and Azzini each team three laps behind the leading two ttams.

The team of Gremo and Gay, lapped twice before, lost three laps in the jam and were five lapps back of the leading two teams.

The jam started at 12:30 o'clock this morning, and for a half hour the riders continued their dizzy whirl around the saucer. There were two distinct jams in this period of frenzied riding, but they came without a break or a diminution of speed.

Brocco Starts Jam.

Joe Kopsky, although not the actual starter of the session of riding, nevertheless was the instigator of the coup effected by Goullet and Belloni and Brocco and Coburn. Kopsky, after the regular night point sprints, kept the field "smoking" up and down the saucer at a terrific pace, in a manner which seemed to foretell a night of excitement. Finally, at 12:30, the ever-popular Brocco suddenly dashed out from the pack, and in a terrific sprint forged into a lead of about twenty-five yards. The jam was on.

Brocco rode like fury until Willie Coburn relieved him, and then Coburn, alternating in the pace with Goullet and Belloni, rode like men possessed. For fifteen minutes the mad whirl continued. Then it was announced that Goullett and Belloni and Brocco and Coburn had lapped the field.

Hardly had the echo of the announcement died away when Ray Eaton spurted and in a jiffy the jam was on again. Eaton and his partner, Egg, sought the lap they had lost to Goullet and Belloni and Coburn and Brocco, but the latter two teams stuck grimly to the terrific pace of Eaton and Egg, and in the sensational riding which ensued, Goullet and Belloni and Brocco and Coburn picked up another lap, and Eatos and Egg had lapped the seven rival combinations and held their positions one lap back of the two leading teams.

Terrific riding was not the only feature in this sensational jam. A spill occurred while the mad whirl was at its height, which almost sent three riders out of the race through injury. Luckily the riders escaped with only a bad shaking up. The spill occurred on "dead man's curve" when Harry Horan of the Irish team slipped off his wheel and brought down Grenda and Freddie Hill. The trio were extricated from a tangled mass of bicycle wreckage and after a short rest resumed the race.

Crowd Packed Garden at Night.

One of the largest Tuesday night crowds in the history of six-day cycling racing jammed the Garden. The infield was densely packed until there was no breathing space left for the late arrivals. The balcony and overhead tiers were crammed to capacity, while some intrepid individuals in the overflow hung precariously from the steel girders of the old building. It was a great gathering of cycling fans and a night of riding thoroughly in keeping with the occasion.

The sprints for points provided plenty of thrills, but the excitement was not confined to these. Many independent speed bursts were inaugurated, during which the crowd raised a great din. Coburn and Brocco twice sought to gain ground on the field but failed. A similar fate attended the efforts of McNamara, Madden, Taylor and Lands, Hill and Verraes and Gaffney and Bello, who alternated in wild bursts about the pine saucer.

The first bid for a lap came after the fifth sprint, when Coburn broke out and continued until relieved by his partner, Brocco. McNamara led the pursuit in overhauling Coburn and Brocco and then went off himself in a reckless dash for a lap, in which Madden shared. The pair alternated in the lead for a brief few laps crowded with excitement.

After the seventh sprint for points Brocco tore around the track and was assisted by Coburn for three laps, when the field pulled even. Then Hill and Verraes, not to be outdone, started a short-lived jam. Later Kopsky started suddenly on a riding spree, and stopped as suddenly. Gastman was another who tried, unsuccessfully, to catch the field napping.

The prize of $50 for the greatest number of points during the night's sprints was divided between the teams of Horan and Fitzsimmons and Spiessens and Eyckman. Each pair scored 20 points.

The order of finish in the night sprints follows:

Second—Rutt, Egg, Gaffney, Fitzsimmons.
Third—Goullet, McBeath, Madden, Horan.
Fourth—Egg, Azzini, Verraes, Taylor.
Fifth—Horan, Gastman, Bello, Goullet.
Sixth—Rutt, Gaffney, Egg, Coburn.
Seventh—Eyckman, Hill, Gremo, Goullet.
Eighth—Spiessens, Hill, Belloni, Grimm.
Ninth—Eyckman, Grenda, Horan, Gostman.
Tenth—Madden, Horan, Spiessens, Rutt.

Excitement was maintained in the matinee session after early morning riding that lacked outstanding thrills. The most sensational riding in the forenoon came shortly before the matinee point sprints began. McBeath started the session of frenzied riding, which did not subside until the Italian team of Gremo and Gay had lost a lap. This loss placed the Italian pair two laps back of the leaders, for they dropped a lap Monday night. They are not expected to survive the week.

The crowd which witnessed the matinee sprints for points was one of the heaviest week day gatherings in the history of the cycling grid. Charles A. Stoneham and John J. McGraw, President and manager, respectively of the New York Giants, were in a box. They came early enough to see the first sprint and stayed to see the last.

Southern California Eleven to Meet Penn State at Pasadena

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5.—The University of Southern California's football team was selected to meet the Penn State eleven in the New Year's game at Pasadena, Cal., according to announcement received here tonight from Dr. U. G. Dubach, President of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Conference.

SLOCUM IS NAMED AS U. S. DELEGATE

Will Represent American Tennis Body in Important World Conferences in London.

Henry W. Slocum of this city, a former national champion and also a former President of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, will represent that body in the two international lawn tennis meetings to be held in London on Dec. 20 and 21. Mr. Slocum will sail the end of this week.

The meetings in which Mr. Slocum will represent the United States will be the most vitally important of any international conference in years. At the first of them, on the 20th, important matters with regard to Davis Cup regulations, including the proposal of a zoning system, will come up, and at the second, on the 21st, the International Federation, of which the United States is now a member, will consider making the standards of the game and its equipment more uniform than ever in all parts of the world. It is also probable that, at this second meeting, the matter of withdrawing the award of the world's championship in perpetuity to Wimbledon, England, will come up. If this matter should be acted upon favorably, the one objection the United States Association has to membership in the association would be removed.

The U. S. L. T. A. has already gone on record as favoring the idea of a zoning system for the Davis Cup matches and has suggested the division of the competition into two zones, one to be known as the European Zone and the other as the American Zone. Australia, Japan and other Pacific nations would be included in the American Zone. Any nation, according to this plan, may however, challenge in either zone. For instance, if, as has been suggested as a possibility, Tilden and Johnston of the United States happened to be in London for the Wimbledon competition in 1924, and the United States had previously lost the cup, they might elect to play for this country in Europe instead of on this continent.

Separate Draw for Zones Planned.

The plan calls for a separate draw for each of the two zones, the winners to meet in the holding country to play for the right to challenge. The new method is designed to reduce to a minimum the problems of expense of travel and length of time away from home required in competition. Most of the nations have already expressed themselves favorably on the proposition, and it is regarded as extremely likely that the international conference will approve and adopt it.

It is believed that some opposition may be offered from those who desire to make sure that there is no interference with the original idea of the Davis Cup founders to further international amity through the visits of foreign teams to distant countries. With admission to either zone left open to all countries, however, and with the knowledge that such visits must still occur to a large extent, especially among the nations successful in the early rounds of the competition, it is believed that this objection will be removed and that, in any case, the new plan will be better than the old, under which one or more nations were always obliged to default because of travel difficulties.

Another question that will be debated at length with regard to Davis Cup rules will be the matter of expenses allowable for traveling. It is contended that when teams meet on neutral ground all the receipts, except those covering necessary expenses, should be turned over to the actual contestants and that, with one team playing on the home courts of another, there should be a larger division of receipts in favor of the visiting team in order to help out in the matter of traveling expenses.

To Act in Consulting Capacity.

The meeting of Dec. 21 was arranged by the International Federation, and the United States, though not a member, is accepting the invitation to participate in a consulting capacity as one of the leading tennis-playing nations of the world. All nations, in fact, are invited to send representatives. The question of making uniform rules, adopting a standard ball, &c., will occupy the delegates.

Mr. Slocum held the national singles championship in 1888 and 1889. It is probable that, in the Federation conference, he will be asked to present the viewpoint of the United States with regard to a proposal to rotate the world's championship among the leading nations such as the United States, France and England. It was the proposal of the Australian Davis Cup players, made while they were in this country last Summer, that the world's singles championship be conducted in the country in which is held the challenge round of the Davis Cup competition, which leads to the world's team championship.

CRIQUI DECLINES OFFER.

French Boxer's Next Bout Will Be in United States.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Eugene Criqui, the European featherweight champion, has been deluged with offers from promoters since his victory last Saturday over Billy Matthews of England; but Manager Eudeline has made up his mind that Criqui's next fight shall take place in America, and his consideration of offers has been narrowed down to those of Jack Curley and Jack Kearns. Eudeline is under contract to Kearns for the handling of Eudeline's affairs in America and desired to give preference to Kearns, he says, should conditions be equal. Curley recently offered him $25,000 for a bout with Johnny Dundee, but Eudeline says he wants a guarantee of that amount, with the privilege of taking 25 per cent. of the gate receipts, to meet either Dundee or Johnny Kilbane.

WOULD IMPOSE EXTRA TAX.

Bill in Chamber to Increase Levies on Boxing Matches.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—A bill to impose an extra tax on the gross receipts of boxing matches and upon the purses of the winners was filed in the Chamber of Deputies today by Deputy Girod of the Department of Doubs. The preamble refers to the recent speech by Deputy Diagne on the Siki case, in which he compared the excessive rewards given fighters "for taking a few punches on the nose during a few minutes in the ring" with the small amounts earned by people who really work.

Deputy Girod's bill does not fix the amount of the tax, leaving that to be suggested during the discussion in the Chamber.

BRITTON RE-ENTERS RING.

Former Welterweight Champion Signs for Bout With Barrett.

Jack Britton, former world's welterweight champion, has decided to re-enter the ring. The veteran welterweight has been signed by his manager, Dan Morgan to engage Bobby Barrett, Philadelphia's hard-hitting welterweight, in an eight-round bout at the Arena, formerly the Ice Palace, in Philadelphia. The match will be held on Christmas Day afternoon and will be one of four eight-round matches.

SIKI FRAME-UP TALE DENIED BY HELLERS

CARPENTIER IS EMPHATIC

Says He Had Nothing to Gain by Agreement—Descamps Calls Insinuations Infamous.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—M. Hellers, Siki's manager at the time of the Carpentier bout, denied absolutely today the Senegalese boxer's allegation that the match was a frame-up. Hellers says everything was in perfect order and arrangements for the match were made in good faith. There was no frame-up and all of Siki's statements about the existence of a private agreement between Descamps and himself were absolutely false, according to Hellers.

"What was wrong with Siki," says Hellers, "is that during the first part of the bout he was paralyzed with fear. He would never have come out of his corner if Carpentier had not walked across the ring and hit him."

Hellers declared that he was the only manager who ever succeeded in putting up with the black boxer and that Siki had always been obedient to his wishes until now. But now, he said, "some one has led him into making all these false statements for political motives."

In another interview given today Siki reiterated his statements with new details of the alleged deal between Hellers and Deschamps. When asked what he was going to do further in the matter Siki answered: "Keep away from drink and do everything possible to get back my boxing license."

Carpentier Denies Allegation.

Georges Carpentier and Manager Descamps tonight denied the allegations of Siki and Deputy Diagne.

"What, have I to respond to the calumnious insinuations of Siki?" Carpentier demanded. "What credit should one accord this man and what does he hope for in trying to defame me? Does he think these accusations are going to requalify him? Will not my sporting record—honorable, it seems to me—plead for me?

"Why should I accept such an agreement when I was certain—too certain, alas! since—my excessive confidence made me lose the match—of beating my adversary in the first round?

"My interest, like that of all champions, is to obtain rapid victories, and those which I've won in that fashion have been most appreciated by the public.

"Can one think, besides, that I should have sought Siki in his corner when he tarried to rise at the commencement of the last round if the match had been arranged? Look at my hands. They still bear traces of the blows I struck. Here's an X-ray of the metacarpus. It is clear. They were all broken. Does that look like arrangement? When these hands are well we'll see how Siki will last before me—for it is only by that method that I wish to regain my title. Ah; that they will hurry and requalify Siki! Then the world will see if this was a fake.

Descamps Calls It Infamy.

Descamps stated: "This charge is infamy. What combine? Carpentier winner in fourth? Georges's greatest interest lay in winning rapidly.

"I am at the disposition of all who desire to clear this matter. No one wishes more than I that this affair be liquidated as quickly as possible. I am ready to respond to all convocations."

Paul Rousseau, President of the French Boxing Federation, contented himself with this simple statement: "When the federation is asked to make an investigation it will do it with the greatest possible celerity."

CARPENTIER AND SIKI MAY BE BARRED HERE

Each to Be Denied State Boxing Privileges if Charges Are True, Says Muldoon.

Georges Carpentier and his manager, François Descamps, and Battling Siki and his manager, M. Hellers, will be permanently barred from operating under the jurisdiction of the State Athletic Commission here if the charges of alleged collusion in the recent Carpentier-Siki bout are sustained. Chairman William Muldoon of the commission made this statement yesterday in discussing the cabled dispatches of the campaign in behalf of Siki, who now is under a suspension of nine months by the French Boxing Federation.

The fact that the parties entered into a conspiracy, if such is proved, will make all four equally culpable, Muldoon said. He added that if there is truth in the allegations contained in Siki's account of the conditions surrounding the Senegalese boxer's bout against Carpentier, there is no room for either Carpentier or Siki, or the respective managers of the two boxers, in New York boxing circles.

Siki now is under suspension here. The enforced idleness of nine months which was imposed on the Senegalese boxer as punishment by the French federation automatically made Siki ineligible here for a like period under an agreement which the Empire State board has with its contemporary European body. If, in his campaign for reinstatement and the restoration of his French heavyweight title, Siki confesses and proves his allegations that the Carpentier bout was a "frame-up," Siki will be permanently barred here, and Carpentier will suffer similar punishment, Muldoon said.

"It is, of course, impossible for us over here to judge the conditions in France or to pass judgment on the situation in which Siki and Carpentier find themselves," said Chairman Muldoon. "We must rely on the cabled reports of activities over there for our information. The dispatches which have been published in the newspapers here, however, indicate that Siki and Carpentier entered into a conspiracy to deceive the public and impose a fraudulent bout on those who support boxing abroad.

"Siki, in the dispatches, is credited with having confessed his part in the affair. He convicts himself, therefore, of being a man who would engage in a collusive contest. Siki involves Carpentier as the man who engineered the alleged 'frame-up.' If this is true, and the allegations are proved, then all four of the parties concerned, Siki and his manager and Carpentier and his manager, are equally guilty, and will be permanently barred here, the four of them.

Chairman Muldoon pointed to reforms and improvements which have been carried on by the State Athletic Commission. He disclosed a plan whereby boxers are compelled to conduct themselves above reproach in and out of the ring or have their licenses revoked, on the ground that their actions are detrimental to boxing and a menace to the sport.

Another reform under which the commission has strived to eradicate some of the evils of the past is the institution of what Muldoon termed his "bad boy list." The list is kept as a corrective and precautionary influence for boxers who suddenly come into prominence and then become careless of their training work and physical condition. The names of Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion; Midget Smith, Harlem bantamweight, and Jack Sharkey, west side Italian, were on this list, Muldoon said, while the boxers were deprived of the remunerative matches available here during a period of exile to the "sticks."

Oklahoma City Revives Idea Of Dempsey-Lewis Mixed Bout

Oklahoma City sport followers are eager for a mixed match in which Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion boxer, would engage Ed (Strangler) Lewis, heavyweight wrestler, according to Dan McKetrick, Demsey's Eastern representative. McKetrick announced yesterday the receipt of a $200,000 offer for Dempsey's end in such a match. The offer, McKetrick said, came from Bob Matchis, Oklahoma City oil man. Billy Sandow, according to McKetrick, is prepared to post a forfeit of $5,000 to bind the match for Lewis, and to wager $25,000 on the side that the wrestler would beat the boxing champion. It was said at the offices of the State Athletic Commission yesterday that such a match would not be tolerated in this State.

NABLE SUSPENDED PENDING HEARING

East Side Featherweight Disciplined Because of Disorder at Harlem-Fairmont A. C.

Sammy Nable, east side featherweight, was suspended pending a hearing yesterday by the State Athletic Commission, because of the attack on Judge Charles E. Miles at the Harlem-Fairmont A. C. last Monday night. The commission yesterday investigated the disorder which followed the announcement of the decision that Billy Ryckoff had beaten Nable. The disorder, it is alleged, was produced by Nable's admirers among the spectators. Judge Miles testified before Chairman William Muldoon that he had been struck before private detectives came to his rescue as an excited mob surged about him.

As a result of the disorder the commission adopted a rule that in the future, whenever an official, judge or referee is assaulted or attacked at a licensed club, the license of that club will be suspended forthwith, and if a boxer and his manager are concerned in such attack their licenses will be revoked and the boxer will not be permitted to box in any club in New York State.

Another ruling of the commission forbids local club managers to arrange for matches for Christmas Day. The rule under which boxers who are disqualified for fouling will forfeit all claims to compensation also was adopted.

The suspension of Dave Rosenberg, Brooklyn middleweight, who lost on a foul to Mike O'Dowd recently, was continued. Chairman Muldoon said Rosenberg's case probably would be disposed of next Tuesday.

FIRPO CABLES THAT HE WILL BOX HERE

South American Answers Message From Rickard—May Fight Johnson or Brennan.

Luis Firpo, South American heavyweight, will be seen in Madison Square Garden some time in January unless unexpected developments prevent it. In a cable to Promoter Tex Rickard yesterday the giant from the Argentine expressed his willingness to come here to box either Floyd Johnson Iowa heavyweight, or Bill Brennan, Chicago veteran. Firpo's message, which was in response to one sent to him recently, seeking his attitude as to another visit to North America, follows:

"Am willing fight. Will be there soon. Thanks."

Rickard said yesterday that he had no definite plans as yet for a bout in which Firpo would be a principal. The promoter prefers either Johnson or Brennan as an opponent for Firpo if either of the American boxers can be induced to accept terms to battle the South American. In the event that Brennan and Johnson decline the issue, Rickard said that he would obtain some other suitable heavyweight capable of bringing out whatever qualifications the South American enjoys as a prospective contender for the world's heavyweight title.

GODFREY SCORES KNOCKOUT

Wins From Thompson at Pioneer S. C. in Fifth Round.

George Godfrey, a heavyweight protégé of Jack Johnson, knocked out Jack Thompson last night in the fifth round of their bout at the Pioneer Sporting Club. Godfrey has a lightning fast left jab and hits hard. He is fast on his feet and has considerable boxing ability. He was examined afterward and it was thrown in the ring when Thompson claimed that he had broken his arm. He was examined afterward and it as found that his arm was, in fact, fractured in two places. Godfrey had the better of the milling from the first bell to the finish. Both men weighed 204 pounds.

The semi-final between Mike Burke of Greenwich Village and Eddie Josephs of Staten Island also resulted in a knockout. This was a rough-and-tumble slugging match all the way. Josephs was down for a count of nine in the fifth, the bell saving him. The referee stopped the bout in the sixth. The men weighed in at 158 pounds.

DUNDEE AND DOYLE DRAW.

Junior Lightweight Champion Not in Best Shape at Newark.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 5.—Johnny Dundee, junior lightweight king, fought a draw with Willie Doyle, local lightweight, here tonight in a twelve-round scrap. Dundee was not in his usual fighting condition, being fat around the waist. The weights were announced as 134½ pounds for both boys at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Doyle made a fast start and earned the honor in the first two rounds. Dundee was content for the most part to hold his own with Doyle, not showing his usual amount of speedy work.

MUNCE MEETS DEFEAT.

Butler Outpoints Met. Heavyweight Champion at Trinity Club.

The defeat of Gordon Munce, metropolitan heavyweight champion and former national heavyweight champion, was the feature of the amateur boxing program of the Trinity Club held at the Rink Sporting Club last night. Munce was outpointed by Ben Butler of Trinity Club, to whom the judges awarded the decision after three fast rounds. The verdict was well received by the crowd. The two fought evenly early in the battle, but Butler did most of the forcing and landed more frequently and clearly in the third round. This was a special bout held in addition to a long series in several classes.

'C' CLUB TO DISCUSS COACHING PROBLEM

Will Be Chief Topic at Meeting of Columbia Letter Men—Insignia Awarded.

The selection of a new football coach for Columbia will be the chief topic of discussion at a dinner of Blue and White varsity athletes, past and present, at the Columbia University Club, 4 West Forty-third Street, at 7 o'clock this evening. The Varsity "C" Club, an organization of letter men, will hold a meeting in connection with the dinner, and at this meeting the question of a football coach will be talked over.

No decision in the matter will be announced until after New Year's, according to R. W. Watt, Graduate Manager of Athletics. Tonight's discussion will be advisory in nature, and the athletic authorities will attempt to sound out the sentiment among the varsity letter winners. Problems peculiar to football on Morningside Heights will be discussed and an effort made to arrive at an agreement as to the kind of coach and football system needed.

A score of coaches are now being considered, Graduate Manager Watt said yesterday, and an exhaustive investigation is being conducted into the merits of each.

"Many well-known coaches have applied for the position vacated by Frank J. O'Neill," Watt said yesterday. "There has been a surprising number of applications received by this office. In addition, we have approached other prominent coaches, and they have indicated that they would be in a receptive mood if any formal offer were made.

"However, we are anxious to proceed cautiously and know our ground before we make a choice. For that reason we will try to find out what the varsity letter men think about the matter tomorrow night. The Football Committee believes that there is more to the question than the mere naming of a well-known and successful coach. Events of the last few years have shown that a coach who has been successful elsewhere will not necessarily be successful at Columbia. To get to the bottom of the problem will be our task in the next few weeks."

One of the best-known coaches in the Middle West is being favorably considered, Watt declared. Three prominent Eastern mentors, one of them the coach of an unbeaten eleven this season, are also among the possibilities, and a fifth applicant is the tutor of a successful freshman team at a big institution.

Twenty-two varsity football men were voted their "C" at a meeting of the Insignia Committee yesterday noon. This was in addition to the manager, Raymond Keenan, and nine men who got a minor insignia, "fCt," for their 1922 labors. At the same time twenty-six freshman players received their numerals, "1926." These were the first awards for this season. Letters to the cross-country team will be voted in the near future.

Yesterday's awards were as follows:

DR. SPEARS WILL REMAIN.

W. Va. Grid Mentor Signs to Coach Mountaineers Another Year.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 5.—Dr. C. W. Spears, who has so successfully handled the West Virginia University football squad during the past two years, will again be in charge of its activities next season, according to announcement made here today. Spears piloted the Mountaineers through their first season in history without a defeat and there was much fear locally that he would move on to some other institution.

But Spears is apparently well satisfied here and while the agreement announced today covers only one year, it is understood that Spears expects to remain at West Virginia and to locate here for the practice of his profession of medicine. West Virginia alumni, faculty and students are back of Spears solidly here and no more so now after a successful season than they were a year ago when he had only mediocre success.

SEHRES TO LEAD N. Y. U.

Quarterback Is Elected Captain of 1923 Football Team.

The New York University football team will be captained by Dave Eehres next season. Sehres played quarter back on this year's eleven and was the Violet's mainstay on defense in the back field for the past two years. Sehres was the popular choice of his team mates, who were awarded their varsity insignia at an earlier meeting of the Athletic Association.

John J. Harding of the class of 1923 was elected to manage the freshmen football team for next year and G. Nelson Furbeck automatically becomes manager of the Varsity for the coming season, having occupied the position of assistant manager for the past year.

George Yater, star hill and dale performer for the Violet, was elected cross-country captain at the same meeting. Douglas MacCullum was elected varsity manager at a previous meeting.

NAVY WANTS EARLIER DATE.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 5.—Nov. 24th rather than Dec. 1st is preferred at the Naval Academy as the date of the next football game between the Naval and Military Academies. The latter date, it is thought, prolongs the season too much.

Representatives of the service schools will meet within ten days and try to reach an agreement covering future games. It is thought it will be similar to the one which has just been completed. Under it the teams met on the Saturday nearest to Nov. 25th.

Pennsylvania State, at State, and the Army game are the only contests for next year regarded as definite. Princeton, the University of Pennsylvania and Colgate are possible opponents, and the Navy wishes to fill a number of other dates.

LAFAYETTE BARS FRESHMEN

College Adopts Modified One-Year Residence Rule.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 5.—The Lafayette College faculty at a meeting this evening voted to adopt the modified one-year ruling as proposed by the Faculty Athletic Committee. The one-year rule, which will go into effect in September, 1923, bars freshmen from playing football against institutions which enforce a one-year rule. The first-year men, however, will be permitted to play for Lafayette against colleges which do not have a one-year residence rule. The new rule will apply only to football.

Cubs Sign Semi-Pro Pitcher.

STOCKTON, Cal., Dec. 5.—Dewey Lee Patton, star twirler for semi-professional clubs in San Joaquin County for the past two seasons, has been signed for a trial with the Chicago Cubs, according to word received here today. Patton is pitching in the Central California Winter League.

LANDIS IS FIRM ON MEETING DATE

Commissioner Will Not Change From Dec. 14 Because of Johnson's Action.

CLEVELAND SELLS BAGBY

Pirates Buy Veteran Pitcher at Minor League Gathering—Benson Introduces Novelty.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—There is no possibility of Commissioner Landis reconsidering his plans to hold a joint meeting of the major leagues in New York Dec. 14, as originally scheduled, regardless of whether there is American League participation in the session. The American League club owners are scheduled to hold their annual meeting in Chicago Dec. 18.

Commissioner Landis made his decision plain tonight when besieged for a statement as to his intentions, but his only reply was that the joint meeting would be held as announced. He explained that he had issued his call for the meeting three weeks ago; that every club owner and official of the two leagues had been informed, and that the call had been issued on the assurances given during the world's series that both the American and National Leagues would hold their annual meetings in New York.

"President Johnson of the American League, in the presence of several club owners of both leagues, said that the annual meeting of his organization would be held in New York," Commissioner Landis said tonight. "Consequently, I thought it would be advisable to call for a joint meeting at the same time.

Chicago Was First Choice.

"It was my intention, when I became Commissioner, to hold joint meetings every year, either in New York or Chicago, first in one city and then the other. It was my plan to hold a joint meeting in Chicago this year until the question of the meetings came up in New York during the World's Series."

Everywhere the feeling prevailed that a misunderstanding had resulted, and that President Johnson probably would rescind his call for a Chicago meeting and gather his forces in New York next week.

After a brief session, the club owners of the American Association adjourned tonight without adopting a schedule for the 1923 campaign. The starting date will be dependent upon the date selected by the majors for the opening. The minor leagues and practically all of the major league clubs have arranged exhibition games on the basis of the major leagues starting the 1923 pennant races on April 17, but the American League club owners apparently are unsettled on the subject, and may decide to open on April 11.

President Hickey of the American Association said he would call a schedule meeting, probably for Chicago, when the major leagues definitely decided on their opening dates. It is probable that a 168-game schedule will be adopted.

Trading in the baseball market became so brisk today that something entirely new in bartering systems was started by H. J. Benson, President of the San Antonio Club of the Texas League.

Benson posted a list of ten ball players on the pillars of the hotel lobby with the announcement that all of them were on the market. The prices fluctuated when big deals were reported, but before the day was over Benson managed to trade Catcher Johnny Brock, one of the athletes whose name was posted, for Pitcher Marshall of Atlanta.

Bagby Sold to Pirates.

Pitcher James Bagby, a veteran with the Cleveland Americans, was sold to the Pittsburgh Nationals, but the purchase price was not announced. Bagby has been with Cleveland for five years. His best season was 1921 when he won thirty-one games.

The first big deal of the convention was made today when Sammy Hale, third baseman with the Portland, Ore., club, a hitting and fielding sensation of the Pacific Coast League, was sold to the Philadelphia Americans for players and cash amounting to $75,000.

The trade was consummated by Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics and Jimmy Middleton, manager of the Portland club. A big slice of the purchase price will be paid in players.

Hale, a former Texas Leaguer, formerly was in the major leagues, having had a brief trial with Detroit. He came to the Portland club from Detroit in a deal for players. As a result of his performances last season, he was compared favorably by Pacific Coast League critics to Willie Kam, the San Francisco third baseman, sold to the White Sox for $100,000.

The minor leaguers held a brief session this afternoon, heard Secretary Farrell's report on the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues and adjourned until tomorrow. Secretary Farrell presented a proposal from the major leagues to raise the player limit from forty to fifty, which would give the majors an opportunity to have twenty-five players in the minors under option. The move probably will be opposed tomorrow.

MANHATTAN FIVE WINS.

Defeats New York Teachers College by Score of 33-19.

Manhattan College won its basketball contest last night from New York Teachers' College by a score of 33 to 19. Manhattan maintained the lead without great difficulty from the start and took occasion to try out numerous substitutes. G. Meenan was the star for the victors and Maloney for the losers. The game was played at De la Salle Gymnasium.

The line-up:

MANHATTAN (33).		TEACHERS C. (19)
Driscoll	L.F.	Maloney
Mulligan	R.F.	Feuerstein
G. Meenan	C.	Sheridan
O'Mella	L.G.	Woodnall
Sullivan	R.G.	Furman

Goals from the floor—Manhattan: Driscoll (3), Mulligan (2), G. Meenan (3), O'Mella (2), Sullivan; Teachers' College: Maloney (3), Feuerstein (3), Woodnall, Furman (2). Goals from foul—G. Meenan (3), Feuerstein (3).

Substitutions—Manhattan: E. Meenan for G. Meenan, G. Meenan for Driscoll, Smith for Sullivan, Hamlin for Mulligan, Mulligan for O'Mella, O'Mella for Hamlin, Driscoll for Smith; Teachers' College: Walsh for Maloney, Maloney for Walsh.

CUTS N. Y. U. FLOOR SQUAD.

Thorp Reduces Turnout to 24 Men —Schedule Announced.

Of the forty or more aspirants for Ed Thorp's Violet quintet the New York University basketball mentor cut his squad to twenty-four and has further divided them into two groups. The first of these numbers ten and includes the men that will in all probability represent the Heights institution this season.

On the first squad Thorp has Toorock and Maslino, the only veterans of last year's team. The former has been appointed acting captain for this season, due to the enforced absence of Floyd Bates, captain-elect of this year's five.

The New York University basketball team has thirteen games on its schedule for this season. Only two short trips are scheduled, the first to West Point, where they meet the Army quintet on Feb. 7, and on Saturday of the same week they travel to Schenectady to meet the Union College five.

The schedule:

Dec. 8, Alumni at home; 16, Haverford at home; 19, Wesleyan at home.

Jan. 6, Columbia at Columbia; 12, St. John's at home; 17, Swarthmore at home.

Feb. 3, West Point at West Point; 10, Union at Schenectady; 14, Fordham at Fordham; 16, Rutgers at home; 22, Brooklyn Poly at Brooklyn; 24, Lehigh at home.

Muldoon to Permit Christmas Fund With Some Reservations

William Muldoon, Chairman of the State Athletic Commission, yesterday invited all clubs, managers, boxers and managers of all other athletic sports to participate in raising a Christmas fund, which the commission will support and encourage if the local newspapers appoint a committee of representatives of their business departments to supervise the work of collection and distribution. The purpose of the fund would be to provide aid for the poor children of the city. Muldoon, in a statement, grants permission for boxing clubs to hold more than the usual one show a week, if necessary, for the fund and promises referees, judges, timekeepers and other officials who will work gratuitously. If the boxers wish they will be paid or they may give their services.

COL. HUSTON THINKS FIGHT IS CHILDISH

Says Judge Landis and Ban Johnson Should Get Together on Baseball Meetings.

The quarrel between Ban Johnson and Judge Landis over the date and place of the annual baseball meetings is childish in the extreme, in the calm and reasoned judgment of Colonel Tillinghast Huston of the Yankees. The local magnate refused to specify which party to the dispute was guilty of the infantile behavior, but he was none the less emphatic in his opinions anent the latest unpleasantness in the ranks of organized baseball.

"When two men holding the important positions of Mr. Johnson and Judge Landis have a question to settle, it seems to me that they might get together and talk it over," said the Colonel. "Their offices in Chicago are only a few blocks apart. Why doesn't one walk around the corner, call on the other and get these things settled? This business of waiting for the other fellow to do something and then blocking him doesn't look to me like good common sense or good business."

With this opinion off his chest, the Yankee magnate stated that he would not attend the American League meeting in Chicago on Dec. 14—not because he objects to Johnson's sudden action in switching the place, but because personal matters will keep him in this city. Colonel Jacob Ruppert will represent the Yanks at the conference, with the assistance of Business Manager Ed Barrow.

"If you're in this city then, you can go to Judge Landis's joint meeting on the 14th," it was suggested to Colonel Huston.

"Not on your life," he retorted. "What would I do there alone against eight National Leaguers? I don't want to be a hopeless minority all by myself. It looks like a physical impossibility for the American League owners to get back from Chicago for Landis's meeting. Their own conference won't start until noon Wednesday, and the Twentieth Century leaves at 12:40 P. M."

If no American Leaguers are present at the Landis meeting, it will be a joint conference only between the Judge and the National League magnates. They could take no action by themselves. For that reason baseball men believed yesterday that the meeting was doomed when Landis declared in Louisville that he would stick to his original plans, Johnson or no Johnson.

Landis, however, may take the occasion while in this city to begin a sharp fight against the American League head, basing it on the failure of the joint meeting. If there is going to be a baseball war, as the signs point to now, it may begin at that time, involving Landis and the National League on one side and Johnson and the American League on the other. There are plenty of war clouds on the horizon and no lack of warriors, and the battle may settle down to a personal one between the Commissioner of Baseball and the only man who has appeared thus far to dispute his supremacy.

COLUMBIA QUINTET WINS SECOND GAME

Defeats Brooklyn Poly in Raggedly Played Contest by 27 to 15 Score.

Columbia University was once more successful in its second game of the basketball season, defeating Brooklyn Poly on the Columbia floor last night by a score of 27 to 15. The game was raggedly played, with neither team showing much finish in its passing game. Captain Pulleyn of Columbia made his first appearance of the season, getting into the game in the last few minutes of play.

Columbia took the lead at the start as a result of two field goals by Strom and was never headed thereafter. The score at the end of the first half was 14 to 9 in the Blue and White's favor. In the second half Poly scored only one field goal against Columbia's strong defense. This was made by Provost near the end of the game. The match was witnessed by 600 spectators.

The line-up:

COLUMBIA (27).		BKLYN POLY (15).
Springhorn	L.F.	Marzahl
Strom	R.F.	Linoki
Dockerill	C.	Provost
Wilson	L.G.	Munzer
Mullen	R.G.	Coughlin

Goals from the floor—Columbia: Springhorn, Strom (5), Dockerill (5), Mullen (3). Brooklyn Poly: Marzahl, Provost, Munzer, Coughlin (2), Scheeps. Goals from foul—Wilson (3), Linoki, Provost, Scheeps.

Substitutions—Columbia: Reilly for Wilson, Pulleyn for Mullen, Fields for Springhorn. Brooklyn Poly: Tarani for Linoki, Linoki for Tarani, Tarani for Linoki, Scheeps for Marzahl, Marzahl for Scheeps, Scheeps for Marzahl.

Referee—J. J. O'Brien, St. John's. Umpire—Edmund Butler, Cornell. Time of halves—20 minutes.

NEW MOON FIVE WINS.

Crescent A. C. Defeats Brooklyn Law School Team, 47-18.

The Crescent Athletic Club basketball team easily defeated the Brooklyn Law School five on the Crescent floor last night by a score of 47 to 18. The New Mooners led all the way, having an advantage at half time of 20 to 10. Rippe caged the ball five times for Crescent, and Barker, Barkelew and Nicklas also did some excellent shooting. Bowe was a star in the Brooklyn L. S. attack.

The line-up:

CRESCENT A.C. (47)		BROOKLYN L.S. (18)
Barker	L.F.	Halperin
Barkelew	R.F.	Brownstein
Rippe	C.	Bowe
Sims	L.G.	Siegel
Nicklas	R.G.	Goldstein

Goals from floor—Crescent: Barker (5), Barkelew (2), Rippe (5), Sims, Nicklas (3), Griffin (2), Horton, Jones (2); Brooklyn Law School: Halperin (2), Brownstein (2), Bowe (3), Siegel, Goldstein. Goals from foul—Barker (4), Nicklas (3), Stewart. (3).

Referee—Brunn, Pratt Institute. Umpire—Kenney, Yale. Time of halves—20 minutes.

DARTMOUTH SQUAD CUT.

Seventeen Men Retained for Varsity Basketball Team.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 5.—Seventeen men were retained on the Dartmouth varsity basketball squad after the first cut of the season by Coach George Zahn here today. The material for the Green five is the best that has been available in years, with lettermen out for every position. The opening game of the season comes Saturday against Middlebury on the alumni gymnasium floor. In preparation for the contest Coach Zahn has had the men going through workouts every day with a morning session added during the Thanksgiving recess.

GIANTS' FIELDERS TIED WITH PIRATES

Make Best Percentages in National League—Groh Leads Third Basemen.

So close was the fielding in the race for the championship of the National Baseball League during the season just closed that only nine points separated the leaders from the tailenders, according to official averages issued yesterday. The Giants and the Pirates were tied for first place at a percentage of .970, while the Cardinals, although finishing last in fielding, were only nine points behind the New York and Pittsburgh teams. Chicago made the most putouts, Philadelphia the most assists, and St. Louis the most errors. Philadelphia had the most total chances, while Chicago executed the most double plays, 154.

CORCORAN AGAIN A TRIPLE WINNER

RIDES WAPITI TO FORE

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5.—Johnny Corcoran, the apprentice jockey under contract to Mose Goldblatt, continued his remarkable work in the saddle during this afternoon's racing at Jefferson Park. Corcoran followed his triple of Monday with a similar string of successes today, accepting four mounts and returning three of them winners. As each of the trio went to the post at good odds, the boy's followers, whose name is already legion, cleaned up on the afternoon's sport.

Two of Corcoran's victories were achieved in driving finishes. He put Wireless over in the opening race, bringing him from behind in the stretch to beat Lee Fisher by a length. In the next event he landed High Tea a head in front of the favorite, Slanderer, and in the Harriman Purse, the starred number on the program, he gave Wapiti a well-judged ride and the gelding son of Harmonicon had a goodly margin at the wire.

Wapiti was rushed into the lead soon after the start and was nicely rated in front for the rest of the journey of a mile and a furlong. Fantoche, which shared with Uncle Velo the position of public choice at post time, was poorly handled by Doyle, but came along at the top of the stretch and made Corcoran shake up Wapiti a bit. The horse responded willingly and was eased up at the line, beating Fantoche by two lengths. Blarney Stone took the short end of the purse. The winner's time, 1:52 1-5, was within two-fifths of a second of the track record.

J. McPherson, owner of Wapiti, scored a double for his veteran plater Merchant captured the final event, a test at a mile and a sixteenth, in which he was the well-backed favorite.

The summaries:

HERDEL FILLY WINS FEATURE AT HAVANA

Little Black Sheep Captures Camaguey Handicap in Fast Time —Pickens Is Suspended.

HAVANA, Dec. 5.—The Maryland-bred filly Little Black Sheep, which races under the colors of Harry Herdel, showed a good performance in the Camaguey Handicap this afternoon at Oriental Park, when she beat a good lot of sprinters over the six-furlong route and incidentally equaled the time made by Belle of Elizabethtown on the opening day, when the latter ran the distance in 1:12 flat. The pace in today's race was fast, the winner running the first five furlongs in 0:59.

Thomas Monahan's Cydonia outbroke the field and made the pace to the stretch turn, when Little Black Sheep caught and passed him, and at the finish was in hand. Little Black Sheep was riden by J. Callahan, who also had the mount on W. R. Coe's Winnipeg, which won the first race.

San Pablo and Runnan, both first time starters of the meeting, won the second and third races respectively. Sungod found no trouble in capturing the sixth race by some half dozen lengths.

Jockey A. Dickens was suspended for ten days by the stewards for rough riding on Havana Electric in the fourth races.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For maiden two-year-olds; claiming; purse, $700; five and a half furlongs. Winnipeg, 116 pounds (Callahan), $6.70, $3.50, $2.50, first; Miss Maude, 102 (Vanderville), $3.10, $2.40, second; Gray Bonnet, 107 (Woodstock), $2.70, third. Time—1:08 2-5. Jennie G., Dinah Dean, Brushwood and Conundrum also ran.

SECOND RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse, $700; five and a half furlongs. San Pablo, 118 pounds (Mc-Dermott), $6.10, $4.20, $2.50, first; Hallcross, 107 (Sandstrom), $33.10, $10.50, second; Duke of Wellington, 107 (Landerville), $8.40, third. Time—1:08 2-5. Full Sail, Miss Dixie, Little Niece, M. Gerosat, McMurphy, Dinty Moore, Guardsman and Sherman also ran.

THIRD RACE—For three-year-olds and upward; claiming; purse, $700; five and a half furlongs. Runnan, 119 pounds (Primrose), $6.80, $4.60, $3., first; Kitty Cheatham, 109 (J. Big Sheet Awarded to Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The Grand American handicap shoot for 1923 today was awarded to Chicago. The tournament will be held at the South Shore Country Club, starting Aug. 22.

Racing at Tijuana Track Will Be Resumed Today

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 5.—Resumption of racing at Tijuana is to be made tomorrow, according to announcement today by officials of the Tijuana Jockey Club. The announcement came after orders had been received from Governor J. Innocente Luco of Lower California rescinding orders issued earlier for the closing of the track. Governor Luco said he was acting under orders issued by the Secretary of State for Mexico. General Calles at Mexico City, it was stated, issued orders for the resumption of the meeting after he had received telegrams from Tijuana and Mexicali declaring that there had been no disorders in Tijuana and that there was no possibility of disturbances.

FINDS RURAL MAIL HORSE IS BRELADE

Trotting Board of Review Rules on Stolen Animal Sold as Charles E. P.—Other Cases.

One of the chief rulings made yesterday by the Board of Review of the National Trotting Association at the opening of its meeting at the Murray Hill Hotel to act on cases that have come up within the last six months was that Charles E. P., which raced on several tracks in this State the past Summer, is really Brelade by Bengara, but as the horse did not start out of his class it was decided that he is entitled to his winnings, subject, however, to a recording fee of $50 for change of name.

Testimony before the board showed that Brelade was owned by M. E. Lyons of Northampton, Mass., and was stolen from his stable in the Autumn of 1918. After passing through a number of hands the horse attracted the attention of Frank H. Bouton of Oneonta, N. Y., because of the speed he exhibited while carrying a rural mail delivery route in Central New York.

Bouton purchased the horse under the name of Charles E. P. It was testified that the wife of a man whom Bouton had discharged wrote to Lyons that Charles E. P. in reality was Brelade. Lyons visited the track where Charles E. P. was racing and recognized him as his missing Brelade.

Ed Sutherland, trainer of Dan Hedgewood, filed a claim against the association at Rochester, N. H., for $400 on the ground that the association had promised him $400 to start in a free-for-all race regardless of where he finished. This was denied by Dr. Chesley, race secretary of the Rochester track, who, however, stated that he had told Sutherland that if Dan Hedgewood finished second in the race the association would make up the difference between second money and first and give him a purse equal to the winner. But Dan Hedgewood, he said, did not come in second. The board dismissed the case as the alleged agreement is not covered by the rules.

According to testimony before the board in a three and five heat race at Farmington, Me., in July, Carl C. did not stand for the money at the end of the third heat. The judges allowed the horse to remain in and he won the race. The board held that Carl C. should have been ruled out, and ordered that the premium be paid as though he had not started after the third heat.

Secretary Gocher announced that the board had expelled Vick Fleming of Dundas, Canada, for misconduct, in persistently driving in races while under suspension; that William Herron of Wyoming, Ohio, had been fined $50 for driving in races at meetings given by members while under suspension; that David Jones of Ohio City, Ohio, had been expelled for racing the horse Derby Sheriff, with a record of 2:09¼, out of his class and under the name of John Edwin B., and that the application of Walter R. Cox for release from a fine imposed at Columbus, Ohio, on Sept. 27, had been granted.

Those in attendance at the meeting were Third Vice President C. M. De Garmendia of Tuscarora, Md.; I. R. Morrell of Brunswick, Me., representing the Eastern District; Ray M. Colby of Owego, N. Y., for the Atlantic District; Henry B. Rea of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Reese Blizzard of Parkersburg, W. Va., for the Central District, and E. W. Swisher of Columbus, Ohio, and A. P. Sandles of Ottawa, Ohio, for the Southwestern District. The meeting will be continued today.

YALE TRACK MEN REPORT.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 5.—A hundred candidates for the Yale track team reported to Coach Johnny Mack this afternoon, more than at any time in the past four years. SQUASH MATCHES RUN TRUE TO FORM

Fink, Coward, Mixsell and Cordier Triumph in Fall Scratch Tourney Play.

All of the eight matches constituting the third round of the annual Fall scratch tournament of the National Squash Tennis Association at the Yale Club followed form closely yesterday afternoon. The winners in the upper half of the draw were: William Rand Jr., Harvard Club; Thomas R. Coward, Yale Club, the national champion; Harold R. Mixsell, Princeton Club, and John C. Neely, Princeton Club, and they will meet in that order this afternoon in the fourth round. The four survivors in the lower half were: Auguste J. Cordier, Yale Club; R. Earl Fink, Crescent A. C.; J. A. Richards, Harvard Club, and Charles M. Bull Jr., Crescent A. C. They also will meet today in the order named in the round before the semi-finals.

Most of the fireworks in yesterday's encounters were produced in the meeting between Cordier and his clubmate, Douglas M. Bomeisler. The two Yale men depended largely upon angle shots, utilising front-wall smashes rarely. Bomeisler had plenty of speed and was good in getting the ball back, but Cordier had the better of the argument in the matter of generalship. The former national champion's position play was excellent and his racquet work, as usual, was beyond criticism. Bomeisler depended more upon main strength for his pace than upon finesse in position play. He made numerous spectacular shots, but missed on others that he should have connected with.

Bomeisler's many errors made directly off service played a large part in Cordier's victory at 15—8 in the opening game. The former champion led at 9—3 in this game and then took things more easily, while Bomeisler speeded up. In the second session Cordier staged a repetition, building up a lead of 12—4 before Bomeisler got fairly under way. The old football star played strongly from that point on to the finish, and his around-the-court shots had Cordier a bit worried. But Cordier's service, which hugged the wall and forced errors or soft returns, and his well-judged angle shots and good position play enabled him to run out at 15—10.

Coward Not Extended.

Coward was never greatly extended to defeat his clubmate, Lindsey Bradford, in straight games. Rand continued the admirable play which has characterized all his matches in this tournament and won from C. W. Dingee, Crescent A. C., in straight games. Fink registered an extraordinarily easy victory at the expense of his Crescent clubmate, H. V. Crawford, whom he allowed only one point in their two games. Fink was playing beautiful squash, and interest runs high with regard to his meeting with Cordier this afternoon. That match ought to supply some of the high lights of the tournament.

Mixsell utilized his contest with his fellow-Princetonian, O. S. Greene, largely for the trying out of his strokes. Mixsell had command at all times and apparently might have won more decisively than the scores of 15—10, 15—10 would indicate. His around-the-court shots were admirably executed. He made many brilliant recoveries from the fore part of the court, snapping the ball back with marked dexterity of wrist motion and exercising the best of control as well as knowledge of the angles and of pace.

Neely of the Princeton Club engaged in a hot duel with L. I. Grinnell of the Harvard forces. Neely won by 8—15, 17—16, 15—10. Grinnell had a lead of 14—10 in the second game, so that he was three times within a point of taking the match in straight games. Neely rallied splendidly and played excellent squash to set the game at 14—all and then gather in three of the next five points. It was a narrow escape. Neely's persistent court covering gave him the rubber game at 15—10 after another torrid tussle. The argument became particularly stubborn when Neely was leading at 11—10. It was hand out for the ultimate winner at least a dozen times before he was able to win another point, and Grinnell's resistance continued almost as strongly to the finish.

Bull Eliminates Thorne.

Bull eliminated the D. K. E. ace, H. S. Thorne, the only player in squash tennis who wields his racquet equally well with either hand. Thorne's ability in this peculiar line had Bull puzzled, as it has so many others of Thorne's opponents, and the Crescent star dropped the second game at 15—9. His greater experience and superior court craft enabled him to take the rubber, however, by the same score.

Coward, Mixsell, Cordier and Bull are the favorites to come through to the semi-finals this afternoon, though it is conceded that Cordier will have a difficult time disposing of Fink. There will be no matches tomorrow, when the team contests in the Class A division of the Metropolitan League will engage the players. The semi-finals will be contested Friday afternoon and the final on Monday next. On Saturday many of the squash players will be playing exhibition matches on the newly opened courts at the Westchester-Biltmore Club in Rye.

The summaries:

YALE CLUB DEFEATS HARVARD AT SQUASH

METROPOLITAN SQUASH TENNIS LEAGUE STANDING, CLASS B.

New York A. C.	0	4	.000

The Yale Club and Heights Casino squash tennis teams advanced a peg in the race for the Class B team championship of the Metropolitan League yesterday afternoon. The Elis defeated the Harvard Club on the latter's courts by 4 matches to 3 and thus broke a tie with the Crimson to obtain undisputed possession of the lead in the second section of the tournament. Heights Casino, playing in the same section, defeated the New York A. C., also by a score of 4 to 3, and thus broke a tie for the cellar position. This series was played on the Casino courts.

All the matches in the Yale-Harvard encounter were closely contested. G. L. Smith played No. 1 for the Elis, and barely managed to win from R. C. Rand by 15—7, 12—15, 15—14. This was the decisive contest, and its scores indicated how well the teams were matched. Ralph W. Wolf and C. P. Goodhue were likewise extended to three games to register a point for the Blue, D. McK. Blodget being the only straight-game victor. The winners for the Harvard Club were Grove O'Neill, A. Musgrave Hyde and David Duncan, all of whom won in straight games. The Harvard Club, present champions, had been generally picked to win.

Inability to get its team together was responsible for the defeat of the New York A. C. M. M. Sterling, N. Y. A. C. veteran, had been relied upon to win his match with R. L. Brown, but he was obliged to default, and this was enough to turn the victory over to the Casino seven. C. Hearn, Casino, also benefited by a default. Of the five matches actually contested, the N. Y. A. C. team won three and Heights Casino two. M. A. Bergfeld played No. 1 for the losers and defeated Richardson Pratt by the uneven scores of 15—12, 15—1. S. M. Loughman and James Butler Jr. won for N. Y. A. C., and F. E. Walton and F. F. Bird in turn turned in victories for Heights Casino.

The summaries:

HIGGINS ELIGIBLE FOR 1923 SEASON

Columbia Cross-Country Star Has Another Year as Harrier, Says Coach.

Reports that Walter Higgins of Columbia, winner of the recent intercollegiate cross-country championship run, has taken part in his last race as a harrier are exaggerated, according to Carl Merner, Columbia coach. Higgins still has another year left, Merner said yesterday, and he will be out there making another bid for the hill-and-dale title next year.

"Higgins will finish up his track activities next Spring," said Merner, "but he has a year of cross-country still coming to him. This is due to the fact that he was out all of last year with an injured ankle. Under the rules of both Columbia and the I. C. A. A. A. A. a runner is entitled to compete on a varsity team for four years. Higgins will still be enrolled in Columbia next year as a law student and he will be on the cross-country team, although ineligible for track and field."

Billiard Results.

Peter Judice defeated Andrew Midway, 125 to 76, last night in the seventeenth match played in the tournament at Lawler Brothers' Academy, Brooklyn, for the New York State professional pocket billiard championship. Judice made a high run of 45 in the seventh inning. He made ten safeties and three scratches, while Midway played five safeties and two scratches. Midway's best run was 25. Midway led at 40 to 3 in the sixth inning, but Judice's run of 45 in the seventh gave him a lead which he held from then on. Arthur Church and Leo Silver will play tonight's match in this tournament.

In the Class C 18.2 balkline billiard match in the Lawler Brothers' tourney, Joseph Honsch defeated George Steinbugler last night by a count of 100 to 88. Honsch had a high run of 14 and averaged 3 12-29. Steinbugler's high run was 11 and his average 2 4-29.

Erich Hagenlacher, German 18.2 balkline billiard champion, won an exhibition match last night at the Fourteenth Street Academy from Phillip Meisse by a score of 300 to 14. Meisse was playing for 150 points. Hagenlacher had a high run of 138. In the Fourteenth Street Academy's amateur straight rail tournament William Horst defeated Joe Day, 140 to 126, in ten innings, and thus tied Day for the lead, each having seven victories and two defeats.

Louis A. Servatius, veteran of the cue, won and lost last night in the continuation of the New York State amateur three-cushion billiard championship tournament at the National Recreation Academy, Brooklyn. After losing to M. W. Leake by a count of 30 to 25 in forty-one innings, Servatius recovered form and vanquished H. L. Burk by 30 to 18 in forty-nine innings. Burk also played two games, winning his second from R. H. Everett by 30 to 25 in sixty-five innings. The fourth game of the evening was won by Ira J. Brussel from Harry Longenecker, 30 to 11, in forty-two innings. Servatius, Brussel and Leake all had high runs of 4. Players in the tourney tonight will be Burk against Peter Fatsis; M. Steinbugler against H. L. Milligan and Charles Hanf against Jack Von Golder.

Three matches were played last night in the Manhattan handicap pocket billiard tournament at the Recreation Academy, Manhattan. J. E. Hickey defeated Robert Kind by 89 to 82. Kind was playing for 82 points. D. E. Shrick won from Fred Kern, 35 to 27, Kern being required to make 81 points to win. K. E. Mossley earned his necessary 43 points while R. J. Cleary, playing for 45, was making 42. In tonight's matches in this tournament H. Linson will oppose F. G. Sherry, and Cleary will cross cues with J. R. Miller.

E. Fagen defeated Victor Whittle in the continuation of play in the West Side Pocket Billiard tournament at the Broadway Billiard Academy last night by a score of 100 to 98. The game lasted forty-four innings.

THE POPE DARES TO DO IT.

Pope PIUS has sent to the Near Eastern Conference at Lausanne a solemn protest concerning the deadly peril in which it is proposed to leave the Armenian and other Christian minorities throughout the Turkish Empire. His Holiness seems to be unaware of the immutable principle that you cannot protest against an act of gross inhumanity unless you are prepared to prevent it by force. Is it to be imagined that the Turks will stand in fear of the Swiss Guards at the Vatican? The Holy See is without any temporal power at all. Yet the Pope does not hesitate to make his indignant voice heard at Lausanne and throughout Christendom as confidently as if he had fleets and armies at his command. This strange Pontiff seems to believe that there is still in the world such a thing as moral force. They would tell him his error if he applied to Washington.

ECONOMY IN DETAIL.

The budget for the next fiscal year laid before Congress by President HARDING illustrates some old and homely truths. The way to economize in Government expenditures is to scrutinize every item, stop every small leak, save a hundred here and a thousand there. The short and easy method favored by campaign speakers is to "take an axe" and chop the estimates deep. That looks well in a cartoon, but cannot be done in practice. What the Director of the Budget has to do, and what apparently he has done this year, is to go through the departments and bureaus one by one, lopping off every outlay not absolutely necessary. It is not a rough economy in gross that has been effected, but a painstaking economy in detail.

A comparison of the estimated appropriations for 1924 with those of 1923 shows how the work has been done. In a few cases the new figures are higher than the old. For example, the requirements of the United States Veterans' Bureau are up more than $18,000,000. The estimates for the Department of Agriculture are higher by $19,000,000. Most of the other departmental appropriations are lower. The total reduction in the estimated ordinary expenditures of the Government is about $60,000,000. Of this the Shipping Board alone contributes more than $50,000,000. The greatest single item of Treasury saving is to be found in the interest on the public debt, which for 1924 will be reduced by about $150,000,000. This sum, of course, is due not to any activity of the Budget Director, but to the policy of steadily reducing the principal amount of the public debt.

The President reports a lowered estimate of the Treasury deficit for the current year. He hopes that there will be a small surplus by the end of June, 1924. But these expectations manifestly depend upon the estimated revenue. Here comes in an obvious element of uncertainty. The figures no doubt represent the best judgment of Treasury experts, but inevitably will prove accurate or otherwise according as the business of the country corresponds to the present forecast. One variable is frankly admitted in the published estimates. No figure is set down for the probable Post Office deficit. The postal revenues rise with prosperity and fall with bad times, so that it is impossible to say precisely how large they will be in a year and a half from now.

It is also apparent that another factor may throw the whole reckoning out. If Congress were to take the bit in its teeth and pass appropriation bills far exceeding the estimates—especially if it were to vote millions for a ship subsidy and billions for a soldiers' bonus—the entire economy on paper would vanish. There can be no question, however, of the purpose of the Administration to keep within the budget. Congress ought to be compelled by its leaders to do it, so that the great work of reducing public expenses into which President HARDING has thrown himself with such zeal and success shall not be brought to naught.

MORE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

Of schemes to amend the Constitution there is no end. Senator LA FOLLETTE'S conference of progressives, liberals and radicals of high and low degree favored an amendment abolishing the Electoral College and empowering the people to vote directly for President and Vice President. Amendments of this sort have been kicking about Congress for a hundred years. The people already vote directly in substance, if not in form. In a hotly contested election, frauds and counts and recounts are always possibilities under any system. Twenty-five years ago Senator HOAR dwelt upon the fact that the Constitution doesn't say who shall be President if the President-elect dies between the meeting of the Electors in January and before inauguration on March 4. So the "inability" of the President is not defined in the Constitution, and great lawyers like LYMAN TRUMBULL and Judge COOLEY couldn't agree upon a definition.

The liberal-progressive-radicals are hot for another amendment, which will also involve a further one. There has been much mild and some heated talk at various times about the interposition of thirteen months between the election of the new Congress and its meeting, unless there be a called session. The recent elections, which stiffened the hopes of the "liberals," have encouraged them to revive the project of a more immediate response to the so-called popular "mandate." So Senator NORRIS is all for the plan "to have the convening of the Congress moved up to avoid lame-duck "Congresses." Senator CARAWAY offered a sapient resolution to forbid "lame ducks" in Congress from voting save on routine matters. But the recent elections are, in fact, an argument against the proposed change. Anybody who can find a clear "mandate" in their result must be a seventh son of a seventh son. What would have happened if the Sixty-eighth Congress instead of the Sixty-seventh were now in session? A lot of miscellaneous "wild colts," who had had no time to clarify their ideas or policies, elected for miscellaneous reasons, would have got to work and into confusion. The interval given by the Constitution is an opportunity for reflection. The first drunkenness of victory cools off. A mitigation of destructive, a ripening of constructive, tendencies is at least possible under the present system.

This hair-trigger immediacy would necessitate the cutting off of two months or more from the terms of office of the President and members of Congress. While the high authority of the American Bar Association supports the "movement" to give effect to the "voice of the people" soon after the election, it may be doubted if there is anything more than a superficial and sporadic popular demand for it. If the "liberal bloc" in Congress pines for constitutional amendments, why doesn't it favor the adoption of the useful and needed amendment studied by Judge KENYON when he was a great figure among the progressive Senators? He wanted to give the President power to veto single items in appropriation bills and legislative "riders." Such an amendment would make considerably for economy. That is too poor an object to engage the affections of Mr. LA FOLLETTE'S band of occasional thinkers.

CENTRAL AMERICAN CONCORD.

When the delegates of Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua and Salvador convened in the Hall of the Americas on Monday, at the invitation of President HARDING, to consider means of stability and peace in Central America, Secretary HUGHES told them that they would find in Washington "the most friendly atmosphere" and a "helpful spirit of co-operation." The delegates understood him. They knew that the movement for a federation of Central American republics, or a union of States, had been the aspiration of the people of their countries for almost one hundred years, but that it had always failed, because, owing to the strife of parties in the ruling classes, agreement upon any program offered could not be brought about. The Central Americans had not been able to help themselves. Their only hope lay in diplomatic intervention by the United States. In the "friendly atmosphere" of Washington a practicable plan leading to union might be worked out and eventually accepted by the five nations concerned. ALBERTO UCLES, formerly Foreign Minister of Honduras, struck the keynote of the deliberations when he pleaded for another effort to establish a Central American Federation. The last failed no longer ago than October, 1921. Then an agreement between Honduras, Salvador and Guatemala, which was to include Costa Rica and Nicaragua, fell through when President HERRERA of Guatemala, the leading champion of unification, succumbed to an overnight revolution.

"In Central America," a Latin-American observer has said, "one is "born a unionist, but as soon as the "idea is at the point of materializing "all we see is the fall of a President "from power and a war that starts "afresh, instead of witnessing the "steady development of some co-opera-"tive plan which could materially "help toward making the union a "reality." Such a co-operative plan was proposed, or rather reapproved, at the meeting of the Presidents of Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador on board the United States cruiser Tacoma in the Gulf of Fonseca last August. They renewed the treaty, or series of conventions, that all the five Central American republics sanctioned at the Washington conference of 1907 during President ROOSEVELT'S second administration. This treaty, which fell into abeyance, was regarded as a step toward federation. At the conference now being held in Washington, Costa Rica and Guatemala will no doubt pledge their faith anew. But other subjects have to be discussed, among them limitation of land armaments. Nothing is more essential to peace and concord in Central America. In every one of its countries the army is a pawn of the politicians. There will be no enduring progress until all the republics disarm.

Arbitral disposition of controversies is only less important. In the treaty of 1907 a tribunal was provided for. None now exists. If an agreement to disarm is reached in Washington and the conventions of 1907, which included the establishment of a court of arbitration, are again agreed to with amendments that may be deemed necessary, the conference will not have been called in vain. Discussion of federation will take place during the deliberations. It would be a marked triumph for President HARDING and Secretary HUGHES if the conference could be made the stepping stone to real union of the Central American States.

THE PROTESTING PEDESTRIAN.

Thanksgiving came a week too early. If it fell tomorrow we could give thanks for Mayor HYLAN'S solution of the traffic problem. His Honor was crossing Ann Street at Park Row when a motor came around the corner. One of its mud-guards—and all prudent persons wear mud-guards in the neighborhood of the City Hall—narrowly escaped hitting the Mayoral trousers. Horrified at his sacrilege, the driver hastened on his way; but the Mayor started in pursuit. He caught the motor as easily as a commuter catches his train. While windows in the Woolworth Building rattled with the echoing cheers of the crowd, his Honor asked how fast the driver was going. The answer was "Eight miles an hour."

The Mayor knew better. Just as surely as he knew that Superintendent ETTINGER'S remarks about the schools were "bunk," he knew that the driver's estimate of his speed was bunk. The profane may think that a vehicle which could be overtaken within a block by a fat gentleman who had just finished lunch couldn't have been traveling at any record-breaking speed; but his Honor knows what he knows. The scoundrel's name and number were taken down, the Mayor adjusted his cravat, the crowd cheered, and the incident was closed; unless or until the driver is in due course arraigned for speeding, arguing, making false statements, or misusing his mud-guard.

HAROUN AL RASCHID used to prowl around Bagdad in disguise to see what was going on. And in course of time the wise men about town became extremely careful not to engage in argument with elderly gentlemen in humble attire; for they never knew when an encounter of this sort might be abruptly terminated by the appearance of MESROUR the executioner. Our Caliph, too, is abroad; and Heaven help the driver whose mud-guard interferes with him.

HELPING THE FARMERS.

Secretary WALLACE is on solid ground when he says in his annual report that the farmers are receiving too little of other things in exchange for what they produce. He is right, too, when he declares that this is because of "disproportionate relationship of prices." Having put cause and effect together, it might be thought that the remedy suggested itself—that is, reduction of prices for what is less needed than farm products and increase of demand for what the farmer can produce. There is a "superabundance of food" if the United States alone is thought of, but not on a world view. Millions are starving, while our superabundance is left on our hands. Foreigners would take 700,000,000 bushels of wheat alone if they had the needed purchasing power. For lack of that there is no magic remedy. No amount or kind of credit to farmers will enrich the idle and starving so as to enable them to buy food. Political cure for such economic disability there is none. Yet farmers have been acting as if there were.

It does not follow that the case of the farmers is hopeless. A doctrine of good cheer and the Golden Rule is better for the farmers than attempts by political action to involve others in their troubles. No one opposes help for the farmers. But the farmers are planning combines against some of their best friends. Farmers work long hours for scant returns, but they are striking hands with industrial workers who receive high wages for short hours, thus making the goods which the farmers buy dear in exchange for cheap food. The farmers could not get their produce to market at all without the help of the railways, but are set on making the railways work for less than they should receive, although the railways are in financial perplexities equal to those of the farmers. At this time two years ago the Pennsylvania Railroad operated at a deficit of $60,723,082. In 1921 it made an operating profit of $83,476,759, and this year doubled it. The income looks large, but really is small in proportion to investment, and is earned under a law forbidding an averaging of bad and good years. During the war the farmers made profits denied to the railways, and now the railways under the law must divide with the Government any earnings above a profit which cannot be reduced without confiscation.

Let the farmers cheer up, and lend a hand to others in distress. There must be no failure of the industry beneficial to all industries, and which deserves the support of all. No farmer worth helping will succumb to one bad year after several good years. And this year is not actually a bad one. Secretary WALLACE reports that "the "aggregate value of the crops of the "country this year is about $1,250,-"000,000 more than last year." Why despair?

THE "NEPMAN."

We have all got to get acquainted with a new word coming out of Russia. Let us introduce the "Nepman." He is the little trader, the small shopman, now springing up in the Russian cities since individual enterprise in commerce has ceased to be the horrible crime which the Bolsheviki at first thought it. This new figure is a result of what is called the New Economic Policy. For short it is known as the N. E. P. Hence the "Nepman."

Some searching questions about him and his activities were recently put to LENIN in Moscow by the friendly interviewer, Mr. ARTHUR RANSOME, who wrote out the answers of the Dictator and sent them to The Manchester Guardian. The inquiries related partly to the economic aspects of the Nepman and partly to the political. Did not LENIN fear that this bustling and prosperous class of traders might become a political force hostile to the Soviet Government? No more than the shopkeepers in a London street, was LENIN'S reply. Another question was whether the prosperity of the small traders was not a refutation of Communist doctrines. In answering, LENIN made a careful distinction between business on a small scale, in which personal initiative might be admitted, and the "heavy industry," where State control must be rigorously continued. Finally Mr. RANSOME wanted to know if there was any truth in the rumors flying about Moscow that the Government was going to restore the "card system" this Winter, and make a wholesale requisition on the shops of the Nepmen. LENIN indignantly denied that he was dreaming of anything of the sort. He declared the reports to be malicious inventions, and asserted that measures of that kind were not to be thought of in "contemporary Russia." Apparently, therefore, the Nepman has come to stay.

MORE DISARMAMENT?

The grand conference on the limitation of armament in Eastern Europe opened in Moscow on Saturday, and LITVINOFF, head of the Russian delegation, gave Secretary HUGHES the flattery of imitation by laying down a definite and even surprising program. Russia proposes to cut the Red Army to 200,000 men, provided her neighbors will make similar reductions; to join with the other States in providing that the military budget shall not exceed a fixed sum per soldier; and to agree to the neutralization of a zone along her western frontier. That the intention is sincere may be assumed for the moment; nevertheless, the other nations in conference, after they caught their breath, were compelled to ask for further details.

Russia's guests are the delegates of Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania and Poland. Rumania refused to attend unless Russia recognized the Rumanian annexation of Bessarabia; but it seems that Prince RADZIWILL, the leading Polish delegate, holds the Rumanian proxy. Now, according to the latest figures available, the armies of these six nations (Rumania included) number only 565,000. The Red Army's ration strength at present is probably somewhat less than 1,500,000; the available field army amounts to perhaps 900,000. There are considerable forces in the Caucasus and Central Asia; but on the western front, or behind it, Russia has more troops than can be found on the rolls of the standing armies of all her neighbors.

The reduction to 200,000 seems from the dispatches to refer to ration strength. What would this cut to 15 per cent. of the present military establishment leave the other countries? It would mean that Rumania would have an army of 30,000 and Poland of 35,000. In view of the difficulties of transportation, neither of these countries, in that position, would be in much danger from a Russian army of 200,000 paper strength; but the position of the Baltic States would be very different.

Leaving out Lithuania, which is not in direct contact with Russia, and which looks rather hopefully to the Soviet Republic on account of the common hostility to Poland, the other Baltic States would be left very short-handed: This arrangement would leave Latvia with an army of 3,000, Esthonia with 3,500, and Finland with 4,500. A single Russian division could sweep either of the two States south of the Baltic out of existence before it could mobilize. Finland's problem is different but not less serious. There are plenty of good defensive positions along the Finnish land frontier; but the Finnish coast is long, open, and undefended. The Russian navy is small and inefficient, but Finland has hardly any navy at all.

Thus the Baltic States, naturally enough, are somewhat concerned about "moral disarmament." LITVINOFF says that it alone is insufficient, which is very true; but his proposal will hardly command the confidence of the Baltic States without some "moral disarmament"—some arrangement for peaceful settlement of disputes, and a cessation of the Bolshevist propaganda which, though less active than in the past, is still causing worry to all the Baltic Governments. In the meantime, it is pleasant to observe an event which may be counted as a considerable contribution to moral disarmament in Eastern Europe—the withdrawal by Marshal PILSUDSKI of his candidacy for the Polish Presidency. If the Russians really want peace, they ought to be encouraged by this; and ought to remember that along with Mr. HUGHES'S plan for the limitation of navies went attempts at moral disarmament in the Pacific, without which the mere scrapping of ships would have been of little consequence.

In our recent editorial on the Staten Island piers, it was stated that they had not been connected with the shore line and were in effect "practically islands." This was incautiously based upon a newspaper description, with illustrations, more than a year old. It does not represent the condition of the piers today, unsatisfactory though that is, and accordingly we express our regret at the blunder and print this as the correction that ought to be made.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Small Coal Makes Good Fires.

There is at least one class, and it is a large one, especially out in the suburbs, who should be facing the Winter with composure. They are the householders who have on hand a few tons of coal in one or another of the ordinary "domestic" sizes—egg, stove or nut, that is—and are able, by hounding the local dealer, to add a few tons every month to the scanty supply they have. These people are all right, or nearly so, if they will heed the good advice lavished upon all and sundry by Mr. WOODIN and his subordinates and use in proper quantity and way any of the several substitutes which everywhere are available and are sold without restrictions.

The best of these is anthracite in the pea and buckwheat grades. The big consumers in office buildings and apartment houses did not need to be told that these are good fuels, for most of them long have used nothing else. The man with a house to himself is not well equipped for burning this fine coal alone, though he can do even that if he will exercise enough care and intelligence. Usually he has at least a little of the larger coal, and with this as the basis of his fire and the fine coal for the upper quarter or third of it he can both heat his house perfectly well and spin out his stock enough to carry him through.

More than that. He soon will discover, not only that he is suffering no hardship at all, but that he is having a better and more manageable fire than he ever had before. Indeed, so many people already have made this discovery—a surprising one it is to most of them—that hereafter they will follow the same plan, though coal of the sizes now scarce becomes abundant.

Thus will a permanent economy be effected, at least as long as the price of the smaller sizes remains lower than that of the larger. That will be, presumably, until the increased demand for the smaller sizes gives the familiar excuse for increased charges. Then, no doubt, we shall be told that pea coal and buckwheat have "gone up"—which sounds so much better than saying that they have been "put up."

Remarks on Tending the Furnace.

Another result of the coal scarcity may be the discovery that the economical and satisfactory heating of a house requires more intelligence than is or can be given to the task by the sort of man who commonly is hired to tend the furnace. Such men do their best, no doubt, but it rarely is a good best, and as they must care for many furnaces to make a living at the job, it is their own convenience or necessity that they consult in selecting times for starting up and shutting off the fire.

For folk who want to sit up late or get up early that is very wearing on the temper. To endure it is quite unnecessary, unless the householder has an invincible hatred of doing even a little work with his own hands. Nothing is simpler, or much easier, than the correct running of a furnace. The only obnoxious part of it is getting rid of the ashes, and that properly can be confided to the present furnace man to do whenever he chooses, so long as he does it often enough. The mere putting on of coal and the management of the dampers require more skill and sense than strength, and for that reason have a certain interest. This part of the work, too, is clean enough, if carefully done, as it should be, with the bins so arranged and disposed as to reduce shoveling and carrying to a minimum.

This Winter, however it may be as to other Winters, the wise householder will run his own furnace. So only can he be sure that he is getting out of his coal an approach to all of the heat there is in it.

A Problem Hard to Solve.

That there is need of "doing something" in regard to the Ku Klux Klan is obvious in many ways. One significant proof of it was given at the Selwyn Theatre Monday evening, where "The Birth of a Nation" was revived. There was vehement cheering whenever a hooded and gowned figure appeared, and when a few of those present ventured to hiss instead of to applaud opprobrious epithets were hurled at them fiercely and their expulsion from the house was demanded.

That finely illustrated the spirit of the Ku Klux all over the country. They resent disagreement with their opinions and interference with their activities, and will punish both to the extent of their power, regardless of what the law permits or forbids.

Two of our Grand Juries have been instructed to investigate the nature and doings of this organization and to report what action, if any, can be taken against it. The intention is excellent, but results are dubious.

The avowed purposes of the Klan, like its constitution and regulations, fairly reek with patriotism and virtue, and keeping secret the membership lists is not now a crime, whatever it may be in the future. As a secret society the Klan hardly can be prosecuted, as there are many other secret societies about which no complaint is made. The wearing of disguises in public is theoretically illegal, but the statutes against it are practically dead letters, as can be observed every day when there is a circus parade.

As for the lynchings of various degrees that more than plausibly are ascribed to the Klansmen, they always can be denied and repudiated. If caught in crime, of course Klansmen can be punished like anybody else—if their associates have not cowed the courts, as they have in some parts of the country.

All this but makes the menace of the Ku Klux Klan the greater, yet its suppression is going to be difficult.

Not Only Alive, but Lively.

Who told Ambassador HARVEY that the "Irish question" is dead in America? He thinks that the acceptance of the Free State Treaty by the British Parliament has settled and ended that question. It should do so, but it has not, any more than it has settled and ended it in Ireland.

If he were reading papers like The Gaelic American he would know that the old factional fights are keeping up with all of their familiar ferocity—a ferocity that seems to increase in measure with the need and opportunity for decreasing it. He should remember that "agitation" is a trade like another and that it also is a sport for those with a taste for it.

In the United States, as in Ireland, the great majority of Irish men and women are heartily for the Free State, but these are not the noisy ones and consequently not the audible ones. They do not hold meetings and they do not live on perpetuating ancient animosities. Nobody is better aware than they, however, that the Irish question survives and is likely to do so for some time to come.

For the Families of Prisoners.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I once more reach your readers with a plea for the prisoners of this country and their wives and little ones? The men do not need food, clothing and gifts, but they do need the comforting assurance that their little ones are remembered, and this sympathy I find makes them realize that in the future by honest life and hard work they may return in gratitude the kindness of their friends. These little ones and their mothers are the innocent sufferers who appeal to our sympathy, even should we lack interest in the prisoner himself.

I have been working for them for over twenty-five years and I know their needs, for I have seen the bare, comfortless homes, the hopeless, cheerless atmosphere, and have seen the empty cupboard at a time when so many are preparing gifts and good things in their warm, happy homes for the children who have such good cause to love Yuletide.

May I beg those in fortunate, happy homes to remember those prison-shadowed lives and help me to help them? Gifts of money, clothing and toys addressed to Mrs. Ballington Booth, 34 West Twenty-eighth Street, New York City, will be most gratefully received.

The Writing on the Sky.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On witnessing Captain Turner's writing on the sky and noting the reaction of other onlookers, I was impressed by several things. Whereas a few minutes before the myriads of hurrying people were bent on their own business and immersed in their own troubles, everybody stopped and looked up. Business, troubles, the killing hurry were all forgotten. Curiosity and wonder all culminated, at the completion of the message, in a most widespread wave of cheerfulness and good feeling. If such a thing, trivial in itself, can have such a good and far-reaching result, let us have more of it.

DECEMBER.

They're coming, the days of Winter,
Impotent, sullen days,
When the skies droop low and the sea winds blow
And the fog is a drifting mass.

They're coming, the days of Winter—
With firelight in the room,
While quaint book-elves on their crowded shelves
Beckon you from their gloom.

In the street the chill of December,
On a blurred gray afternoon;
In the house the crackle of hickory logs
Two friends—and the heart of June!

And yet in the street how dreary,
How it rains, and the pavements gleam,
Or it snows, and then, for an elfin hour
The Town is a Fairy's Dream!

Though Beauty be April's Lady
She visits Old Winter too,
Her delicate kiss eludes his lips
Yet warms him through and through!

She turns gray gloom to splendor,
With glitter of frost and snow;
She touches trees with her fingertips
And the bare bleak branches glow

With bloom o' the trees of Heaven,
Catching the light of the sun;
Ah, never in Summer have ye seen
Such filigree splendors spun!

She visits Old Winter too,
Her delicate kiss eludes his lips
Yet warms him through and through!

ELIZABETH NEWPORT HEPBURN.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Does not your correspondent, Mr. John Watson, see a non-existent problem in the event of a President-elect dying before the meeting of the Electoral College? What else would the college have to do—what else could it do, with the merely acquiescent character it now possesses—than formally to confirm the result at the polls, regardless of the death of the President-elect? Then, upon the arrival of March 4, would not the Vice President automatically become, under the Constitution, President? At the same time, would there not immediately become operative all the provisions now existing in statutory law for succession to the Presidency in case of the death of a President who had himself succeeded to the office from the Vice Presidency?

In the very remote contingency mentioned by Mr. Watson, that both President-elect and Vice President-elect should die in the interval between the election and the assembling of the college, it is unlikely that the electors would assume the responsibility either of designating for the offices men (or women) who had not been duly nominated and voted for or of declaring elected the two candidates having the next highest vote of the people, those candidates not having been actually chosen by the people and being, moreover, representative of a party opposed to the party which had been successful at the polls and opposed, in addition, to the political faith of a majority of the electors themselves.

The occurrence of the very remote contingency would, of course, constitute for the college a quandary of the first order. The probable solution would lie in an appeal by the electors for congressional action, which, once for all, would settle procedure in such a case. It does not seem at all necessary and inevitable that the college should feel, or be, as Mr. Watson thinks it would, "obliged to exercise the independent judgment that the framers of the Constitution intended them to exercise." Having since almost the beginning of the Government ignored and foregone exercise of the independent judgment intended by the framers, the college would scarcely presume to resume a power which had virtually lapsed through non-exercise, and not only with the tacit consent of the people but even, it may be said, by their tacit will. Surely, in the face of its extended past as a popularly certified "rubber stamp," the college would not venture to revive a vital function so immense as the independent election of the two highest officers of the Government. One cannot imagine the electors asserting such initiative, even with the Constitution to back them. They certainly would first seek a new sanction from the law-making body which directly represents the people.

Such a misfortune in our history as realization of the "remote contingency"—so possible for all its improbability—would, of course, agitate the country from centre to circumference, and might well precipitate one of the most perilous crises in the life of the nation. The bare possibility of it is an excellent argument for direct popular election of President and Vice President and relegation of the Electoral College to its proper place, the junk heap.

It seems hardly worth while to follow Mr. Watson into his drastic proposals for the complete reconstitution of our Government, but it ought to be remarked that he is entirely in error in holding that the American President, not content with being Chief Executive, has established and usurped the extra-constitutional position of Premier. If Mr. Watson leaves us as we are, no President can be Premier, for the simple reason that the essence of a premiership in a constitutional Government is that the incumbent falls from office as soon as he fails to command a majority in the Legislature.

The Trend of Tonnage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Tonnage and only tonnage is going to supply what is needed to stabilize the merchant marine and place it on a firm self-supporting basis. I feel sure that this necessary requirement can be accomplished by the Government directing its financial aid not in the form of subsidies to shipping companies, but in the form of a rebate to shippers themselves on all goods shipped in American vessels, this rebate to take the form of a reduction in the fixed ocean-going rates.

Government aid directed in this manner would not only assure the American tonnage being almost exclusively carried by American ships, but would simultaneously eliminate a tremendous overhead of the shipping companies incident to soliciting business against foreign competing companies. The Subsidy act is not in itself going to direct the trend of tonnage. Why should not the subsidy be directed toward influencing tonnage to American vessels instead of becoming an unproductive expense of the Government?

Gandhi's Followers in Prison.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I gather from the American press that efforts are being made to collect funds to relieve the distress that is supposed to prevail among the dependents of 40,000 followers of Mr. Gandhi who are alleged to have been imprisoned in India.

Lord Reading's Government recently issued a press communique stating categorically that there were only 3,816 political prisoners, including the Moplahs, in the whole of India. I have just returned from an extensive tour through India, and I discovered no signs of any distress among the dependents of those prisoners. Apart from other sources of income, they have at their disposal a large fund collected by Mr. Gandhi for his propaganda.

It has also been stated that the political imprisonments were made under the Rowlatt act. The Rowlatt act has not once been put into operation. It has now been repealed as being inconsistent with the spirit of the new reformed Indian Constitution.

Negro Race Consciousness.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The announcement from Moscow that the Third Internationale has decided on a Communist campaign among the negroes of this country is of significance. There have not been lacking signs since the war that the race consciousness of the American negro has been awakened to a point which will require patient and sympathetic treatment from the dominant white race if it is to be intelligently directed. If this impressionable people (numbering over ten millions of our population) is to be exploited by the Communists, ostensibly for the betterment of the negro race but really for the purpose of terrorizing the "capitalistic class," we may well be anxious. Senator Underwood, of whom we had a right to expect better things, and his followers would better think twice before they decide to deny the negro the protection which the Anti-Lynching bill promises him.

MOLTKE MEMOIRS CONFESS WAR PLANS

BRITISH OFFER MISREAD

War Staff Expected Britain to Be Neutral if the French Coasts Were Not Attacked.

BERLIN, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—The long awaited memoirs of Count von Moltke, German Chief of Staff at the beginning of the war, are now being published by his widow.

"On the day of mobilization," says the memoirs, "a dispatch arrived from London in which it was stated that England had obligated herself to assume the defence of the French coast against possible German naval attack. The Kaiser asked my opinion, whereupon I replied that I could have no scruples against guaranteeing that no such attack was contemplated, if England pledged herself to remain neutral.

"It was my opinion that the war against France would be decided on land and that we could well dispense with naval operations if that was to be the price of English neutrality. Obviously this dispatch represents England's first attempt to dupe us, at least to the extent of prompting us to delay our mobilization."

Von Moltke charges Russia with having kindled the war, inasmuch as she well knew that Germany could not permit the destruction of her Austro-Hungarian ally. The German General Staff, he asserts, had long before taken war on two fronts into its calculations. Plans evolved by Field Marshal von Schlieffen, chief of the General Staff, provided for the invasion of Belgium, as it was commonly agreed that a decision in open battle could not be forced without violating Belgian neutrality.

Even Considered Invading Holland.

"Our information indicated," continued von Moltke, "that France was determining to entrench herself in a strong defensive position, which would force us to conduct a long and wearisome trench and position campaign against a strong frontal defense. Von Schlieffen even proposed to march the German right wing through Southern Holland, but, rather than drive the Netherlands into the camp of our enemies, I decided to accept the greater technical difficulties involved in forcing our right wing through the narrow section between Aix-la-Chapelle and the southern boundary of the Province of Limbourg.

"In order to accomplish this with the least possible loss of time it was necessary to seize Liege immediately."

Admitting that there was much to be said in opposition to an invasion of Belgium, von Moltke cites the early progress of the war in support of the German contention that France thereby was compelled to meet the Germans in open battle, although he admits that the inability of the Germans to conquer the French quickly was solely due to English intervention. If the attack on Liege failed, the moral setback would have been a severe blow, as it would have deprived the Germans of important railway connections at Aix-la-Chapelle and Liege and thence on to Brussels.

All Elated Over Fighting Russia.

"All seemed elated over the prospects of a war along the eastern front only," says von Moltke. "'Now we have simply to mobilize our whole army along the eastern front,' the Kaiser stated, to which I replied that such a procedure was not quite so simple. It might involve a year of preparations, and, once accomplished, could not be altered. None of those present contemplated the eventuality that France, which was then already mobilizing, would attack us on the west—a possibility with which we were bound to reckon, for, despite her alleged good-will how could England have prevented France from undertaking such an attack?

"The feeling among those present constantly became more agitated, and I seemed to stand wholly alone in my views. I finally succeeded in persuading his Majesty as to the imperative needs of carrying out our original plan of mobilization, which provided for the advance of strong forces against France and the dispatching of a weak defensive army against Russia. Any other procedure at that moment would produce disastrous confusion in our military dispositions.

"I declared that if the mobilization plans which had then been drafted were subjected to alteration I would be forced to decline to assume further responsibility. Thereupon a reply to Grey's message was drafted, in which it was stated that technical reasons made it impossible to halt the German operations along the French frontier, but that no attack on France would be undertaken provided France also remained inactive under directions from England."

Von Moltke does not conceal his disgust with the English proposal and declares that he was convinced long before the outbreak of the war that France would never remain neutral in the event of hostilities between Germany and Russia and that the moment war between Germany and Russia broke out it was imperative that Germany, so soon as the French attitude became suspicious, immediately declare war on France.

Kaiser Gives Him a Free Hand.

"I now demanded of the Kaiser and his immediate advisers, as a guaranty of French good-will, temporary possession of the fortresses of Verdun and Toul," continues the General. "This proposal was rejected on the ground that it indicated lack of confidence in England. The outcome of these pourparlers plunged me in utmost despair, for I fully realized that these diplomatic actions were working serious interference with our military plans and that they were likely to result in the gravest disaster to us nationally."

Recording his feelings when ordered to recall the army corps which was to occupy Luxembourg, an invasion which was to be avoided, according to von Bethmann Hollweg, as representing an attack on France and which might vitiate the English guaranty, von Moltke says: "I cannot possibly describe the sentiments that moved me when I arrived home. I broke down completely and wept tears of despair. When an adjutant brought in the dispatch ordering the Sixteenth Division back from the Luxembourg frontier I threw down my pen and declared that I would not sign the order, as such recall would impress my subordinates as an indication of lack of security. Brooding, and in a spirit of profound dejection, I remained at my desk until 11 o'clock at night, when the Kaiser summoned me to the palace. He had already gone to bed, but he got up and slipped on a dressing gown. He handed me a dispatch from the King of England, in which the latter declared that nothing was known to him about an alleged guaranty by England which would prevent France from declaring war and that Lichnowsky's dispatch must have been based on an error or misunderstanding.

"The Kaiser was highly agitated and, turning to me, said 'Now you may do as you like.' I returned home immediately and instructed the Sixteenth Division to march into Luxembourg."

"This was my first experience in the war. I have the conviction that the Kaiser would never have signed the mobilization order if the Lichnowsky dispatch had arrived a half hour earlier. I could never get over the impressions created by this day's experience. It was as though something within me had been destroyed which never again could be revived. Confidence and hope had become shaken."

BIG TUNNEL CAISSON SLIDES FROM WAYS

IT RIGHTS ITSELF QUICKLY

Tug Takes It to Dry Dock, Where It Will Receive Many More Tons of Concrete.

The launching of the great steel and concrete caisson that is to be a permanent part of the vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River took place at 8:30 yesterday morning at the Staten Island Shipbuilding yard at Mariners' Harbor, S. I. Workmen knocked away the blocks that held it on greased ways, and it slid into the water and floated as buoyantly as a new ship.

The only ceremony was the breaking of a bottle of champagne over the bulk by Miss Anne H. Holland, the twelve-year-old daughter of Clifford M. Holland, chief engineer in charge of construction, George Flinn, President of Booth & Flinn, Ltd., the contractors, furnished the wine, and William J. Davidson, President of the shipbuilding company, supplied a bouquet of roses. Equipped with the wine and the roses, Miss Holland climbed a little platform and broke the bottle against the side of the caisson with the words: "I name thee New York River Caisson." Then Miss Holland bowed to the applause and rejoined her father.

When the caisson struck the water it careened a trifle, and all of the engineers present held their breath till it settled to a depth of sixteen feet and then slowly righted. A tug fussed up and towed it to a near-by dry dock, where many more tons of concrete will be poured into it, and after a few finishing touches are applied it will be towed to the foot of Canal Street and sunk at the pierhead line. The caisson is the biggest ever constructed. It is 93 feet 3 inches wide, 108 feet 6 inches high and 37 feet deep. It will be sunk in its permanent position until it rests on solid rock, and will be held there by pouring more tons of concrete between its inner and outer shell. When it is finally in place its total weight will be 15,000 tons.

When the great shield that is boring the tunnel under Canal Street reaches the caisson, circular openings for the two tubes, each 32 feet in diameter, will be burned through, and the shield will then march unobstructed through it. Then the shield will begin its work amid the mud and rock of the river bed.

From the most eastward point of the work on Canal Street to the shore line is about 900 feet, and at the end of the pier is an additional 1,000 feet. So far the westward journey of the shield has advanced only 67½ feet. On Thanksgiving Day it was within 7 feet of the great disposal plant of the Canal Street sewer that the city is building. Then it was noticed that the compressed air was escaping, and that much of the necessary resistance required to move the shield was lost. This sewage plant is 70 by 45 feet. At a meeting yesterday of the Tunnel Commission, Chief Engineer Holland was authorized to build a wall on the side of the sewage plant. This will cost $16,000 and will take two weeks to complete. In the meantime the work of tunnel building practically will cease.

This incident was discussed among the engineers present at the launching and during the breakfast that was served for those who rose early enough to be present. Among these were State Engineer Frank Williams, State Engineer-elect Dwight B. LaDu, the engineers of the Erie and Lackawanna Railroads, Tunnel Commissioners, representatives of the contractors and as many of the employes of the commission as could be spared.

LEON BAKST'S WORKS AT PRIVATE VIEW

Preceded by a Luncheon Given to the Artist and His Committee by Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt 2d.

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC TODAY

First Time the Famous Russian Has Been Present in This Country at an Exhibit of His Pictures.

Leon Bakst's presentation of his recent works at the Knoedler Galleries yesterday, a private view preceding the public exhibition which, opening today, will continue through the 16th, was a notable social as well as art function. Preceding the opening a luncheon was given to M. Bakst and the members of the committee of the exhibition by Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, 2d., at her home, 666 Fifth Avenue. Following this the hostess and guests walked down the avenue to the show. Practically every one in the Social Register appeared at some time during the afternoon. This is the second exhibition of Bakst work which has been shown at the Knoedler Galleries, but it is the first time the artist has been present, the first time he has been in America.

Those on the committee are Chester H. Aldrich, James W. Barney, Dr. Christian Brinton, Miss Mary Cass Canfield, Robert W. Chanler, John Jay Chapman, Rawlins L. Cottenet, Frank Crowninshield, Mrs. William A. Delano, Miss Elsie de Wolfe, Miss Beth Evans, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. John W. Garrett, Lloyd Griscom, Thomas B. Hastings, Mrs. Edward M. House, Clarence H. Mackay, Mrs. John Magee, Mrs. Walter E. Maynard, Miss Noyes, McMein, Carl Melchers, Conde Nast, Mrs. Cole Porter, Harrison Rhodes, Thomas W. Robertson, John Singer Sargent, Leopold Stokowski, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, 2nd, Hugh Walpole, Lawrence Grant White, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. Efrem Zimbalist.

Among the guests in the afternoon were Mrs. Edmund Bayles, Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. David Dows, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kahn, Miss Kahn, Mrs. Adolf Lehnberg, Miss Ladenberg, M. de Pilsaz, Mrs. John Sanford and Mrs. Cooper Hewitt.

There are eighty-one pictures in M. Bakst's exhibition, portraits, decorative subjects and "Contes Perrault," scenes from fairy tales. The "Portrait of Mrs. Ida Rubinstein," a marvelous, full length study in black and white, no color except the faintest note of pink in the lips. Mrs. Felix Doubleday, a portrait head of the greatest delicacy of treatment, and Miss Elsie de Wolfe, lent by Miss de Wolfe, is charmingly done in the manner of La Tour. The decorative subjects show the typical Bakst effects in action and color, and there are among them the beautiful Russian costumes shown for the first time in this country and which set Paris wild and recently developed a distinct mode, a la Russe, among the French couturiers and couturières.

HONOR SIR GILBERT PARKER.

Former Governor Haskell of Oklahoma and William R. Willcox were hosts at the Waldorf last night at a dinner for Sir Gilbert Parker. The speakers emphasized a note of good-will between America and Great Britain, while some expressed for each country a hope that America before long would decide to take a more active part in resolving the tangles of Europe.

Those who addressed the gathering were ex-Judge Alton B. Parker, ex-Senator A. O. Stanley of Kentucky, ex-Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby, ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman, ex-Congressman Scott Ferris of Oklahoma, Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews; Frank A. Vanderlip and Sir Gilbert himself.

TIMES READER FINDS DOG.

Children's Pet and Watchdog Returned Through East River Bank.

A police dog which disappeared several days ago from the home of Spencer B. Hopping, Broadway, Hastings-on-Hudson, where it was a children's pet as well as a watchdog, was returned yesterday to Mr. Hopping by a reader of THE NEW YORK TIMES, who learned of the loss of the dog through a notice in THE TIMES.

"Due to your notice," said Mr. Hopping, "I was called up by the East River National Bank, who told me that one of their depositors had my dog in his possession. From him I obtained the dog. I feel that I am indebted to THE TIMES for the recovery of my dog and wish to express my appreciation and thanks to you."

The total amount received is $215,666. The amount to be raised is $300,000.

S. H. Woolworth Ill in England.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 5.—S. H. Woolworth, head of a chain store organization, is critically ill at his home in London, England, according to a cablegram received today by Mrs. C. S. Bailey of this city, mother of Mrs. Woolworth. Mr. Woolworth, the message said, has been seriously ill since he suffered a shock five weeks ago. His son, Norman, a student at Yale, sailed for London last Saturday to be at his father's bedside.

Schumann-Heink Has a Good Day.

Dr. D. Stoddard Dooman, who is attending Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, said the concert singer was resting comfortably last night and had passed a good day. Although there was no recognized crisis in bronchial pneumonia, it was said, the turning point in Mme. Schumann-Heink's condition might come tonight. Physicians attending the famous singer are hopeful that she will be greatly improved tomorrow.

John Wanamaker Improving.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—The condition of John Wanamaker, ill at his home with a heavy cold, showed such marked improvement tonight that the attending physicians announced only one bulletin a day would be issued in the future. "Mr. Wanamaker's condition throughout the day," said the doctors' bulletin, issued at 8 P. M., "showed gradual improvement."

Princess Mary Is Expecting a Child.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Several London papers state that the announcement of the birth of a child to Princess Mary may be expected within the next week or two. Princess Mary and her husband are staying at Harewood Hall, Yorkshire, and it is understood that Queen Mary is going north shortly to join her daughter.

COMMANDER BOOTH TO STAY UNTIL FALL

General in Cable to Sister Explains That Plans Are Merely Tentative.

Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army is not to be removed as head of the organization in the United States before next Fall, it then, according to word received here yesterday from General Bramwell Booth, the head of the Army. This cablegram was received by Miss Booth from General Booth:

Dec. 5, 1922.

Commander Evangeline Booth, New York:

I have been informed by my representatives in the United States of America that the statement I made in The New York World on Sept. 14 has been interpreted by a number of people as being an official intimation for my sister, Commander Evangeline Booth, to farewell from her present command. Those, however, who carefully read that statement will remember that it did not contain such intimation, but referred to a program for future developments in the United States upon which I had fully conferred with the Commander two years ago.

Certainly such information as deciding definitely upon the Commander's removal would not have been conveyed to her through the medium of the public press. As, however, I am given to understand some uncertainty still exists upon this matter, I deem it advisable to state that I have had no thought of an immediate farewell. The Fall of 1923 was the earliest contemplated by me, but nothing definite has been decided nor will be until I return from my campaign in India, for which country I embark today.

GENERAL BOOTH.

Commander Booth is reported to be ill in Chicago. Her reported removal came as a surprise, for the Commander of the American division of the Salvation Army enjoys great popularity.

MRS. HARVEY IS ILL.

Ambassador's Wife Suffers a Bronchial Attack.

LONDON, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Mrs. George Harvey, wife of the American Ambassador, who has been suffering from a bronchial attack, was better this morning, and it was stated that the case was believed not to be serious, although yesterday there was some danger that pneumonia might develop.

Mrs. Harvey is at Warwick Castle, Leamington, where she and the Ambassador are guests of Henry W. Marsh. Ambassador Harvey, who was here for a speech last evening, is returning to Leamington today. Although the Ambassador received a reassuring message that his wife was out of danger, he thought it best to cancel his engagement to attend the 100th anniversary celebration of Lincoln's Inn this evening.

It was stated at the Embassy this morning that there was really cause for alarm over Mrs. Havey's condition yesterday, but that she had passed a good night and was quite cheerful this forenoon.

ANDREW M'LEAN DIES OF PNEUMONIA AT 74

Andrew McLean, editor in chief of The Brooklyn Citizen, died on Monday at his home, 284 Carlton Avenue, Brooklyn, of pneumonia. He was 74 years old.

Mr. McLean was born in Scotland and when a boy worked his passage to the United States on a bark, landing in New York during the Civil War. He enlisted in the United States Navy and served until the close of the war. He then returned to Brooklyn and worked in a dry goods store conducted by his uncle. For a time he edited a Chicago publication called Tobacco Leaf, but later returned to Brooklyn. He worked for a while on THE NEW YORK TIMES as a reporter. He then went to The Brooklyn Union. For seventeen years he was with The Brooklyn Eagle, becoming city editor of that paper when only 24 years of age. He later became editor in chief of The Brooklyn Eagle and remained there until 1886. In that year Mr. McLean was largely instrumental in founding The Brooklyn Citizen, of which he was editor in chief from its beginning until his death.

Mr. McLean was a lecturer and an essayist. He contributed to the stage as a dramatic author and had written numerous poems. He was a Director of the Caledonian Hospital of Brooklyn and a member of the St. Andrew Society and of Kilwinning Lodge, F. and A. M. He left a widow, a son, David J. McLean, and a daughter, Mrs. Arthur M. Connett.

Frank Koch.

Frank Koch, well-known to the last generation as the proprietor of old Germania Assembly Rooms on the Bowery and other places of amusement, died on Saturday in St. Luke's Hospital in his 79th year. He came here from Germany sixty-four years ago, and with nine brothers opened the Assembly Rooms. Later he opened Gilmore's Garden on the site of Madison Square Garden, and where the first six-day walking match was held. His next venture was Terrace Garden, following which he established the Central Park Garden, which now the site of the Jolson Theatre. It was there Theodore Thomas gave his first concert. Mr. Koch was also a hotel proprietor. He retired from business in 1912.

Children's Benefactor Dies.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 5.—The children of Florence and the surrounding countryside today lost the friend who for many years tossed to them marbles, pennies, baseballs and candy in an annual Spring marble scramble. Julius P. Maine, retired butcher in moderate circumstances, gave fountains to this city and to Florence, bought a playground for Northampton, and added a sun-room to Dickinson Hospital. He died here today in his 83d year.

TWO IMPORTANT CURES ANNOUNCED

PERFECTED BY DR. BANTING

Serum Discovered by Dr. Jablons Said to Have Cured Patient Suffering From Gangrene.

Two cures said to be remarkable were announced by two hospitals yesterday.

In New York Hospital a new insulin treatment from the pancreas of a pig, just perfected by Dr. F. C. Banting of the University of Toronto, was used with success in a case of diabetic coma.

In the second case, reported by St. Mark's Hospital, a serum, discovered by Dr. Benjamin Jablons of this city, was used with success in a case of gangrene or Renaud's disease.

In the diabetic coma case the patient, a boy, is now on the road to recovery and, according to the hospital authorities, this is the first case on record in the annals of medicine in this city where a patient has been rescued from death when diabetic coma had set in.

George Van Hassel, 16, of 271 Irving Avenue, Brooklyn, was removed from Seney Hospital to the New York Hospital three weeks ago in the last stages of diabetes.

"This boy," said Dr. Thomas Howell, Superintendent of the hospital, "will always have to diet and will from time to time have to receive injections of pancreas extracts. But he will live indefinitely by taking proper precautions."

Dr. Howell said it is estimated that in the United States about 1,000,000 persons are suffering from diabetes in various stages. About 5 per cent. or 50,000 die within eighteen months, he asserted.

The announcement of Dr. Banting in the treatment of diabetes several months ago aroused great interest in the medical profession. It was pronounced effective by the University of Pennsylvania and other medical institutions. Among those reported to have been benefited by the Toronto treatment was Elizabeth Hughes, daughter of Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes.

In the serum case the life of a railroad engineer, suffering from gangrene, was saved. Edward Trainer of Ossining, N. Y., had both feet frozen ten years ago. Gangrene resulted, and later he had to have both legs removed at the knees. Last month the trouble settled in his hand, and two of his fingers were amputated. Three weeks ago he came to New York. Superintendent Rathenau of St. Mark's Hospital said the treatment was successful. Trainer has returned to Ossining and the doctors say he is cured.

Dr. Jablons was taking a post-graduate course in Berlin when called to Serbia during the Balkan war, and he remained there several months. For his services he received in 1914, from King Peter, the Order of St. Sava.

NINE HURT IN COLLISION.

Six Women Injured When Street Cars Crash in Harlem.

Nine persons were injured yesterday afternoon when two street cars collided at 125th Street and Eighth Avenue, through a mix-up in signals. The shrieks of passengers, mostly women, could be heard for blocks. Patrolmen in the vicinity and volunteer helpers rushed the injured into near-by drug stores, where physicians who were passing rendered first aid. The injured then left for their homes.

A Third Avenue and Amsterdam Avenue car going west on 125th Street, when the signals became confused, rammed a southbound Eighth Avenue car, smashing the three rear windows and demolishing its rear vestibule. Both cars were nearly filled with passengers when the accident occurred. Both motormen, Dennis Slattery and John Rooney, were badly shaken by the collision, but stuck to their posts.

The injured passengers were Mrs. J. J. Buter, 310 West 153d Street; Mrs. A. J. Gould, 49 St. Nicholas Terrace; Mrs. H. M. Oshkowitz, 946 East 167th Street; Rebecca Lefkowitz, 3,089 Broadway; George Schwartz, 505 West 134th Street; Harry Donald, 269 Fourth Street, Pelham Bay Park; Sadie Cohen, 120 West Sixteenth Street; Abraham Olshamtsky, 510 West 120th Street, and Madeline Schaeffer, 921 St. Nicholas Avenue.

JURY ACQUITS CHANDLER.

But Five Indictments Still Stand Against Philadelphia Broker.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Frederick T. Chandler Jr. and Earl Mendenhall, partners in the bankrupt firm of Chandler Brothers & Co., were acquitted today on charges of fraudulent conversion and embezzlement by a jury in Quarter Sessions Court.

There are now five indictments remaining against the two, charging them with false pretenses and with conspiracy to cheat and defraud.

Loyal C. & O. Employes Rewarded.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 5.—Approximately 800 employes of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway who voluntarily left their normal positions and assisted the company in making emergency repairs and operating trains during the shopmen's strike last Summer will receive a bonus for each day they rendered such service. The size of the bonus has not been announced.

Wife Reports Broker Missing.

Mrs. Emma De Ray, asked the police yesterday to help her find her husband, Raymond De Ray, a broker, who disappeared from home, 241 West 109th Street, at 2 A. M. September 29.

"GROWING LIKE A BANK"

"Its Policyholders Are Its Depositors; Agents Do Not Bring Them In"

Words of Praise from Those Who Know

(Scene: After dinner at the Club: Banker Allwyn is chatting with Goodsell, a real estate broker, formerly a life insurance man, and, in connection with credit, the question of personal dependability, home-life, and solicitude for others comes up.)

Allwyn: "After all, brother Goodsell, I want to tell you something which is a sure boost for the business you used to be in, and that is when a man asks me for credit and seems to be entitled to it from the money-side, I also want to find out what kind of a chap he is personally, and to get a line on this, what do you suppose I ask him?"

Goodsell: "Probably whether he owns his home."

Allwyn: "Oh, no. He's already told me what property he has, but whatever its value, I always ask him how much life insurance he carries; and if it's all he can afford I figure it's a big thing in his favor, and that he's a good citizen."

Goodsell: "And I reckon you also ask him what companies he's in."

Allwyn: "Oh, I don't bother so much about the companies; like the churches, they're all good; they have to be, don't they?"

Allwyn: "Of course, the oldest companies are mentioned most frequently, one of which you used to be hooked up with. That's because they have more policyholders, but the comparatively younger ones also bob up pretty often, and particularly the Postal Life."

Goodsell: "Why, the Postal's not so very young. I remember because I use to fight it 15 years ago."

Allwyn: "'Twas sound from the start, wasn't it?"

Goodsell: "Yes, 'twas always sound, but it was—well—well, we said it was an experiment."

Allwyn: "Why?"

Goodsell: "Oh, because it got business direct by mail and didn't send out agents or have branch offices."

Allwyn: "Well, even so, whatever the departure from the old way, the Company seems to have made good all right."

Goodsell: "It certainly has; through its advertising and its record, it's known from coast to coast; it has policyholders in every State, and in Canada, too, and has its own building on Fifth Avenue and 43rd Street, just about in the business center of little old New York. I believe there is no company better known in our country."

Allwyn: "What do you consider the strong points that helped the Postal win out?"

Goodsell: "Well, low cost, dealing direct with headquarters, and the privilege of paying premiums monthly if one so desires; then there's a 9½% annual dividend guaranteed in the policy, and there's a free medical examination through the Company's Health Bureau which helps keep its policyholders 'fit,' and prolongs their lives."

Allwyn: "That's pretty good, isn't it?"

Goodsell: "Sure thing; and I want to tell you that just as soon as I can afford to take out another policy, it's going to be in the Postal. On the quiet, I wish my two other policies were in it, although I get my agent's commissions from the other companies. As our old friend P. Henry (not O. Henry) said: 'If this be treason make the most of it.'"

Goodsell: "That's it. Just good horse-sense, for it's based on safety, saving and service."

Allwyn: "It certainly is. And there's another point that to me is not only a strong one, but fundamental: the Postal Life is growing just like a bank; its policyholders are its depositors; agents do not bring them in. They selec their company and decide upon their forms of policies through their own reasoning, and voluntarily. And now I want to put you wise to something else; I've carried a Postal Life policy for ten years or so myself, but didn't tell you about it for although I know the Company's strong points myself, I just wanted to 'feel you out'."

Goodsell: "Well, the reaction, as they call it, was O. K., wasn't it?"

Allwyn: "It certainly was and it's kind of pleasant to feel that each has a highly-prized mutual friend in the Postal. Isn't that so?"

Gobdsell: "You've said it, and unless I miss my guess, we'll both prize the Company more as time goes on, and there are over 20,000 other policyholders who feel the same way. It has caught public attention as no other company has."

Allwyn: "You've said it. Have a fresh cigar."

The foregoing business chat is typical of many others which must be taking place, since similar sentiments are reflected in letters that come to the Company from far and near in praise of its method, and in appreciation of its treatment. It is indeed the Company of

Only 3 more days

THURSDAY, Friday, and Saturday, and then the prices go up again. This is perhaps the only opportunity you may ever have to own a Pierce-Arrow. It is true that the pick of the sale is gone now. Since November 27th, when prices came down, there has been a constant sale of used Pierce-Arrows. But there are still a few left. They have all been priced fairly and all reduced to the same degree. There are also a few good cars of other makes.

If you wait until next Monday, you will have to pay a substantial increase. Some of the prices will be increased materially. This is not profiteering. It is merely a return to the proper price for these cars.

Used Pierce-Arrows

even at normal prices are about the most sensible car that can be bought. New, they represent the utmost in luxury, good taste, and automotive performance. Used, they represent all that a new car does, with the assurance that the car has been properly driven, properly cared for, and is still capable of giving extraordinary mileage.

Each car warranted to be exactly in the condition represented.

SAYS SULTAN'S HEIRS CANCELED OIL DEAL

THEY SEEK AMERICAN AID

Failure of Major Bennett to Make Payment to Turkish Heirs Is Charged.

DENIAL FROM UNTERMYER

He Says Compact Over Oil Lands Is Still in Force—Charges Standard Propaganda.

The billion-dollar oil fields of the heirs of Sultan Abdul Hamid, which have figured much in news cables from the conference at Lausanne, were the subject of interesting developments in this city yesterday.

Don Louis de Bourbon, who told yesterday of visiting Kemal Pasha at Angora and the imperial Turkish family at Constantinople in the course of a seven months' visit to Europe and the Near East, from which he has just returned, asserted that he had entered into a tentative partnership arrangement with the Turkish heirs in behalf of an American organization.

Don Louis said, in an interview yesterday at the Bar Association, that he had been officially authorized by Kemal Pasha, by members of the Turkish Royal family and others high in the new Government to invite American business men to go to Turkey and invest money there. He asserted also that he had been empowered by the Turkish imperial family, consisting of the twenty-two heirs of the Sultan Abdul Hamid, to announce that the previous arrangement with John Godolphin Bennett, the former British attaché at Constantinople, had been canceled.

Don Louis said that on leaving Turkey he had been entrusted with a draft of the new Turkish Constitution with the request that he would deposit it with the State Department. He said that this document, which he had turned over to the American Government, was modeled upon and closely followed the Constitution of the United States.

Says Agreement Is in Force.

The Bennett agreement, however, is declared to be in full force in a cablegram received from Bennett yesterday by Samuel Untermyer. Mr. Untermyer, who represents Bennett here, cabled to Lausanne because of dispatches from there asserting that the agreement was void because of the failure of Bennett to meet instalments on $2,500,000 which had been promised the Turkish heirs to pay living expenses, legal expenses and taxes. Major Bennett asserted that the payments had been made punctually and that the heirs were satisfied. He alleged that an offer of $5,000,000 had been made by the Standard Oil Company to the Turkish princes, but that this had been declined.

The documents and claims of Don Louis de Bourbon were being examined yesterday by some of the leading lawyers of New York City. Don Louis de Bourbon himself is described as an elder stepbrother of the present King of Spain by a morganatic marriage and could easily be taken for a twin of the King of Spain, judging by photographs of the latter. He has lived in this country since 1914 and became an American citizen a year ago.

He has spent most of the last three years in Europe visiting Government officials, business men and commercial organizations in behalf of a plan of international business co-operation. After placing his plan before the United States Chamber of Commerce and the State Department, he visited England, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Greece, Rumania and Turkey. His plan was received warmly everywhere, but especially, he said, in Turkey, because the Turks had resolved definitely to divorce trade from politics, because a commercial foothold had been turned so frequently by European nations into a political foothold.

Says Americans Are Idolized.

"Americans are idolized in Turkey today," he said. "For instance, Embry, the American representative at Angora, can have anything in Turkey. America is regarded as the one nation that can help Turkey without asking for territory or political concessions in return.

"This plan under which America would take the lead in international trade in that country was welcomed in Turkey. The Turkish newspapers were full of it when I was in Constantinople a year, and I received a personal invitation from Kemal Pasha to visit him. I visited him at Angora in July and spent a number of days with him during which he asked me to take back to this country the message that he and the other Turks had the greatest possible admiration for the United States, intended to model their new nation on it and hoped for the assistance of the United States in modernizing and building it up.

"The Turks realize that they need nearly everything that goes to make up modern civilized life. They want railroads, oil and mineral developments, modern housing, industries and better motion pictures, but they don't want this from any nation that threatens their independence while helping them in a material way."

Don Louis said that his agreement with the Turkish heirs was entirely secondary to the international trade plan which he was fostering. On reading the statement that Samuel Untermyer represented the Turkish heirs in this country and the allegation that the Standard Oil Company was trying to wrest the rights of these heirs away from them, Don Louis wrote a letter to THE NEW YORK TIMES in which he said:

"I beg to state that last June, under contracts with the Imperial Family of Turkey, we became partners in all the concessions they had throughout Anatolia and Turkey. This, I can assure you on behalf of the Angora Government and the Imperial Family, is not so."

Don Louis asserted that he made this statement because he had been commissioned by the Turkish heirs and the Turkish Government to do so, but that he did not regard the agreement which he held as vital to his general trade scheme and that it would not upset his plans if his agreement were superseded.

Property Rights Respected.

"Two things are certain," Don Louis said, "first that the property rights of the Turkish imperial family will never be set aside and, second, that they will be developed by Americans.

"Property rights are respected in Turkey and the imperial family is sacred. The last thing they would do is to become Bolsheviki."

Regarding his visit to Kemal, he said:

"I had a terrible trip of three days from the Black Sea Coast to Angora, which I found to be not a city or a town, but a community of about ten thousand people living without houses and in any kind of manner. Kemal was far from being a dictator or a Napoleon. He is a simple soldier. Everybody called him simply 'One of us.' He told me that he would keep no power and would retire to private life as soon as peace returned.

"Kemal was absolutely loved by the Turks. Next to him possibly the American Consul was the most popular man there. Embry was so popular that he could at a moment's notice command any of the six automobiles in Anatolia —four Fords and two Studebakers.

"Kemal is a very simple man and extremely humorous. Once, when we were sitting in a balcony, I saw a man carrying a horse and said, 'I would hate to be a horse in Turkey and be groomed like that.' That struck him as extraordinarily funny. He was constantly laughing at things so funnier than that. Asking me to carry a message to the American people, he said:

"'I want you to make it clear to the American people the great esteem in which we hold their country, although it is a shame that we do not know them except through their missionaries, who are attempting to plant a religion here which is opposed to our own faith. However excellent the missionaries may be personally, it is a shame that our only contact with America is through them.

Americans as Witnesses.

"'We are represented to the American people as a nation of murderers, killing Christians right and left. But do your American representatives say so? They are free to go everywhere. Do Americans who have actually been here find us to be the kind of people that we are represented to be?

"'I was in Smyrna when it was burning and saw the wonderful work of the American sailors. The burning of Smyrna is one of the chief causes of the bitterness which the Turks now display toward the Greeks. They all think the Greeks deliberately burned it and in their retreat they did burn and destroy every town and field. This bitterness exists and sharpens the Turkish determination to get rid of all foreigners, but in spite of this, there have been no great massacres. There have been massacres on both sides, but not on the scale reported. The Greeks have been ordered out of Asia Minor, but this order will undoubtedly be modified. Many will be allowed to remain.

"'The Turk feels that he needs American aid today, because the Turk himself is no business man and does not understand the industrial world of today. As one of the chiefs said to me, "We are all either soldiers or Grand Seigneurs."'

"The most important man in the Turkish Government next to Kemal. Don Louis said, was Bachid Safvet Bey, a Councilor of State, from whom he brought a written statement addressed to the American people, which said:

"'Turkey, which hitherto has been without any means of exploiting the natural resources of her agricultural, mineral and forest wealth, now ardently desires to possess railways, highroads, canals, ports, factories, &c., in order to increase the prosperity of her inhabitants and notably that of her peasants.

Farmers Benefited by War.

"'The Turkish farmer, having amassed a great deal of money during the general warfare by reason of the enormous rise in the price of land products, is now demanding the establishment in his country of better institutions which may assure the continuation of the acquisition of such wealth.

"'In order to obtain, within a relatively brief time, all these elements of material and civilizing prosperity, Turkey must have recourse to foreign capital, which, aided and protected by the Turkish national zeal and by the Government, will insure very great benefits, thanks to the exceptional geographical situation of the country and the abundance of its natural riches.

"'Unfortunately European capital is often made the accomplice of diplomats who use it in order to achieve their treacherous objects with regard to the Turks; hence there is a definite prejudice against it, on the part of the statesman who wishes to place himself in a strictly defensive position.

"'But America is considered a country which, having no political aims against our country, would be that which could most contribute to the regeneration of Turkey.'

"Don Louis said that Europeans would be excluded not only from the development of Turkey, but from prosecuting such enterprise as the exploitation of sites of archaeological interest within Turkish territory.

"'Only American business men and only American professors will be welcomed under the new régime. The Turks have had too many experiences with others and are too suspicious to trust them in Turkey on the most innocent missions.

"'There will be no real Turkish concessions in the future. Capital will be invited into the country, but on a partnership basis. All investors must have Turkish partners.'

Samuel Untermyer issued a statement yesterday regarding reports that the agreement, in which he is interested, with the heirs of Abdul Hamid, had been cancelled. He charged again that the Standard Oil Company was seeking to bring about such cancellation and accused it of propaganda.

"The Standard Oil Company, having failed to acquire any part of the interests of the Turkish heirs, has no more claim upon these oil fields than the man in the street, and I have no fear that our State Department will be influenced in any way by the elaborate publicity directed by it from across the water. It fails to recognize that this proposition is too big and is too much in the public eye to be influenced by its familiar methods or to be decided in any way except upon its merits, and that is all my clients ask. The public will do well to take these cabled fables with generous grains of allowance."

700 EPISCOPAL WOMEN HOLD ADVENT MEETING

Greeted by Five Bishops—Have Raised $40,255 of Quota of $50,000 for Year.

At the Advent meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New York to the National Council of the Episcopal Church, held yesterday at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, it was announced that the women had raised already $40,255 of the $50,000, which is the quota they assumed for the year. And the time is not up until January 1.

Bishop William T. Manning, who presided, complimented the women and predicted that the other $9,745 would be forthcoming.

There were more than 700 present. They heard addresses from five Bishops. In addition to Bishop Manning, the Right Rev. Logan H. Roots, Bishop of Hankow, China; the Right Rev. H. St. George Tucker, Bishop of Kyoto, Japan; the Right Rev. Arthur S. Lloyd and the Right Rev. Herbert Shipman, suffragan Bishops of this diocese, spoke.

On the platform also was Mrs. Samuel Thorne Jr. of Harrison, N. Y., President of the auxiliary. At the afternoon session was closing Miss Cornwall-Legh, an English woman who has given her life and fortune to work among the lepers in Japan, arrived and was introduced.

The exercises began at 10:30 o'clock with a celebration of the Holy Communion in the cathedral proper with Bishop Manning officiating. Bishop Shipman preached the sermon. Luncheon followed in the undercroft. The afternoon was given up to addresses, the session being held in Synod Hall. Bishop Roots spoke on "Changed Conditions in China."

The Rev. W. A. Thomas, a missionary at Point Hope, Alaska, described the Episcopal mission there.

Fewer Births, More Deaths, In 1922 Indicated by Reports

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—A declining birth rate and an increasing death rate for 1922, as compared with 1921, were forecast today by the Census Bureau, which based its calculation on records for the first six months of the year for the registration area of the country, comprising about 82 per cent. of the total population of the United States.

The birth rate for the first six months of this year was 22.7 per 1,000 population, while for the same period of 1921 the rate was 24.8, and for the whole of last year 24.3.

The death rate for the six months ended June 30 this year was 12.6 per 1,000 population, while for the same period of 1921 the rate was 12, and for the whole of last year 11.6. Maine had the highest mortality rate for the half year, being 15.7, with New Hampshire second with a rate of 15.5. Idaho had the lowest rate with 8.2.

SPURNS PEACE PLAN FOR BUILDING UNIONS

ASSAILS LOCKWOOD DECREE

Revival of the controversy between the rival building laborers unions, which threatened a city-wide tie-up of building construction, loomed again yesterday, when the Independent Bricklayers Helpers and Building Laborers' Union of America, announced that it would not abide by the terms of the permanent settlement plan announced Monday by the Board of Arbitration, established by the Lockwood legislative committee.

The union declared that it would not amalgamate with the international union of Building Laborers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. It said it would continue to function until Dominick D'Alessandro, General President of the international union, resigned, and "the Constitution of that union was radically changed."

The union charged that it did not have representation on the Arbitration Board during the proceedings and that the Lockwood committee "appeared to be acting on the assumption that the affairs of many thousands of workers should be determined by forced decisions of a handful of men behind closed doors."

Announcement was made that the Executive Board had declined to accept the resignation of General President Giovanni B. Dioguardi. Dioguardi, in resigning, explained that he did not wish to stand in the way of any possible settlement of the long standing controversy with the international union. The decision not to accept his resignation, it was said, was by unanimous vote, which was a vote of confidence and approval of his stand in the recent difficulties with the rival Union.

Insisting that he would keep his promise to Samuel Untermyer to cease functioning as the head of the independent union, Dioguardi, it was stated, then resorted to the only remaining method provided by the union Constitution of vacating his office, by ordering Vice President John Postiglione to assume the duties of General President.

Postiglione was instructed to pursue Dioguardi's stand that the independent union would continue to function at least until D'Alessandro, President of the international union, resigned and the constitution was changed.

The independent union also denied that the injunction proceedings against the Bricklayers' Union and the Mason Builders' Association would be withdrawn.

"The injunction still stands," was the declaration by Acting President Postiglione. "Only the unqualified resignation of Dominick D'Alessandro, would-be czar of America's building laborers, and a thoroughgoing reorganization of the international union would justify the independent union to change its position.

"There was a 'gentlemen's agreement' made during the hearing of the Lockwood committee that Paul A. Vaccarelli would remove himself as a stumbling block in the laborers' situation, provided the independent union could prove a bona-fide membership of 2,000. Adequate proof of a membership vastly exceeding that number has been secured by accountants for the Lockwood committee, yet the resignation has not yet been announced."

Mr. Postiglione continued:

"The reported decision of the Arbitration Committee to amalgamate the independent union with the international is not valid. Although the Lockwood committee conceded the independent union representation on the Arbitration Committee, the union was not represented at the meeting of the Arbitration Committee at which the reported decision was made. And in so far as the independent union is concerned, not even one man was consulted or permitted to vote on any question. Our representatives have made repeated but vain efforts to place important documents and evidence before the Lockwood committee and other constituted authorities.

"Our terms for a settlement of the controversy are the same as those announced by Mr. Dioguardi on Dec. 19. Dioguardi then offered to resign as head of the independent union if Dominick D'Alessandro, General President of the international union, would also resign and leave the members to decide the questions of affiliation and administration."

Spokesmen for the employers said last night that they intended to live up to their contract with the independent laborers' union and go along as in the past, ignoring the settlement proposed by the Board of Arbitration sponsored by Mr. Untermyer. The agreement expires on Dec. 31.

LLOYD GEORGE ASSAILS UNEMPLOYMENT POLICY

Government Accepts Suggestion for Farm Inquiry, Made in ex-Premier's First Speech.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—David Lloyd George made his first speech in the new Parliament today, speaking from the same seat whence, seventeen years ago, he was accustomed to inveigh against the Government of the day. Today he explained that he was not there to criticise, but only to make suggestions. He proceeded to support the amendment to the address, calling attention to the lamentably unsatisfactory state of agriculture and inviting the Government to open an inquiry with a view to finding remedies.

He also spoke on the unemployment question, which he treated as a temporary matter that would to a large extent pass away with the world's recovery from the effects of war.

Mr. Lloyd George's speech seemed to indicate that he is working for a reunion of the Liberal wings. He presented himself from the House yesterday when his followers had to decide whether to support or oppose the Government on the protectionist issue, twenty of his adherents eventually voting against the Government, while thirty-five abstained from voting.

Today he made the feature of his speech insistence that the Government's unemployment expedients are mere palliatives, touching only the fringe of the difficulty, and contending that more drastic remedies were needed. He expatiated on the seriousness of the depopulation of England's rural districts, which he described as worse than any other country except Russia, and expressed the belief that the unemployment problem could be largely solved by the development of agriculture and in finding work for the surplus population on the land.

Incidentally, Mr. Lloyd George pointed out that under the best circumstances England would have serious competition in the future from America, Germany, Belgium and France, and he feared the fact that Germany had wiped out the whole of her internal debt by inflation, and France three-fifths of hers, would leave Great Britain seriously handicapped when exchanges were repaired and business had recovered, owing to her debt remaining undiminished.

The Government accepted the proposal of Mr. Lloyd George to open an inquiry on the question of agriculture, and thus avoided a division which might have provided a test of strength between the Government and the combined opposition parties, as the Laborites and both the Liberal wings would have supported the amendment on which Mr. Lloyd George spoke. The Asquith Liberals insisted on a division. Thereupon the Laborites and the Lloyd George Liberals abstained from voting and the amendment was rejected by a vote of 267 to 63.

The division concluded the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Man's Love for Girl Saves Her from Jail; Judge Grants Parole to Permit Marriage

Love won freedom for Miss Lillian Blasi, aged 16, yesterday in Brooklyn County Court. Just as Judge MacMahon finished sentencing her to Bedford Reformatory on a charge of grand larceny, Anthony Zamperelli, aged 26, of 2,338 Pacific Street, Brooklyn, stepped before the Judge and said:

"Don't send her away, your Honor. I love her and she has consented to marry me. She is not a bad girl and, although she has made some mistakes, perhaps she is not to blame. Let her go and we will be married at once, and I am sure she won't do anything wrong again."

Judge MacMahon withdrew the sentence, and Mrs. Marie Mahon, probation officer, told him: "I know this case thoroughly, your Honor, for I have already made an investigation. The girl has made some mistakes, but the burden of her guilt does not rest on her own shoulders. She was not given a fair chance in her childhood, and bad example, and not an inclination to do wrong, has been the handicap under which she has suffered.

"Of her sixteen years she has already spent four in institutions, whereas a good example on the part of those who should have kept her in the right path instead of leading her astray would have kept her the girl she wants to be."

Judge MacMahon directed Mrs. Mahon to go with the girl and her sweetheart to the Marriage License Bureau, where the couple were married by Deputy City Clerk John F. Quayle. When they returned to court Judge MacMahon paroled the girl until Dec. 8, when he will finally dispose of the case. The girl's home has been at 68 Carlton Avenue, Brooklyn.

TWO ARE INDICTED FOR BECKER MURDER

Norkin Is Charged Jointly With Woman's Husband for Bronx Ash Pit Crime.

WILL DIG UP DEATH LOT

Officials to See If Missing Fannie Bloom Met Similar Fate—Arraignments Tomorrow.

Reuben Norkin, owner of a small welding shop in the Bronx, was indicted yesterday for murder in the first degree for the killing of Mrs. Jennie Becker, whose body was discovered in an abandoned ash pit last Wednesday. Norkin, a self-confessed accomplice, was indicted jointly with Abraham Becker, husband of the slain woman, in a superseding indictment returned by the November Grand Jury in Special Sessions in the Bronx County Court House before Justice James V. O'Malley. Becker was indicted in the first degree last Saturday.

With the indictments out of the way, Assistant District Attorney Albert Cohn of the Bronx concentrated his efforts on an investigation to determine whether there were other women who may have met the same fate as Mrs. Becker. During the day he was visited by Miss K. Courtenay Johnston, a lawyer of 56 Wall Street, and, following their conference, Mr. Cohn disclosed his intention of making a thorough investigation of the disappearance of Fannie Bloom, 23 years old, who was last seen at the home of Norkin's mother, Mrs. T. Norkin, who formerly lived at 23 Thompson Place, the Bronx, and who is almost blind.

Miss Johnston appears in the case as guardian for Fannie Bloom. She was appointed guardian by the Supreme Court last Spring, when the missing girl was one of several heirs who should have benefited by an award of several thousand dollars as the result of a railroad accident in which Miss Bloom's brother suffered injuries from which he died. Mr. Cohn said that he gained no important information secured by accountants for the Lockwood committee, yet the resignation has not yet been announced."

Mr. Postiglione continued:

"The reported decision of the Arbitration Committee to amalgamate the independent union with the international is not valid. Although the Lockwood committee conceded the independent union representation on the Arbitration Committee, the union was not represented at the meeting of the Arbitration Committee at which the reported decision was made. And in so far as the independent union is concerned, not even one man was consulted or permitted to vote on any question. Our representatives have made repeated but vain efforts to place important documents and evidence before the Lockwood committee and other constituted authorities.

"Our terms for a settlement of the controversy are the same as those announced by Mr. Dioguardi on Dec. 19. Dioguardi then offered to resign as head of the independent union if Dominick D'Alessandro, General President of the international union, would also resign and leave the members to decide the questions of affiliation and administration."

Spokesmen for the employers said last night that they intended to live up to their contract with the independent laborers' union and go along as in the past, ignoring the settlement proposed by the Board of Arbitration sponsored by Mr. Untermyer. The agreement expires on Dec. 31.

Fourteen Witnesses Examined.

Before returning the superseding indictment, the Grand Jury, in session for more than four hours, questioned fourteen witnesses and examined thoroughly all the records, especially Norkin's confession that he had played the part of lookout on the night of the murder, that he saw Becker strike his wife on the back of the head with an iron bar when Mrs. Becker stopped over the hood of Becker's motor car and saw Becker bury the woman in an old ash pit on a vacant plot adjoining Norkin's shop at 140th Street and Southern Boulevard.

Among the witnesses examined was Harry Gerner, 1,739 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, a mechanic employed at the Norkin shop. Gerner had informed the District Attorney's office that he saw Norkin on the running board of an automobile in the yard of the shop two nights after the murder of Mrs. Becker, April 7 last. Gerner's testimony refutes the statement of Norkin that he was so dazed by fear that he kept away from the shop after dark.

Another witness was Morris Bloom, 574 East 140th Street, employed in a poultry market near the death pit, who has told the police that on April 5 he saw three men digging at a spot which he believed was the death pit.

The testimony of Harry Series, night employe at a lunch wagon, where Becker and Norkin ate before and after the murder, also was before the Grand Jury.

Double Arraignment Tomorrow.

Soon after the indictment was handed up the Assistant District Attorney announced that the case had been transferred to the Bronx County Court, and that the two men would be arraigned jointly for pleading tomorrow morning before Judge Louis D. Gibbs.

On the first indictment against Becker the pleading was postponed until tomorrow morning, but with the superseding indictment now in force he will be compelled to plead with his alleged accomplice. Judge Gibbs appointed Alexander A. Mayper and Charles V. Halley as counsel for Becker.

Mr. Cohn said that the Becker-Norkin indictment was one of the speediest on record in the Bronx. He pointed out that on Nov. 22 Mrs. Becker's disappearance was called to his attention; that on Nov. 23 Miss Anna Elias and Becker, with whom Miss Alias was living, both appeared before him. On Nov. 24 Becker was held as a material witness, and on Nov. 25 detectives started digging in the murder pit at the direction of the District Attorney. On Nov. 28 and 27 the digging continued; on Nov. 28 Norkin was questioned, and on Nov. 29 the body of Mrs. Becker was found.

KASTEL WITNESS SILENT.

Woman Refuses to Answer Questions at Dillon & Co. Hearing.

The quest for assets of the brokerage firm of Dillon & Co., which failed with liabilities of about $300,000 about a year ago, was blocked yesterday when Miss Ruth Smith, 25 years old, of 457 Third Street, Brooklyn, refused to testify before Referee Peter B. Olney on the ground that her testimony might degrade and incriminate her. Miss Smith formerly was secretary to "Dandy Phil" Kastel, alleged head of Dillon & Co., and with Kastel and two others was indicted on a grand larceny charge growing out of the failure.

Keyes Winter, trustee in bankruptcy, tried to learn from her details of Kastel's connection with Dillon & Co. When she refused to answer questions he announced that he would ask the Federal Court to compel her to answer. She will be recalled as a witness on Friday.

The questioning of Frank Taylor, formerly head of the brokerage firm of Taylor & Co., who was sent to Sing Sing for larceny, also was postponed until Friday. He was taken back to the Tombs. The hearing will be continued today with the examination of Charles Mitten, proprietor of the Bankers and Brokers Investigation Agency.

Eugenic Marriages for Turks.

ANGORA, Dec. 5.—Rules laid down by the Turkish Nationalist Government provide that all persons intending marriage must hereafter submit to medical examination. Violations will result in severe punishment and annulment of the marriage.

GANGSTER IS SLAIN; NEWSBOY ACCUSED

Benjamin Levinsky Shot and Killed as He Enters Building on Broadway.

PAL HELD AS A WITNESS

Police Believe Murder Is Result of Grievance—Victim of Labor War, Says Lawyer.

Benjamin Levinsky, 29, who had spent a considerable part of the last twenty years in reformatories and penitentiaries, was shot and killed yesterday morning as he was entering the loft building at 715 Broadway, where he was employed as a cutter by Levinson Brothers. William Levine, 19, a newsboy, of 278 Cherry Street, is held for the murder.

A few minutes before the shooting, Levinsky and Benjamin Massauer, who had spent the night in Levinsky's home, 100 Ross Street, Brooklyn, drove up to the building in a taxicab. Leaving Levinsky, Massauer, still in the taxicab, heard two shots, and told the driver to stop. By this time a crowd had gathered, which gave way as Levine rushed from the building and ran into the arms of Patrolman Lieberman. He denied knowledge of the shooting and said he had gone to the building to buy a suit of clothes.

The policeman took Levine and Massauer to the Mercer Street Police Station, where Captain Funston, in charge of detectives there, questioned both men. Later, Levine was arrested on a charge of homicide. Massauer was held as a material witness, but later paroled in the custody of Hyman Bushel, a lawyer.

The police learned from Moses Chasan of 210 First Avenue that Levine had grappled with Levinsky in the doorway of the building when the shooting occurred. Chasan, according to the police, did not see the shooting. One bullet entered directly beneath Levinsky's heart and another entered his abdomen. A pistol was found near the body.

When arrested, Levine vigorously denied all knowledge of the murder, and would not admit having a police record until confronted with his picture in Rogues' Gallery in Police Headquarters. He then admitted he was "Willie Lipschitz," who was arrested on May 4, following a shooting. He was subsequently discharged by Magistrate Ryttenberg.

The police say that Massauer is known to them as "Bushwah" and that he was arrested three weeks ago on an assault charge in a labor dispute.

Mr. Bushel, who said he was retained by Levinsky's family, asserted at the District Attorney's office where Levine and Massauer later were taken, that Levinsky was the victim of hired assassins engaged to put him out of the way because he was a thorn in the side of clothing contractors. Levinsky, Mr. Bushel said, was a 100 per cent. union man.

Captain Funston said there was nothing to indicate that the lawyer's theory was correct. He felt certain, he said, that the slayer was a personal enemy of Levinsky and had become associated with him in his criminal career.

Levinsky, alias Louis Levy, alias Ben Brown, was first arrested in 1902 for incorrigibility and sent to a juvenile asylum. Five years later he was arrested as a pickpocket, and from then until his last arrest four years ago he had served terms for petty larceny, grand larceny, felonious assault and vagrancy. The police say Massauer's criminal career began in 1913 when he was arrested for petty larceny, and that since then he has been charged with burglary, grand larceny and possessing narcotics.

ATHA SEEKS DIVORCE; NAMES EYE SPECIALIST

Newark Physician Denies Charges Made by Son of the Founder of Crucible Steel Company.

Albert H. Atha of Newark, son of the founder of the Crucible Steel Company of America, filed suit yesterday for divorce from his wife, naming Dr. J. Lawrence Dias, eye and ear specialist of Newark.

Mrs. Atha is a great-granddaughter of William Halsey, Mayor of Newark in 1836. She is active in charitable work and has been identified with many local social service institutions. Her counsel said yesterday that she would deny the charges made, would enter a cross petition and would ask for separate maintenance on the charge of abandonment. Dr. Dias described the complaint "a tissue of lies."

Atha is living with his parents at 750 High Street, while his wife is at the family residence at 250 Mount Prospect Avenue, near the home of her father, William A. Halsey, 333 Mount Prospect Avenue. The couple were married on April 19, 1906.

DRY AGENTS WATCH BIG RUM CARGOES

"DINTY" GETS HIS LIQUORS

Restaurant Owner Acquitted of Violating Mullan-Gage Law—Five Arrested When Woman Dies.

Efforts of the various Federal agencies, coupled with those of State and municipalities, to prevent the smuggling in of liquors from the Bahamas and elsewhere, were redoubled yesterday upon the report to H. C. Stuart, Acting Collector of the Port of New York, that in four days, from Nov. 21 to Nov. 25, four vessels—three known to be carrying a total of 11,792 cases of whisky—left Nassau, destined for St. Pierre, Miquelon. In addition there are anchored somewhere between Philadelphia and Boston ten or twelve large vessels having aboard about 60,000 cases of whisky, according to Zone Chief John D. Appleby, in charge of the general Federal prohibition agents in this State and New Jersey.

Mr. Stuart's information yesterday from the Intelligence Bureau in Washington of the clearance of the four vessels gives the names of the boats and amounts of cargoes as follows: Tomaka, 5,832 cases; Squanto, 4,050 packages and 190 cases, and the Alfarata, with 3,245 cases. The fourth boat mentioned in the circular is a British gas cruiser known as "No. 2." The amount of her cargo was not given, nor was it known definitely that she had departed with liquor. Customs officials have sent notices of the possible approach to New York and New Jersey coasts of the vessels to the New York police and the prohibition enforcement officials and the Sheriffs of the New York and New Jersey counties along the coast.

Fishing Smack Seized.

A thirty-five-foot fishing smack, laden with 108 cases of whisky, and in which were three men, was captured yesterday morning at the foot of Bay Thirty-fifth Street, near Ulmer Park, Brooklyn, by detectives from the Second Deputy Police Commissioner's office who were paddling about in a rowboat. The men aboard the boat who were arrested gave their names as Edwin Hall, Highlands, L. I.; Joseph Smalling of 2,553 Harway Street, Brooklyn, and Thomas Willis of 208 Bay Forty-third Street, Brooklyn. They were arraigned before Magistrate Short in the Coney Island Court, charged with transporting liquor without a permit, and released after they had furnished $500 bail each. The examination will be held Saturday.

Federal agents captured the motorboat Wataugs with 180 bottles of whisky and arrested the four occupants of the boat off Sheepshead Bay. One of the prisoners said they were Captain Olaf Johnson, 115 First Street, owner; William Williams, 1,173 Fiftieth Street; Francis Freeman, 1,173 Fiftieth Street, and N. Petersen, 254 Third Street.

"I am going downtown to get my choice liquors back for the Christmas holidays," cheerily announced James ("Dinty") Moore, owner of the chop house at 216 West Forty-sixth Street, when acquitted in West Side Court yesterday by Magistrate Max S. Levine, on a charge of violating the Mullan-Gage law. On Nov. 28 detectives seized $20,000 worth of liquors at his building. No evidence was offered to show that the seized liquors were not Moore's "personal stock." The case was dismissed. However, Charles Zwirk of 336 East Twenty-sixth Street, who is alleged to have sold some liquor to one of the raiding party, was held in $500 bail for the Grand Jury on a charge of violating the Mullan-Gage law.

Five Held After Fatal Drink.

The death of Mrs. Jennie Masachak, 49, of 618 East Thirteenth Street, Monday night, after drinking a glass of whisky, resulted in the arrest of five men, all of whom were held yesterday without bail for examination Thursday by Magistrate Frederick B. House. They are Alois Bichat of 632 East Thirteenth Street, Frank Sustack of 620 East Thirteenth Street, Vincent Varnika, George Tribulak and Paul Barichek, both of the latter address.

Magistrate Thomas J. Nolan predicted in Tombs Court that the next Legislature would repeal the Mullan-Gage law. He discharged Harry Gandino, 20, of Dongan Hills, S. I., a waiter in a restaurant at 25 Baxter Street, charged with the possession of a quart bottle of what was supposed to be wine.

"Statistics show that six people are killed every day in the streets of New York and I think a drunken chauffeur should be given the benefit of the law," said Magistrate Frederick B. House, in Traffic Court yesterday. He was addressing Patrick Quinn, a chauffeur, of 1,317 Second Avenue, who was arrested Monday night by Motorcycle Patrolman Wall on the Third Avenue viaduct, Thirty-eighth Street. "In consideration of your wife and four children," continued the Magistrate, "I will give you but thirty days in the workhouse."

Magistrate Francis X. McQuade in Washington Heights Court yesterday dismissed the charge of violation of the prohibition law against Mrs. Lionella Perera of 38 West Eighty-third Street.

START DRIVE ON BREWERIES.

Federal "Dry" Agents Begin Campaign for Seizures in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Federal prohibition agents today began a campaign against breweries in Philadelphia alleged to be manufacturing beer of high alcoholic content. On advice from Washington that breweries here were running wide open, Sol Grill, Supervising Enforcement Agent, and his assistants arrested Elmer C. Phillips, a driver for the Fred C. Poth Brewing Company, as he drove his truck from the plant.

"Phillips's arrest will lead to the seizure of the brewery," said Grill. "Fourteen other breweries operating in the same manner will be seized this week. Forty men sent to this city have been working for two weeks to collect evidence that beer containing an illegal amount of alcohol is being manufactured in Philadelphia. The evidence is now complete. It is planned to bring these cases to the court's attention by seizing liquor in transportation and arresting the driver."

MAINE BARS ICE IN DRINKS.

New Law Prohibits Its Public Use Even in Water.

Special to The New York Times.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 5.—Maine is determined to be out front among all the States of the Union in its prohibitory laws, whatever may be said about the enforcement thereof.

Beginning today, ice cannot be legally served in or for any drinks in the hotels or public eating places of any sort—not even for water. Under the new law the ice cannot legally come in contact with the fluid to be drunk.

The keynote of this law is health. Officials point out that there is danger of the existence of harmful bacteria in the ice; that, while some of it is all right, a great portion of it comes from rivers and streams that are subject to pollution.

Field Offerings Bring $10,862.

A collection of furniture and some books from the library of Hamilton Easter Field, formerly art critic of The Brooklyn Eagle, brought $10,862 yesterday at a sale at the American Art Galleries, 30 East Fifty-ninth Street. The larger part of the books and some rare Japanese prints will be offered during the next three days of the sale, today, tomorrow and Friday.

Submits at 101 Years of Age To Appointment of Guardian

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Dec. 5.—Until recently being able to handle his own affairs, John Myers, 101 years old, submitted today to the appointment of a guardian to handle his affairs. The request for the guardian was filed with the full knowledge of Mr. Myers, who admits that his advanced age handicaps him in his activities.

The petition for the guardianship states that he is unable to care for himself and his second wife, who is 75 years old. He has a daughter more than 80 years old.

MISSENT PACKAGES SOLD AT AUCTION

ALSO, ADDRESS CLEARLY

767 Lots of Unclaimed Goods Bring the Post Office $7,500—Beware of Poor Wrapping Paper.

Post Office authorities found occasion to point out the moral of their campaign asking the public to make sure that Christmas packages be wrapped securely and addressed properly when 767 lots of unclaimed articles from the Dead Letter Branch were sold at auction yesterday at the Post Office, Thirty-first Street and Eighth Avenue, for about $7,500, the United States Treasury being richer by that amount.

The sale included a little bit of everything, such as toy mice, automobile parts, books, clothing, golf clubs and cigars. A double-barreled shotgun imported from Belgium brought the highest bid of $65, while $1 would buy a big crate full of odds and ends in the hardware line. Only one dissatisfied bidder was found—a woman who by mistake bought several dozen red balloons when she thought she was buying dresses for the family. Among the last lots sold was a set of Shakespeare for $2.50.

"There would not be any auction if people would follow our advice," said A. B. Firmin, Superintendent of Money Orders, "but the public will continue to be careless and we continue to hold an auction every three or four months. All these articles found their way to the Dead Letter Branch because the senders used second-hand wrapping paper—and wrapping paper since the war is of quality—or failed to know how to tie up a package so that it would not fall to pieces in transit. Or they were simply careless in addressing, and forgot entirely to write their own address, so that we might communicate with them."

PASSENGERS SEE FISH PERFORMING ODD FEATS

Purser on Tyrrhenia Identified Whistling Grampus and Bottle-Faced Dugong.

Passengers arriving yesterday on the Cunarder Tyrrhenia from Liverpool via Queenstown and Halifax said when they neared the coast off Nantucket on Monday afternoon several big fish were sighted off the starboard bow going through strange evolutions. J. M. Elkins, the purser, who looked at them through his glasses, said he could make out a whistling grampus, a shovel-nosed whale and a bottle-faced dugong. The big fish kept on the starboard bow and zigzagged at sharp angles and occasionally steered wildly across the track of the Tyrrhenia.

The Tyrrhenia brought fifty Irish immigrants, all wearing bright colored vests, which they said were the real style now in the South of Ireland.

The liner started to take in her oil fuel as soon as she reached Pier 54, North River, and will sail today at noon for Gibraltar, Naples, Patras and Dubrovnik, the new port of Jugoslavia.

INDICT 8 IN LIQUOR SMUGGLING IN SOUTH

One New Yorker, Edward Tratner, Is Named Among Those Charged in Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 5.—Federal indictments charging eight men with conspiracy to violate the Federal prohibition act, returned here late today, were described as the first step in an effort to break up an alleged widespread smuggling scheme backed by considerable wealth. The men indicted included Edward Trattner of New York; Louis Kantor, Detroit; four Charleston men and two whose addresses were not given.

The indictments grew out of the seizure in June of 200 barrels of whisky billed as white potatoes on a lighter in Green Creek, behind Cola Island, and a carload of liquor billed as lumber and consigned to a point in Canada a month

Molnar in Light Comedy.

Those for whom Ferenc Molnar means "Liliom" and "The Phantom Rival" and "The Devil" will find a fresh phase of his versatile genius in the new play at the National. "Fashions for Men" is a light character comedy that mainly takes place in a Budapest haberdashery, in a milieu of neckties and raincoats and pajamas for ladies. Instead of Liliom's wanderings through interstellar space, the plot takes us only to the landed estate of an excellent Count who has an eye for a pretty saleswoman and is passionately concerned in the breeding of sheepes, having just crossed a Camembert with a Stilton.

The familiar master of fantasy is none the less present in these purely mundane surroundings. From among lisle socks and jockey caps and ladies' garters there emerges a saint as authentic as that Androcles who took the bur from the paw of a jungle lion. And, nibable dictu, this Peter is played by none other than the O. P. Heggie who was purred against by his jungle lion in the Roman arena imagined by Bernard Shaw. A character conceived with the most exquisite grace of sympathy and humor is as exquisitely played. His level eyes beam benevolence and the fire of sheer goodness—"eyes like a devoted horse" as the worldly Count protests, even while he succumbs to the power in them.

To tell the plot, slight though it is, is to run a great danger of smirching, or seeming to smirch, this very delicate fabric. In the first act Peter's wife misappropriates funds and leaves him to go off with his stage salesman, Oscar. He takes it in a mood that any saint might envy, with a self-abasement and a compassion for them that blurs no fine edge of his own desolation. Even his best saleswoman, Paula, uses his bankruptcy and return to the country to mask a project of becoming the mistress of his Excellency the Count. His saintliness seems only a garment in which the worlds vermin gather.

On the cheese farm of Gerelypuszta the impositions on Peter's saintliness multiply. But his spirit of love and kindness drives him on. No sacrifice is too great to save Paula from her greed for luxury and the Count from his up-flaring of the ardor of his youth. The word chaperon faintly expresses the nature of his ministrations. It is a comedy of indescribable freshness and authenticity of character, not the least sympathetic figure being that of the wise and amiable if mundane Count, admirably played by Edwin Nicander.

The upshot is that Peter himself falls in love with this humanly beautiful Paula and rushes away from a field in which he can no longer fight for mere goodness. The last act leaves Peter and Paula presiding over the haberdashery, which has been made prosperous by Peter's reputation for sainthood.

The play has none of the stigma of unco gudeness, not even that finer form of it made familiar by "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." On the surface we have an ordinary comedy of self-limited virtues and of frailties quite real and unreformable.

If any one has a fundamental change of heart it is this Peter, who shows a budding or two of mere human sense. But the spirit that underlies it all is only the more genuine and, for those who do not demand miracles as a foundation of faith, the more convincing and stimulating.

The acting is excellent throughout. As the star salesman and eloper, Clarke Silvernail creates a character vivid in each of its many phases and deliciously comic. Paula is admirably played by Helen Gahagan, a recent recruit from college theatricals.

It must be recorded that there are occasional dead jewels in the play, at least for those who take no extraordinary delight in the technique of selling haberdashery. Genre painting is an art that can be easily overdone in our theatre. But if "Fashions for Men" is less novel in color and vivid in imagination than "Liliom" and "The Phantom Rival" and "The Devil," it is none the less authentic and masterly.

"MANON LESCAUT" MONDAY.

Chaliapin as King Philip in "Don Carlos" Next Wednesday.

The Metropolitan's fifth week will open next Monday with "Manon Lescaut," sung by Alda, Gigli, Scotti and Didur. Chaliapin appears once more as King Philip in "Don Carlos" next Wednesday, with Peralta, Gordon, Martinelli and De Luca. "La Bohème" on Thursday afternoon, with Bori, d'Arle, Gigli, Danise, Didur and Mardones, is a benefit for the Consumptives' Home at Inwood.

A revival of "Thaïs" on Thursday night engages Jeritza, Harrold and Whitehill, also Charlotte Ryan, Egener, Telva, d'Angelo and others, in a new Urban setting. "Tristan" is the Friday bill, with Matzenauer, Gordon, Tauchen, Schuetzendorf and Bender. "Ernani" will be the Saturday matinee, sung by Ponselle, Anthony, Martinelli, Ruffo and Mardones, on Dec. 16, while the popular Saturday night opera will be "Carmen," with Easton, Mario, Johnson and De Luca.

Next Sunday's opera-concert will comprise the music of entire scenes from "Trovatore," "Lucia" and "Faust," among fifteen leading singers being Peralta, Mario, Gordon, Harrold, Kingston, Burke and Rothier.

MISS ANNA CASE SINGS.

Appears at Benefit Recital for the Town Meeting Fund.

Miss Anna Case, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Company and of late years a concert singer, gave a recital in the Town Hall, an occasion which, it turned out, was a benefit for the Town Meeting fund. There was an audience of a size that ought to have assured some benefit to the fund, though it did not fill the hall.

Miss Case sang better than she has at various times since she left the Metropolitan company. Her voice had much of the charming quality that belongs to it at its best, until she reached some of the higher tones in the German Lieder on her program, when it showed serious deficiencies. A group of unfamiliar old Italian songs she sang with taste and expression, and an old Swedish folk song with real feeling. She was successful in the difficult air by Handel, "Sleep, why dost thou leave me," from "Semele." In the more sustained German songs she conveyed much of their spirit, but her exaggeration of archness in Brahms's "Therese" quite misread that delightful lyric.

Guild to Produce Miracle Play.

A medieval miracle play, "The Tidings Brought to Mary," will be the next production of the Theatre Guild, opening at the Garrick on Christmas night. It is the work of the French poet, Paul Claudel. Late in January or early in February the Guild will produce "Peer Gynt," with Joseph Schildkraut in the title rôle.

MUSIC NOTES.

Contracts were signed yesterday by which the Wolfsohn Bureau and the Music League of America will next season operate jointly with the Arthur Judson concert management, sharing its offices in the Fisk Building.

The Philharmonic Orchestra plays its third program at the City College tonight, presenting Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony, Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade" and Tchaikovsky's "Slavic March."

Mona Morgan will be assisted by Isabelle Rose Losey, soprano, in "An Evening of Shakespeare" next Sunday at the Punch and Judy Theatre.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 6.—A resolution, protesting against the proposed concert appearance here next Monday night of Mme. Johanna Gadski-Tauscher, who was a storm centre during the war because of alleged pro-German utterances, was passed by unanimous vote at a meeting last night of the City Inter-Post Council of the American Legion. Representatives of women's auxiliaries and of other war veterans' organizations were present and voiced concurrence in the decision.

This action was taken despite the continued pleading of a spokesman engaged by Mme. Gadski's management to plead before the council that action be deferred until this morning. The operatic star left Fresno immediately after her appearance there last night in the hope of meeting a committee of the council for the purpose of answering the accusations against her.

After three hours of debate the council, after hearing charges that Mme. Gadski permitted the singing of a song extolling the sinking of the Lusitania at a party in her honor the night of the catastrophe; that she publicly voiced the wish that she could blow up all American munition plants, and that her husband, Captain Tauscher, was connected with an attempt to blow up the Welland Canal—all of which charges the singer's spokesman says she denies—the council decided to send word at the appointed hour this morning informing her of its opposition.

The council, in the same session, passed a resolution expressing sympathy and hope for the recovery of Mme. Schumann-Heink.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Clinging Vine" will open at the Knickerbocker Theatre Christmas week.

"Sun Showers," a musical comedy with Harry Delf in its leading rôle, will open in Stamford on Christmas Day.

Maclyn Arbuckle will play the title rôle in "Old Bill, M. P.," which Sam H. Harris will produce.

Sessue Hayakawa, the film star, will soon be seen on the stage in a play by Fred de Gresac, entitled "Tiger Lily." The Shuberts and Walter Jordan will be the producers.

Keith Day and Pat Somerset are retiring from the cast of "Orange Blossoms" this week, at the conclusion of the New York run.

Elsie Janis will return to Keith vaudeville at the Riverside next week. After a brief tour she will go abroad.

In accordance with its annual custom, the Hippodrome will entertain 10,000 crippled and dependent children at its matinees this month.

The last performance of "Inspector General" will take place at the Jewish Art Theatre tomorrow. On Friday night "The Great Fortune," by Sholom Aleichem, will be produced.

CHALIAPIN SINGS AIR OF AMERICAN COMPOSER

Mr. Chaliapin, five times heard in opera, turned to the concert stage last evening at Carnegie Hall, where a vast crowd heard his first English song here—Sidney Homer's fine "Requiem." The lines were Stevenson's, beginning "Under the wide and starry sky," used as epitaph for the poet's Samoan grave. "Next song, American song," was the singer's introduction to Mr. Homer's lyric setting, which he presently enforced with all his varied powers of voice, of expression and diction.

The blond Russian giant gave the Volga boatmen's song, "Ai Ukhnyom," as no other has sung it, the vanishing refrain drawing his house to silence and then to an answering roar from floor and galleries. He prefaced the two parts of his program, one with a solo epilogue from Rachmaninoff's opera, "Aleko," and the other with Mozart's air of Leporello in "Don Giovanni," done with free-arm gesture and compelling joviality. The audience laughed with him, too, when in Mousorgsky's song of Mephisto to "The Flea" he brushed the imaginary insect from his coat sleeve.

Besides tragic and dramatic pieces from Russia's less known composers, Chaliapin sang one German classic, Schubert's "The Double," one of the more foreign Russian pieces, Rubinstein's "Persian Song," and, as his thirteenth number and last encore, a Russian popular dance song of a lover begging a kiss. Max Rabinovitch played the accompaniments to admiration, and Nicholas Levienne was heard, with some patience, in 'cello solos while the basso took needed rest for his voice.

Cora Cook Gives Recital.

Cora Cook, mezzo-contralto, gave a matinee recital in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon, assisted at the piano by Frank LaForge. Miss Cook has a voice that should ripen like a vintage flavor, but that has not reached its mellow maturity as yet. Her low notes are remarkable, while the upper tones are breathy and uncertain. She sang with sympathy an unfamiliar Schubert air, "Am Grabe Anselmos"; Schumann's "Frauenliebe" cycle, French lyrics of Debussy and Chausson, a Greek folk-song harmonized by Bourgault-Ducoudray, and songs in English by Griffes, Mrs. Turner Maley and Mr. LaForge.

TWO ARE STUNNED IN $13,659 HOLD-UP

Auto Robbers Flee With Loot After Knocking Down Cashier and Police Escort.

A policeman and a cashier were knocked down and robbed of $8,770 in cash and $4,899 in checks in a hold-up in front of the office of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey at Fifth Street and Bergenline Avenue, West New York, yesterday morning. The robbers escaped in an automobile. No shots were fired. After being treated at the North Hudson Hospital in Weehawken for scalp wounds the victims returned to their homes.

The funds were being taken from the commercial office of the gas and electric light companies of the Public Service Corporation to the Union Hill branch of the Trust Company of New Jersey at Bergenline Avenue and Hackensack Plank Road, and were carried in a satchel by John P. Conroy, 26, of 733 Park Avenue, Weehawken, a cashier employed in the West New York office. Conroy was escorted by Motorcycle Policeman Joseph Truncellito of the Union Hill police.

Conroy was seated in the side car of the motorcycle, which was parked at the curb directly in front of the entrance to the company office on Bergenline Avenue, and the policeman was bending over to pump up a tire when the attack was made by three men. They were rendered unconscious by blows on the head. The satchel was torn from Conroy's grasp and the robbers, leaping into their auto, fled toward Fifth Street.

Speeding through Fifth Street until it ended in Hudson Boulevard, the robbers turned south in the boulevard and disappeared.

A witness gave the police the license number of the robbers' machine. The descriptions of the automobile and the robbers were said to be vague.

Lieutenant of Detectives Charles Dillman of Union Hill was put in charge of the investigation. The New York police and the New Jersey State Constabulary have been asked to assist.

BRAN NOW MADE DELICIOUS

Everybody knows the need of bran. But clear bran is not inviting. People won't continue, as you know.

Pettijohn's hides the bran flakes in luscious flakes of wheat. Not ordinary wheat, but a special wheat—the most flavory wheat that grows.

You know the need for whole wheat and for bran. Here we combine them in a dainty. In a dish which countless homes regard as the finest breakfast cereal.

Try it tomorrow. It will solve the bran problem in your home in the most delightful way.

Must hearts break for want of sunshine?

Many courageous hearts and frail bodies will break this winter.

Thousands Benefited

Every year hundreds acquire tingling, robust health in this wonderful man-building climate. Thousands of revitalized, permanent residents of Tucson originally sought health here. They remain, contented, vigorous, rebuilt physically.

Tucson, modern city of 25,000, lies upon a half-mile high plateau. Schools, churches, clubs, good shops, excellent hotels, reasonable rents and countless outdoor recreations make living enjoyable. A modest income commands every pleasure and care.

Reduced Rates

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Weakness in Stocks, With Irregularity—Bonds Move Variably—Exchange Higher.

Aside from the continuing rise of European exchange, the interest in yesterday's financial markets converged on the firmness of United States Government bonds and the tendency to weakness in stocks. The Stock Exchange movement was not impressive; it pivoted largely on selling orders in the railway shares, whose professional origin was quite unmistakable and the reasons assigned for which were in the nature of "happy thought" explanations. As a matter of fact, the day's market seemed to be drifting again into the edifying condition of a week or so ago, when the manœuvres of two opposing groups of professional speculators to trip each other up were really the whole story of the day's fluctuations.

For yesterday's irregularity in the investment bond market, there was precedent enough in the usual early December movement. Seemingly uncertain drift of prices, fractional advance of some securities while others are declining fractionally, may usually be looked for at just this time. A year ago the market moved in precisely the same way until the last week of the month, when prices advanced rather vigorously; doubtless in anticipation of the "January reinvestments." Liberty bonds have usually acted with the rest of the bond market; their distinct recovery has in fact begun this December earlier than it began a year ago.

In yesterday's market, foreign bonds were again hesitant and the French bonds fractionally lower. This was ascribed in Wall Street to the fact that the investing public, as it is commonly expressed, "can no longer be made to take an interest" in European loans; that it is too pessimistic over the European political situation. The explanation is plausible, and so it was a year ago this week; when, as now, Wall Street had just emerged from an excited discussion of the impending political and financial ruin of Europe.

Yet, somehow or other, that did not prevent an advance of 10 per cent. or thereabouts in the price of active European bonds during the first three months of 1921. Perhaps the experience will not be repeated in 1923; but if so, the reason will not be the attitude of the Wall Street public during the first week of the present December. The average investor does not buy bonds on the principle which he applies to purchase of shoes or clothing. If the French bonds were presently to sell 10 points above existing prices, we should see a remarkable change in the popular attitude toward European Government bonds as a field of desirable investment.

Sterling went yesterday a full cent above its highest rate of the day before, touching $4.55 and closing only a small fraction under that figure. Exchange on Sweden and Holland also rose to the highest of the present year to date and the highest since the Spring of 1919. While the rate on Stockholm stood at a slightly increased premium over par of exchange, the rate on Amsterdam got within 1 per cent. of par and the course of sterling was reflected in a fall of the London premium on gold in British paper to 6 per cent., the low-record figure since the gold market was reopened in 1919. Last January the premium was 15⅜.

French exchange was again lower, increasing the belief that, for whatever reasons, capital has been shifted from Paris to London, either directly or via New York. The pound sterling has risen on the Paris market within a fortnight from 61½ francs to 65¾. In the preceding fortnight, however, it had fallen from 72⅝ to 61½; which makes it somewhat difficult to discover consistent tendencies in the situation. Perhaps the most puzzling aspect of the recent rapid advance in most of the other foreign exchanges is the market's apparently complete indifference to the Fordney Tariff act, which has now been eleven weeks in operation.

MONEY.

TUESDAY, DEC. 5, 1922.

Stock Exchange call loan rate moved over the same channel as that on Monday, opening and renewing at 5 per cent.; accommodation charge later advanced to 5½, where it ruled until close. Time money continued quiet, with bid of 4¾ per cent. against bankers' offerings at 5, unchanged from previously established quotations. Bankers' acceptances and mercantile paper were moderately active but with no change in discounts.

London Market.

Money at London unchanged at 1¼ per cent.; short bills unchanged at 2⅝@2¾ per cent.; three months' bills unchanged at 2¾@2¼ per cent.

Gold bullion down 3d at 89s 10d. Taking the British Mint standard price of 85s per fine ounce as par, the market quotation for gold would represent a price of 106⅛ at London. On the same basis the highest London price for gold for the year to date was 115⅝ on Jan. 5. The highest price since open trading in gold was resumed at London, in September, 1919, was 140⅝, on Feb. 6, 1920; the lowest, 106⅛, on Dec. 5, 1922; previous low, 107, on Nov. 28, 1922.

Clearing House Exchanges.

Exchange of checks at the New York Clearing House, $818,000,000; balances, $77,000,000; Federal Reserve credit balance, $65,000,000; exchanges a year ago, $968,200,000.

REFUSES OFFER FOR PLANT.

Power Company Declines $2,577,655 Proposal by St. John City.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Dec. 5.—The New Brunswick Power Company, controlling the electric light and power, street car and gas services here, has rejected the municipal offer of $2,577,655 for its plant and equipment, Mayor Fisher announced today. This figure was set by the Supreme Court as the value of the company's property in 1920.

The power company offered four alternative propositions: To sell the property to the city on a basis to be determined by arbitration; to arbitrate the rates to be charged; to elect two members of the Board of Directors of the company on appointment by the city; or to sell the electric light and power department to the city, retaining the street railway and gas departments.

The company's bonds are held largely in the United States.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Dec. 5.—The New Brunswick Government approved today a contract between the Provincial Electrical Power Commission and the City of St. John for delivery of hydro power to the city from the Musquash plant. The signature of Lieut. Gov. Pugsley, who is visiting New York, is still to be affixed.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

London Irregular, Paris Steady—Sterling Again Moves Against Paris.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Trading was dull and prices moved irregularly on the Stock Exchange today. Old 2½ per cent. consols ⅛ lower, at 56¼; British 5 per cent. war loan ⅛ lower, at 99⅝; 4½ per cent. war loan unchanged, at 95.

Rand Mines, 8⅛; De Beers Mining, 13, both unchanged.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Prices were steady on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 15 centimes lower, at 60 francs; 5 per cent. war loan 10 centimes lower, at 75 francs 65 centimes.

Exchange on London 46 centimes higher, at 65 francs 10 centimes per sovereign; American dollars were quoted at 14 francs 44 centimes, against 14 francs 21 centimes yesterday.

McGarrah on Reserve Bank Board.

Gates W. McGarrah, Chairman of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, was elected a Class A Director of the New York Federal Reserve Bank yesterday, and Owen D. Young, Chairman of the General Electric Company, was elected a Class B Director. Both will serve three-year terms beginning Jan. 1, 1923.

EXCHANGE RULE AIDS ODD-LOT BOND BUYER

Brokers Must Fill Orders as They Are Received Regardless of Sum Involved.

END OLD "CABINET" METHOD

New Regulation Will Provide Small Investor With Better Market for His Dealings.

The Committee on Arrangements of the New York Stock Exchange has issued new rulings covering transactions in odd lots of bonds, these rulings being adopted for the purpose of giving the small investor a better market for his bonds while at the same time the buyer of bonds in small amounts will receive a better execution of his order. These rules, it is said, are all part of a program of the Exchange authorities to give the investing public a better market both on the selling and on the buying side than has existed heretofore.

Under the new rules the broker will no longer be permitted to place small lot orders in the "cabinet." This practice has been in force for some time and as a result the buyer of a small amount of bonds has lost his market because the placing of his order in the cabinet was sometimes left there for a long time, if not almost forgotten. In future it will be necessary for the broker to give the same attention to a small buying order as he does to a large buying order. This means that a small order will be executed immediately just the same as an order for a "full lot."

Also under the new ruling, it will be necessary for all brokers to place their orders in chronological order. Under this rule an order, if filed at 9:30 A. M. to sell a certain bond, this bond must be sold previous to an order filed any time later, regardless of the size of the order. Consequently to receive proper executions all brokers have advised their firms of the necessity of getting their orders in hands of the specialists as early as possible.

Another clause in the ruling issued by the Committee is that commissions must be charged for all transactions. This feature, which is already contained in the Constitution of the Exchange, is understood to have been neglected by certain brokers. Heretofore, in the absence of a broker from the floor of the Exchange, it has been a custom to let another broker execute an order and no commission was charged for handling the transaction. This will be done away with under the new rules as the commission will be charged by the one who actually transacts the order. This is expected to eliminate, to no small extent, the absence of brokers from the floor and bring about personal executions of all orders by the broker for his particular customers.

Some stock exchange firms were at first opposed to the new rulings because of the vast amount of work placed upon the shoulders of the floor member of the firm in taking care of the numerous small orders received daily, but it is expected that this labor will be counterbalanced by the benefits to investors to buy bonds on a small scale. It is also expected that many orders of $1,000 to $5,000 lots, which now go to investment houses not members of the Exchange, will, in the future, go to Stock Exchange firms.

The circular of the Committee of Arrangements addressed to "The members of the Bond Crowd," and signed by E. V. D. Cox, Secretary, reads as follows:

"The changes recently made to facilitate trading in the Bond Crowd have made it necessary to make the following rules, which will be effective Monday, Nov. 27, 1922:

(1) Market orders to buy or sell shall not be placed in the cabinets.

(2) Cards containing offers to buy or sell will be arranged in the cabinets according to price, and then chronologically as to the time when they are received by the clerks.

(3) Orders will be filled according to the bids or offers in the cabinets in the order above indicated, said bids or offers to have precedence over all other bids and offers.

"The attention of the Bond Crowd is directed to the following:

"Section 1 of Article XXXIV of the Constitution provides that Commissions must be charged 'under all circumstances.'

OUTLINES REORGANIZATION

Explains Plan to Issue $34,330,000 Notes to Retire Most of Those Outstanding.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company, it was declared yesterday, would have shown a balance of $4,011,523 for the year ended June 30, 1922, if the Interborough-Manhattan readjustment had been in operation during that time. This computation, announced by Frank Hedley, President and General Manager of the Interborough, in a letter addressed to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company Bondholders' and Noteholders' Committee, was based on actual earnings of the company for the year ended June 30, 1922, it was stated.

In outlining the plans and position of the company under the reorganization scheme Mr. Hedley pointed out that the Interborough was about to issue $34,330,000 ten-year 7 per cent. notes, dated Sept. 1, 1922. These notes are to be utilized in retiring and refunding 90 per cent. of the outstanding issue of $38,144,400 three-year 7 per cent. notes. Mr. Hedley's statement follows:

"Pursuant to the terms of the Interborough-Manhattan plan of readjustment which has just been declared operative, the company is about to issue $34,330,000 principal amount of its ten-year secured convertible 7 per cent. gold notes dated Sept. 1, 1922, which will be utilized in retiring and refunding 90 per cent. of the outstanding issue of $38,144,400 principal amount of Interborough Rapid Transit Company three-year secured convertible 7 per cent. gold notes.

"These secured convertible notes are to be secured by pledge, under a collateral indenture with Bankers Trust Company, trustee, of $59,602,000 Interborough Rapid Transit Company first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent. bonds (stamped as participating in the below-mentioned readjustment plan), the bonds being thus pledged at a price of about 57½ per cent.

"Under the Interborough Rapid Transit Company-Manhattan Railway Company plan of readjustment, dated May 1, 1922, which is now effective, the fixed charges have been materially reduced.

"The favorable results to the company of the reduction in fixed charges brought about by the operation of the plan of readjustment, is best known by deducting from the known results of operation for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1922, the interest (but not the sinking fund) on the Interborough Rapid Transit bonds, the interest on the new Interborough Rapid Transit 7 per cent. notes and the interest on the Manhattan Railway bonds. Such a statement follows:

YEAR ENDED JUNE 30, 1922.

Operating revenue		$53,540,359
Operating expenses	$23,175,503
Taxes and city rentals	5,285,456	37,557,965
Operating income		$15,982,894
Non-operating income		652,875
Gross income		$16,635,769
Interest on Interborough first and refunding mtg. bonds on new Interborough 10-year 7% notes and on Manhattan Railway Co. bonds		12,624,246
Balance		$4,011,523

"The balance of income for 1922 would have been available, under the plan, for additions to property on account of the postponed sinking fund instalment, interest on the new Interborough 6 per cent. notes, the Manhattan Railway dividend rental at the reduced rate, or other corporate purposes.

"After July 1, 1926, when the sinking fund payments are resumed under the plan, that obligation at the increased rate provided for will become a part of the company's fixed charges.

"In view of the substantial increase in the number of passengers carried on the system during the first five months of the fiscal year and also because of the greater economies of operation which are being obtained, there is every reason to believe that the actual results for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923 will be at least as favorable as those indicated in the table above."

The ten-year 7 per cent. notes which the Interborough will issue are convertible at the holder's option into the first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent. bonds of the Interborough company at a price of 80 until Sept. 1, 1925. Thereafter, the conversion price is 85 until Sept. 1, 1929, and 90 from 1928 to maturity.

Want Cotton Exchange Holidays.

Members of the New York Cotton Exchange have started a petition requesting the Board of Managers to appoint a day on which to take a ballot on the proposal to make the Saturdays before Christmas and New Year's days special holidays.

FIELD AND BAKER JOIN BANK BOARD

Marshall Field, head of Marshall Field, Glore, Ward & Co., and John Stewart Baker were yesterday elected to the Board of Directors of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, to fill vacancies which have existed for some time. The entire board of the bank was re-elected, and at a special meeting of the stockholders of the Manhattan Company, approval of the 100 per cent. stock dividend recommended by the Directors some time ago was voted.

The Bank of the Manhattan Company is the oldest bank in the country operating under its original charter, which was granted in 1799. The bank in its present form represents a consolidation of the banks founded by Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton. The stock dividend of 100 per cent. increases the capital from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000, and represents the transfer of a portion of surplus of the corporation to capital account. The dividend is payable to stock of record as of Nov. 28.

The Directors of the Manhattan Company, in addition to the two who were elected yesterday, are J. E. Aldred, Stephen Baker, B. H. Borden, Michael Friedsam, Walter Jennings, Raymond E. Jones, G. Howland Leavitt, Henry K. McHard, George McNeir, Arthur G. Meyer, John C. Moore, Charles E. Potts, Samuel Sloan, James Speyer, Carl Sturhahn and George Zabriskie. John Stewart Baker, who was elected to the directorate yesterday, is a son of Stephen Baker, President of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, and a great grandson of the Stephen Baker who was one of the stockholders of the Manhattan Company at the time of its formation.

Marshall Field is a Director of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, the Merchants Loan & Trust Company, Marshall Field & Co. of Chicago and the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

New Process Gear Company, Inc.
SYRACUSE, N. Y.
First Mortgage 6½% Serial Bonds
(SAFEGUARDED UNDER THE STRAUS PLAN)
Serial Maturities, 1 to 10 years

We summarize as follows from a letter from Mr. T. W. Warner, President of the New Process Gear Company, Inc., the issuing corporation:

BORROWING CORPORATION: The New Process Gear Company, Inc., has been incorporated under the laws of Delaware to acquire the New Process Gear plant in Syracuse, property and going business. The plant has been in continuous operation for the past 20 years and is known as one of the largest gear plants in the United States. The Company is turning out large orders under contract with such corporations as Durant Motor Co., Star Motor Co., Flint Motor Co., Willys Overland Co., Timken Axle Co., Salisbury Axle Co., and Adams Axle Co., and it is estimated that its sales for the coming year will amount to between $7,500,000 and $10,000,000. The Company is under able, aggressive and experienced management.

MORTGAGED PROPERTY: The bonds are a direct first mortgage on all the land, buildings, machinery and equipment of the Company. The land composes 7¼ acres, the three main buildings having a total floor space of 8 acres. The mortgaged property is appraised by Messrs. Ford, Bacon & Davis at $4,057,709.

EARNINGS: Annual earnings of this plant from the years 1916 to 1921, and the first 10 months of 1922 for interest, taxes and depreciation, according to the audit of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., averaged $517,731.23. This is nearly four times the greatest annual interest charge, and greatly in excess of the greatest annual principal and interest requirements on these bonds.

ASSETS: Net tangible assets amount to $5,269,801, or equivalent to $2635 for $1000 of bonds. Tangible assets amount to $5,394,294, and liabilities other than this bond issue $124,493, as certified to by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co.

Price: Par and accrued interest to net 6½%

NEW ISSUE

Printing Crafts Building
NEW YORK CITY
First Mortgage 6% Serial Bonds
(SAFEGUARDED UNDER THE STRAUS PLAN)
Serial Maturities, 1 to 15 years

We summarize as follows from a letter from Mr. Raymond E. Baylis, President of the Printing Crafts Realty Corporation, mortgagor in this bond issue:

MORTGAGED PROPERTY: Land and the Printing Crafts Building, covering the entire block front of 197 feet 6 inches on the west side of Eighth Avenue, from 33rd to 34th Streets, and with a depth of 120 feet on 33rd Street and 119 feet on 34th Street. The building is 22 stories in height, of steel frame, full fire-proof construction, with the unusual floor bearing capacity of 240 lbs. per square foot, and 14 elevators. The building was erected seven years ago for the purpose of housing some of the largest and best known quality printing concerns and allied trades in New York City, and has been maintained in excellent condition.

LOCATION: The location is directly north of the large new Federal Post Office, and diagonally across the street from the Pennsylvania Railroad Station. Within two blocks are the Pennsylvania Hotel, McAlpin Hotel, Martinique Hotel, the Equitable Life Assurance Building (in course of construction), and such department stores as Gimbel Brothers, Saks & Company, and Macy's.

EARNINGS: The building is now rented under leases and shows a net return of $333,349.60 per annum. Due to changing rental conditions, some available space is now being rented at a higher figure, and the annual future net rental earnings of the property have been conservatively estimated at $401,539.60, a sum more than twice the greatest annual interest charge and greatly in excess of the annual principal and interest requirements. The property is valued at much in excess of $4,000,000.

BORROWING CORPORATION: The bonds are the direct obligation of the Printing Crafts Realty Corporation, composed of well known companies from the printing trades which occupy space in the building.

Price: Par and accrued interest to net 6%

MONTHLY DEPOSITS: Under the trust mortgage, the bonds of each issue, safeguarded under the Straus Plan, are a first lien on the earnings of the mortgaged property. Each month the borrowing corporation must pay a uniform amount from its net rentals or profits to the trustee under the mortgage. Each year the sum of these twelve monthly deposits must be enough to pay both the interest coupons and the maturing bonds. In this way prompt payment of both bonds and coupons in cash on the days due, from the earnings of the mortgaged property, is automatically provided for.

STUDEBAKER ORDERS 25% STOCK DIVIDEND

Directors Will Ask No Increase of Capital to Meet the Distribution.

KENNECOTT COPPER TO PAY

Will Resume Dividends After Two Years' Suspension — Liggett & Myers Seek Capital Increase.

Directors of the Studebaker Corporation at a special meeting in this city yesterday declared a stock dividend of 25 per cent. on the common stock, payable Dec. 29 to stock of record Dec. 16. No meeting of stockholders will be called to approve an increase in capital to make possible the dividend distribution, as there is an authorized capital of $75,000,000, of which only $60,000,000 is now outstanding.

"The earnings of the corporation and its prospects are such that the management believes the present rate of 10 per cent. dividends on the common stock will be continued on the new capitalization," the statement read. It was further stated the Directors will capitalize $15,000,000 of net earnings which had been invested in plants, equipment, improvements and other developments to provide for expansion.

The Kennecott Copper Corporation will resume dividend payments on its capital stock after two years of suspended payments. Directors yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the stock, payable Jan. 15 to stock of record Dec. 23. When dividends were suspended the company had been paying at the rate of 50 cents quarterly.

"Resumption of dividends," read the statement, "was brought about by the following conditions: The company has sold its entire production for the past year and had reduced its surplus stock on hand at the beginning of 1922 to a minimum, thus putting the company in a strong financial condition. The construction of the 10,000-ton plant of the Braden Copper Company in South America has been completed. This property is now producing over 10,000,000 pounds of copper per month.

"The Alaska mines are on full production. The Utah, Nevada and Mother Lode Companies, in which the Kennecott Copper Corporation is interested, is also producing and there is a good, steady demand for copper. The Directors therefore feel that with these conditions the company is justified in resuming quarterly disbursements.

Directors of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company yesterday called a special meeting of stockholders for Jan. 8 to approve an increase in the capital stock from $65,752,700 to $100,000,000. The purpose of the increase has not been announced. Wall Street expects the company to make some extra stock distribution to stockholders.

du Ponts Declare Dividend.

The E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. Directors yesterday declared a 50 per cent. stock dividend, payable Dec. 29, to stock of record Dec. 6. This action follows the authorization by stockholders of an increase in the capital stock from $80,000,000 to $100,000,000. This stock will capitalize a part of the surplus already permanently invested in the company's business.

The New York office of the Standard Oil Company of California received the following telegram yesterday: "Authorized capital stock increased from $115,000,000, divided into 4,600,000 shares of the par value of $25 each, to $250,000,000. Following stockholders meeting, a meeting of the Board of Directors was held. At this meeting a stock dividend of 100 per cent. was declared payable Dec. 30 to stock of record Dec. 9."

The telegram further states that "in accordance with the by-laws, no certificates for a fractional part of a share will be issued in payment of said stock dividend. After stock dividend the total number of shares outstanding as of Dec. 30 will be 8,179,274 full shares of the par value of $25, representing $204,481,850 of issued capital stock."

A letter to stockholders of the Vacuum Oil Company says the Directors have transferred to capital stock from surplus a total of $45,000,000, which will be distributed to stockholders in the form of a 300 per cent. dividend, payable Dec. 30 to stock of record Dec. 15, in proportion of twelve shares of $25 par value each for each share of stock of $100 par value now held. After the stock dividend there will remain $10,000,000 of unissued stock.

Official action was taken yesterday by the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Kansas in declaring a 300 per cent. stock dividend. This dividend is payable Dec. 30 to stock of record Dec. 16.

Directors of the William Wrigley Jr. Company of Chicago are reported to have declared a 10 per cent. common stock dividend, payable Dec. 30, to stock of record Dec. 23. It is also said the company has redeemed all outstanding mortgages and preferred stock, and only capital stock is now outstanding.

The Hercules Powder Company Directors yesterday declared a quarterly cash dividend at the rate of $1.50 a share on the common stock, payable Dec. 22, to stock of record Dec. 15. The company recently declared a 100 per cent. stock dividend. Payments on the old stock were at the rate of $3 a share quarterly, so that in proportion to the amount of capital outstanding the dividend on the increased stock is unchanged.

Directors of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company propose to increase the common capital stock from $30,000,000 to $60,000,000 and to authorize an issue of $60,000,000 new preferred stock, according to reports in Wall Street from Pittsburgh. It is said the Directors intend to make application to list the preferred stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

Directors of the National City Bank yesterday declared an extra dividend of 2 per cent. in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 4 per cent. Both dividends are payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 16.

PLAN 33 1-3% STOCK DIVIDEND.

Equitable Trust Also May Ask $4,000,000 Addition to Capital Account.

Alvin W. Krech, President of the Equitable Trust Company, yesterday announced the company plans to declare a 33 1-3 per cent. stock dividend, which will call for an addition of $4,000,000 to capital account. The company also is offering an additional $4,000,000 of capital stock to stockholders at par, or $100 a share. A special meeting of stockholders had been called for Dec. 20, to ratify proposals set forth by the Board of Directors, among these an increase in the present capital stock of $12,000,000 to $20,000,000.

After the proposed distribution of the capital stock in the form of a stock dividend and the proposed increase in the capital stock which will be offered to stockholders at par, the balance sheet of the company as of Jan. 1, 1923, will show capital account of $20,000,000, surplus of $8,000,000 and undivided profits of $500,000. The bank shows deposits of approximately $260,000,000. Dividends have been paid at the rate of 16 per cent. annually on its capital stock. In 1920 and 1921, however, the company paid extra dividends at the rate of 4 per cent. annually. This year it is expected the extra dividends will be eliminated and only the regular payments will be made.

Mr. Krech in his letter to stockholders after calling attention to the special meeting, the increase in the capital stock and its purpose, says:

"For some time it has been apparent that substantial losses would in all probability be sustained on account of business transacted in the Paris branch of this company. It has been impossible heretofore to make an accurate estimate of these losses owing to the unsettled business and other conditions in France. After a thorough investigation it has been determined to set up a reserve of $5,500,000, which, in addition to a substantial amount already applied out of current earnings, will in our opinion cover all losses. The situation having thus been met, the future earnings of the company may be carried to surplus or distributed in dividends."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Sterling Advances to $4.55—Heaviness Develops in Rates on Rome and Paris.

The outstanding feature in the foreign exchange market yesterday was a further advance in exchange on London, the high point for the day being $4.55, with the close at $4.54⅝. At this level there was a gain of a full cent as compared with the close on Monday. The upturn, so far as could be judged, was influenced to a large extent by operations in this market. For nearly two weeks sterling has been showing pronounced strength, and it is held by some that predictions of sterling at or near parity before the end of the year might have been realized had it not been for the interest payments of $100,000,000 made this Fall on the British debt to the United States. The real influences back of the present robust upturn are not easily decipherable. Many plausible theories have been put forth, not the least of them having to do with the British foreign trade situation.

While on Monday the rise in sterling imparted a firm tone to the more important rates, there was irregularity yesterday. Weakness again developed in French francs, which throughout the day ruled slightly under the previous close. There was also a softening of the rate on Rome, influenced to some extent by the offering of grain bills. The volume of dealings in Italian exchange was rather heavier than on recent days. At the close yesterday lire were quoted at 4.89½ as against 5.01½ on Monday.

The rate on Amsterdam showed strength and there was firmness in the Berlin rate. In the case of Stockholm there was a slight increase of the premium, with a moderate reaction to 26.98 at the close, in comparison with a high of 27.01. Belgian francs were weak, declining to 6.41, as compared with the close of 6.50½ on Monday. The Far Eastern rates were fractionally higher, a reflection of the firming up in the price of silver.

In the subjoined table the quotation on sterling represents dollars and decimals of a dollar; all others represent cents and decimals of a cent. Quotations preceded by the decimal mark indicate a price measured in fractions of a cent.

SUMMARY

The Dominion Iron & Steel Company, Limited, incorporated in Nova Scotia in 1899, owns the largest iron and steel works in Canada, located at Sydney, N. S.

It owns a sufficient quantity of iron ore to supply its works for over a hundred years. This is in the famous ore deposit at Bell Island, Newfoundland, which yields about 50% metallic iron

OFFER $4,645,000 INDUSTRIAL BONDS

Dominion Iron & Steel Co., Ltd., Has New Issue, 5 Per Cent., at 85 and Interest.

HAS $7,094,140 OUTSTANDING

New Issue of $995,000 City of Lansing 4¼ and 4½ Per Cent. Bonds Are Offered Here.

Hayden, Stone & Co. are offering a new issue of $4,645,000 Dominion Iron and Steel Company, Ltd., consolidated mortgage 5 per cent. bonds at 85 and interest. They fall due September 1, 1939, and are guaranteed by the Dominion Steel Corporation, Ltd. They form, in effect, an American series of this issue, others to the amount of $7,094,140 being outstanding and payable in sterling or Canadian currency only. The principal and interest on this new series is payable in gold in New York, or in Canadian currency in Montreal, or sterling in London. The feature of payment in this country is provided by a supplemental indenture dated Nov. 15, 1922, and covering this series alone.

This issue, outstanding to a total of $11,739,140, is a direct mortgage on all the property of the company, subject only to $5,741,000 first mortgage 5s, due in 1929, for the retirement of which an equal par value of this issue is reserved. When this refunding has been completed this issue will become a first closed mortgage upon the entire property of the company.

The entire common stock of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, Ltd., is owned by the Dominion Steel Corporation, Ltd., which also owns the entire common stock of the Dominion Coal Comany, Ltd., and several other constituent properties. By a covenant dated Nov. 15 of this year, the Dominion Steel Corporation, Ltd., guarantees the interest and principal of the $4,645,600 Consolidated mortgage 5s now offered, but this guarantee does not apply to any of the sterling or Canadian currency bonds of this issue.

The Dominion Iron and Steel Company, Ltd., incorporated in Nova Scotia in 1899, owns the largest iron and steel works in Canada, located at Sydney, Nova Scotia, together with a large part of the famous iron ore deposit in Belle Island, Newfoundland.

Offering of $995,000.

Remick, Hodges & Co. are offering a new issue of $995,000 City of Lansing, Mich., 4¼ per cent. and 4½ per cent. bonds, dated Jan. 2, 1923, and due Jan. 2, 1925, to 1945. They are tax-exempt in Michigan and are legal investments for savings banks and trust funds in New York, the New England States, Michigan and elsewhere. They are issued for waterworks extension, electric light and power and sewerage improvements. The assessed valuation is $129,800,779 and the net debt is $4,935,918. Of the total issue, $450,000 are 4½ per cent. bonds, which are being offered at 100 and interest, and $545,000 are 4¼ per cent bonds, offered at par.

R. M. Grant & Co. are offering a new issue of $632,000 City of Passaic, N. J., 4½ per cent. general improvement bonds at prices to yield about 4.20 per cent. They are due $20,000 on Dec. 1, 1923 to 1932; $21,000 on Dec. 1, 1933, and $11,000 on Dec. 1, 1954.

H. L. Allen & Co. are offering $253,000 Town of Bloomfield, N. J., 4½ per cent. school bonds, dated Nov. 15, 1922, and due $9,000 yearly, 1923 to 1937; $13,000 1938 to 1941; $13,500 1942 to 1945, and $12,000 in 1946.

A large block of the capital stock of the National Supply Company of Toledo, Ohio, has been acquired by local banking interests, and it is expected a public offering of the securities will be made soon. The company's principal business is the manufacture and sale of oil well supplies, which are distributed among some of the larger companies in the Standard Oil group, according to a statement issued yesterday.

According to banking circles, it was said the present company would be reorganized under the laws of the State of Delaware to acquire the capital stock of the present company bearing the same name. Under the plan of recapitalization the company will have $8,000,000 authorized 7 per cent. preferred stock, of which $7,265,000 will be outstanding, and $17,000,000 common stock, of which $12,125,000 will be outstanding. The preferred stock will have a par value of $100 a share and the common stock a par value of $50 a share.

B. J. Baker & Co. and the Central Trust Company of Illinois are offering $1,150,000 first mortgage fifteen-year 7 per cent. sinking fund gold bonds of the Everlastik, Inc., manufacturers of elastic fabrics. The bonds are being offered at 100 and accrued interest to yield 7 per cent. The company, a Massachusetts corporation, was organized in 1915 to take over seven fabric mills. Average annual net earnings for the last seven years, according to the bankers, were equal to 3¾ times interest requirements on the bonds.

BUSINESS MEN HELPING RED CROSS ROLL-CALL

Contribute $110,452, With $15,000 in Sight—Club Women and Hospitals Aid Cause.

Contributions of Manhattan's business men in the Red Cross Roll-Call reached a total of $110,452 last night, with another $15,000 representing memberships in various unorganized groups expected within a few days.

The Red Cross announced that officials, nurses, physicians and surgeons connected with Bellevue Hospital have subscribed $1,200, and the city's health agencies, under the leadership of George R. Bedinger, Director of Health Service of the New York County Chapter of the Red Cross, have a total to date of more than $2,000.

"The Federated Women's Clubs have returned $8,500," said the announcement, "and the contributions of the churches have now reached more than $10,000. The Greek Committee has $3,500 in hand, and expects its total to be more than $5,000. Mrs. Henry P. Davison's committee also has sent in an added $1,500.

"Nurses in hospitals and training schools of the city, under the leadership of Miss Isabel L. Evans, have made an unusual showing in the roll-call. Memberships and subscriptions to date amount to more than $5,000, and it is expected that $6,500 will be the approximate total for this group."

RAILROAD COAL UP 40%.

Cost to Carriers Increased $17,500,000 During August.

Statistics of railway operating expenses for August, this year, recently compiled in transportation quarters, show that before the coal strike began last Spring the average price the carriers were paying for coal was $3.46 per ton. Beginning with April 1, the inception of the coal strike, the cost rose rapidly, and in August it was $4.87 a ton, an increase since April of $1.41, or about 40 per cent.

The railways use about 12,500,000 tons of coal a month, it was pointed out. This means, officials explain, that the increase in the cost of coal—that is, $1.41 a ton—added about $17,500,000 to the roads' operating expenses in August, and this increase in operating expenses was described as amounting to an equivalent reduction in net operating income. The total reduction in the net operating income of the roads for August, 1922, as compared with August, 1921, was $37,600,000, so that the cost of the coal strike to the railroads as seen from the increased cost of coal, was held to be responsible for almost half of the entire reduction in net operating income.

Those increased costs, it was stated, were entirely separate from those resulting from the shopmen's strike.

OPPOSE FORD RAIL LEASE.

Decision Reserved in Action to Hear Stockholders Before Suit.

Justice Gavegan in special term of the Supreme Court yesterday reserved decision in the application of Leon Tanenbaum, representing minority stockholders in the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad, for an examination prior to the trial of a suit against Henry Ford to restrain the company from executing a lease for seventy-five years to the Detroit & Ironton Railroad. This latter company was organized under the laws of Delaware by Henry and Edsel Ford, who own almost the entire stock.

Tanenbaum, who alleges that he invested $10,000 in the old company, charged that the lease to Ford interests would deprive the minority stockholders from sharing in any of the profits that might be derived from the lease.

WAR RISK MILLIONS MAY BE RECOVERED

Export Association Has Plan to Collect From Enemy Alien Funds.

FORM READY FOR CLAIMS

Many millions of dollars paid by American firms and corporations in the form of war risk insurance on articles exported to other countries during the war can probably be recovered from the Government out of funds sequestered from enemy aliens, according to the opinion of the American Manufacturers' Export Association. The association has organized a committee to take up these claims, and copies of the forms under which such claims should be made are being distributed at its offices, 160 Broadway. In a statement issued by the association it is said that "during the war many millions of dollars were paid out as war risk insurance on shipments to practically all countries. The American Manufacturers' Association has prepared a form of petition with acknowledgment and power of attorney which it will send to any one inquiring, together with copy of rules and regulations.

"The petition should be filled out in quadruplicate and must be presented on or before Jan. 1, 1923, to the Mixed Claims Commission at Washington. It is not necessary at the present time to supply any supporting evidence of the claim, but each claim should be identified with the policy number and the amount paid. By filing this petition the rights of the claimant will be preserved and instructions will be issued later for the necessary evidence to support the claim."

Myron W. Robinson, President, will appoint a committee within the next few days to assist members and others in furnishing forms, receiving the claims and presenting them to the commission. A committee was appointed to collect claims arising from the deposit of German marks in German banks at the outbreak of the war. This committee consists of Stanley J. Quinn of the Irving National Bank, Chairman. The other members are Edward S. Wood of the Esterbrook Steel Pen Company and Cecil S. Ashdown of the Remington Typewriter Company. This committee has already received many claims, all of which are now under consideration.

Commerce Chamber to Hear Owsley.

Colonel Alvin Owsley, National Commander of the American Legion, will be the guest at the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York tomorrow. It is understood that Colonel Owsley, who has recently been in Washington conferring with President Harding and other Administration leaders, will talk on the immigration, hospitalization and Americanization measures as they affect the Legion. Reports will be submitted at the meeting on the immigration problem, the merchant marine and the formation of a welfare council.

Gifford on Bankers Trust Board.

Walter S. Gifford, Vice President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, was elected a Director of the Bankers Trust Company at a meeting of the board held yesterday. Mr. Gifford will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Owen D. Young, Chairman of the Board of the General Electric Company, who retired in order to be available for service on the board of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Pennsylvania Four Mill Tax Refunded. Coupon bonds in interchangeable denominations of $1,000, $500, and $100, registerable as to principal.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF BOSTON, AND CHARLES B. BREED, TRUSTEES.

BUSINESS. Everlastik Incorporated, a Massachusetts corporation organized in 1915, is the largest manufacturer of elastic fabrics in the world, and owns seven long established and successful fabric mills, as follows:

T. Martin & Bro. Mfg. Co.	Chelsea, Mass.	1871
T. Martin & Bro. Mfg. Co.	Lowell, Mass.	1893
Hub Gore Makers	Brockton, Mass.	1883
Leolastic, Inc.	Bayonne, N. J.	1908
Bridgeport Elastic Fabric Co.	Bridgeport, Conn.	1903
Mansfield Elastic Web Co.	Mansfield, Ohio.	1892
Smith Webbing Co.	Pawtucket, R. I.	1899

The Company produces staple goods in universal demand distributed to manufacturers, jobbers, and the wholesale dry goods trade throughout the United States and Canada.

MORTGAGE SECURITY. The bonds will be secured by a closed first mortgage on all the Company's plants, as well as by assignment of its valuable patents and trade-marks. In a recent independent appraisal the Company's plants have been given a reproduction cost of $4,759,500 with sound depreciated values of $3,544,000, or in excess of three times the total authorized bond issue. The appraisal value of the land and buildings alone is $1,300,000. Insurance aggregating $2,700,000 is carried upon the Company's plants.

ASSETS. The Company's balance sheet as of September 30, 1922, as verified by independent audit, adjusted to give effect to the sale of the bonds and the appraised instead of the book value of the Company's fixed assets, shows net tangible assets, after deduction of all liabilities other than these bonds, of $5,319,261, equivalent to $4,625 for each $1,000 bond. Current assets in the balance sheet are in excess of three times current liabilities, with net current assets equivalent to $1,367 for each $1,000 bond.

EARNINGS. Average annual net earnings for the 7 years and 10 months ended September 30, 1922, (including the readjustment period of 1920 and 1921, in which the earnings for 1920 were reduced to $95,511 and in 1921 showed a loss of $761,353) after interest and depreciation, but before Federal Taxes, were $308,642, equivalent to 3¾ times the maximum interest requirement upon these bonds. For the 5 years and 1 month prior to the 1920-1921 readjustment period, average annual net earnings were $632,500 or over 7½ times interest requirement on the bonds. For the first 9 months of the current year net earnings, after depreciation but before interest and Federal Taxes, amounted to $103,902.

SINKING FUND. The mortgage will provide for an annual Sinking Fund equivalent to 15% of net earnings after operating expenses, taxes and interest, with a minimum of $60,000 a year, the first payment to be made to the Trustee on March 1, 1924, and to be used for the purchase of bonds or their redemption by lot.

MANAGEMENT. The management is thoroughly experienced, a large number of the officers and employees of the present Company having been for many years in the service of the constituent companies which were established over a period extending from 1871 to 1899.

Appraisal by the American Appraisal Company; Engineer's Report by Sanderson and Porter; Audits by Ernst and Ernst. Legal matters will be passed upon by Ropes, Gray, Boyden & Perkins, of Boston, for the Trustees; by John Abbott, Esq., of Boston, for the Company; and by John W. McAnarney, Esq., of Boston, and Cotton & Franklin of New York, for the Bankers.

Offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. It is anticipated that interim receipts of The First National Bank of Boston will be ready for delivery on or about December 12th.

COPPER MEN POINT TO LOSS BY RUST

Research Association Puts Waste by Corrosion at $600,000,000 Annually.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR 1923

R. L. Agassiz of Calumet & Hecla Named President and William T. Willis Manager.

At the second annual meeting of the Copper and Brass Research Association, held yesterday at 25 Broadway, the part that the organization has played in the growth of consumption of brass and copper was reviewed in detail and Directors and officers were chosen for the ensuing year. R. L. Agassiz, President of the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company and President of the association, said:

"The research and educational work of the Copper and Brass Research Association has played an important part in the rapid growth of consumption of brass and copper during the last year, for, despite uncertain business conditions, copper consumption in this country is now substantially greater than in pre-war years. Having digested an unprecedented quantity of wartime scrap metal, the industry is now in a strong position.

"The underlying purpose of this whole effort is to develop to the maximum the domestic consumption of the metal. Export trade will always be a large factor, but it will be possible, we believe, to so augment the American use of the metals that the varying industrial pulse of Europe will be much -ooad sup ?ucumuetap of remuneiuut ueu perity of the industry.

"In this connection it is interesting to note that while the 1922 consumption of copper and brass in the building industry in this country was about 150,000,000 pounds (an increase of more than 100,000,000 pounds as compared with 1921), yet the potential market for copper and brass in the building industry is placed at approximately 850,000,000 pounds annually. The constantly growing domestic use of brass, which is only next to the electrical industry as a consumer of copper, is another helpful factor.

"The electrical industry, where the physical properties of copper are indispensable, is in reality only in its infancy. The high cost of fuel, with uncertain and expensive transportation, are responsible for the growing use of electric power generated at central points, distribution over wide areas being possible economically because of copper's high conductivity.

"Our plan is to provide through the instrumentality of the Copper and Brass Research Association a technical and advisory service which may be freely called upon by users of our metals—a service which no one copper or brass producer or manufacturer could reasonably be expected to undertake alone. Already wide use is being made of these facilities. Information has been furnished on the use of copper and brass for almost every conceivable subject, from safety pins to locomotive boiler tubes.

"An important accomplishment has been the fact that many of the more than 3,000 manufacturers who produce articles made of brass or copper have taken advantage of the association's activity to individually advertise their products, thus extending the association's own educational work. The association has found a ready response all over the country to its campaign directed toward eliminating waste in industry and in the home by the use of a non-corrodible metal, a waste the size of which was demonstrated by a survey conducted by the association, showing that rusted metal in homes alone costs home owners more than $600,000,000 annually—about five or six times as much as the fire loss."

The following Directors were elected, the first eight mentioned comprising the Executive Committee:

R. L. Agassiz, President Calumet and Hecla Mining Company; Walter Douglas, President Phelps-Dodge Corporation; C. F. Kelley, President Anaconda Copper Mining Company; Stephen Birch, President Kennecott Copper Corporation; Charles Hayden, Vice President Chino, Utah, Nevada, Ray Companies; F. S. Chase, President Chase Rolling Mills; Edw. H. Binns, President C. G. Hussey & Co.; H. J. Rowland, sales manager Rome Brass and Copper Company; J. W. Allen, Treasurer Greene-Cananea Copper Company; Henry F. Bassett, President Taunton-New Bedford Copper Company; H. C. Ballinger, Vice President Chile Exploration Company; F. H. Brownell, Vice President American Smelting and Refining Company; J. Parke Channing, Vice President Miami Copper Company; C. F. Dietz, President Bridgeport Brass Company; S. Geldsmith, President National Brass and Copper Company; E. O. Goss, President Scovill Manufacturing Company; Robert H. Gross, President East Butte Copper Mining Company; U. T. Hungerford, President U. T. Hungerford Brass and Copper Company; C. V. Jenkins, Treasurer Utah, Chino, Nevada, Ray Companies; H. B. Paul, auditor Calumet and Arizona Mining Company; R. M. Raymond, Director United Verde Extension Mining Company; A. B. Seelig, manager Michigan Copper and Brass Company, and W. Parsons Todd, manager sales Copper Range Company.

The Directors, at an organization meeting immediately following the annual meeting, elected the following officers: President, R. L. Agassiz; Vice Presidents, C. F. Kelley, F. S. Chase, H. J. Rowland, Walter Douglas and U. T. Hungerford; Treasurer, Stephen Birch; Secretary, A. Sloan, and manager, William T. Willis.

New Rail Issues Are Authorized.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The Chicago, Terre Haute & Southeastern Railroad received authority today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $715,000 in 5 per cent. bonds. These securities will be turned over to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, which controls the Southeastern, in consideration of monetary advances made by it to its subsidiary. The Cincinnati, Indianapolis & Western also obtained permission to assume obligations for the payment of interest and principal of $300,000 in equipment trust certificates, while the Wyandotte Terminal Railroad, in Michigan, is to issue and sell at par $415,000 in common stock.

PLAN UNIFORM RATE FOR INSURANCE SALE

State Commissioners Take Steps to Establish Scale for Agents' Fees.

COMMITTEE TO DRAFT RULE

Several Insurance Organizations Are Holding Their Conventions at Hotel Astor.

The National Convention of Insurance Commissioners, meeting yesterday at the Hotel Astor, took steps to do away with the costly competition for agents among casualty insurance companies.

Francis R. Stoddard Jr., State Commissioner of Insurance, described the manner in which he had forced the casualty insurance companies in this State to drop their competition for agents and at his suggestion a committee of six Commissioners was appointed to work out a plan by means of which a system of uniform agents' commissions might be instituted in the other States.

It was explained that the problems of acquisition costs, business methods and uniform commissions were the most important on the horizon for the casualty companies, and that if these matters were satisfactorily adjusted it would mean better service to the policy holders at lower rates.

President Platt Whitman, Insurance Commissioner of Wisconsin, was in the chair. He appointed the following committee to work out the suggestion of Commissioner Stoddard and to make a report: Commissioners Stoddard, Chairman; Commissioner Harry O. Flubrook of Washington; C. W. Hobbs, Massachusetts; W. H. Young, Nebraska; E. W. Gerhart, Ohio, and T. M. Donaldson, Pennsylvania.

This is "Insurance Week" and the Hotel Astor is the scene of meetings of a large number of insurance organizations, including the Insurance Federation of America, the National Association of Insurance Agents, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, the National Association of Casualty and Surety Agents, the Group Accident and Health Committee and the Casualty Information Clearing House. At the Bar Association yesterday the Association of Life Insurance Counsels began its annual meeting, which will continue today. Among those who read papers were R. B. Alberson, associate counsel of the Bankers Life Insurance Company of Des Moines, on "Total Disability"; L. S. Bomberger, general counsel of the Northern States Life Insurance Company of Hammond, Ind., on "Some Perils Besetting the Record Title to Real Estate"; Harry W. Reynolds, attorney for the Aetna Life Insurance Company of Hartford, on "Certain Aspects of the Federal Revenue Act of 1922", and Walter H. Eckert, general counsel of the People's Life Insurance Company of Illinois, on "The Trial of Insurance Cases Before a Jury."

John C. Wakefield, President of the association, who is Vice President and general counsel of the John Hancock Life Insurance Company of Boston, presided.

A proposal for the curtailment of the large number of insurance agents and the weeding out of incompetents was one of the subjects discussed at the meeting of the National Association of Insurance Agents, and 24 per cent. 40,000 agencies with 50,000 agents.

It was suggested that a qualification law for agents be formulated and that applicants be required to pass examinations. Speakers said that their efforts had been largely directed toward certain types of agents, those who held positions during the day and who "did a little insurance on the side" and the type of agent such as the son in a wealthy family who was commencing a million dollar line in order obtaining a license as agent and taking the commission.

BLAINE SAYS MELLON ERRS.

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 5.—Governor J. J. Blaine today sent a telegram to Secretary Mellon of the Treasury, in which he said that Mr. Mellon, in his reply to the Governor's address before the progressive conference in Washington, "either misunderstood or misapprehended" his statements concerning the Treasury Department. The telegram read:

"Your interview published this morning prompts me to suggest that you reread my address of last Saturday before the People's Legislative Service Organization at Washington. It was there I made public the names of certain corporations and millionaires and the amount of tax-refunded to them and the amounts they saved through readjustments of their tax and offsets and other claims having the effect to reduce their taxes now no doubt soon would be able to explain away there as a loss to the Federal Government in tax revenues in 1922 of over $1,000,000,000.

"You either misunderstood or misapprehended my address. I was discussing the secrecy claims in income tax laws, which foster and promotes frauds and cheats the Government."

CANADIANS EXHIBIT FOODS.

Fairs in London and Birmingham to Be Used to Popularize Products.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—An exhibition of foodstuffs prepared by Canadian manufacturers will be a feature of the British Industries Fair, which will be held concurrently in London and Birmingham early next year, says the monthly circular of the American Chamber of Commerce in London. The exhibits, which will include canned foods, breakfast foods and dairy products, will be prepared with a view to popularizing Canadian foodstuffs in Great Britain.

The circular states that the Lancashire cotton industry is again depressed. The American section, constituting 70 per cent. of the spinning trade, is working only 35 hours a week, and a vote on a proposal to curtail it to 24 hours is now under way. The proposed schedule would affect 112,000 workers. Only 21 of the 84 Lancashire cotton spinning mills paid dividends in November.

WAR SUIT FOR MILLION.

Philadelphia Company Holds Government Undervalued Land.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—A $1,000,000 suit against the United States Government for property taken for war purposes was brought today by the Greenwich Real Estate Company before Judge Dickinson and a jury in the United States District Court.

The real estate company alleges that a slice of land along the Delaware River front in Philadelphia, sequestered by the War Department for an army supply base, was worth $1,000,000. The Board of Appraisers of the War Department valued the land at $295,486 on the ground that an expenditure of $12,000,000 was required before it could be used as a supply base.

A New Kind of Uptown Office

AT the corner of East Sixty-third Street and Madison Avenue—almost exactly at New York's "Social Center"—the Bank of New York and Trust Company opened a branch office on November 20, 1922.

An attractive Colonial house of red brick and white marble, presenting none of the usual features of a bank, except half-hidden protective grilles, yet containing every convenience for the transaction of financial business; with an entrance hall carefully designed in the style of the Adam period; with tastefully furnished rooms for men and for women opening from the entrance hall; with safe deposit vaults of the latest type and handsomely designed coupon rooms, conveniently located; such is the Uptown Office which the Bank of New York and Trust Company has provided for its uptown friends—old and new.

The Office is under the management of Ernest H. Cook, Vice-President, who has been for many years identified with uptown banking institutions, with Ralph M. Johnson as Assistant Manager and Owen H. Smith as Assistant Secretary.

Ratings and Radio

SOME people dislike both the League of Nations and the Radiophone because Washington's Farewell Address made no mention of either. There may still be some who think that because Nathan Rothschild got along without investment Ratings, they too can afford to be ignorant of them.

But we now see that Radio is simply one step in the development of science, following the wireless, the telephone and the submarine cable. Just so, Moody's Ratings are part of the great growth of institutions designed to aid and protect the investor, along with the modern bank, the stock exchange and countless other contributions to big business which the first Rothschild hardly dreamed of.

Our new booklet, "The Art of Wise Investing," will tell you all about our Ratings and Service. Send for a free copy.

This is a financial danger signal

A NEWS ITEM like that shown above is a warning to all who own a corporation's bonds.

You, a business man, would see such an item on the financial page of your newspaper—and would understand its significance. But would your wife?

Fortunate is the woman whose husband has been able to leave her ample means for her comfort. But more fortunate is the woman whose husband has also provided ample protection against the loss of her estate.

You can assure your wife and children of such protection simply by creating a voluntary trust under the terms of which our trust officers act as their responsible property managers and investment counsellors.

We shall be glad to discuss this with you, without any obligation on your part.

HEAVY LIQUIDATION OF COTTON FUTURES

Persistent Selling Develops in the South—Prices Lose 44 to 55 Points.

An early advance of a quarter of a cent brought out so much long cotton yesterday that the most severe break in several weeks followed. A feature of trading was found in the persistent selling by Southern sources, and weakness that developed in New Orleans reflected weight of general liquidation. With only 391,000 bales ginned in the last period, according to a private estimate, many operators expected a steadier market. When prices failed to hold and started downward stop-loss orders were unearthed. December sold at 24.35, nearly 2½ cents from high levels of the season, and there was not buying power enough to halt the downward movement. Prices lost ground steadily and closed at the bottom, 44 to 55 points lower than on Monday.

After furnishing evidence of stubborn resistance to pressure for nearly a week, action of the market early served to disturb confidence of holders. The final appearance of private figures on ginning, which, instead of being large, showed only a small total for the period, created active buying soon after the opening. A great deal of cotton changed hands 20 to 30 points above previous closing. But the quantity of cotton for sale on this extremely moderate recovery had a most unsettling effect on sentiment. Commission houses began to pour out cotton and houses with Southern wire connections received selling orders to an extent that soon started a decline.

It had been evident for two weeks that an extensive long interest remained outstanding by those who had failed to realize that the excited advance in cotton was over. From day to day scattered liquidation of these accounts occurred, but it was not until yesterday that the decline reached a point where stop-loss orders in considerable volume were uncovered. Two days during the two weeks May has declined to a basis of 24¾ cents, but each time halted and recovered. When the early improvement failed to hold and New Orleans showed definite signs of weakness for the first time since the advance, selling pressure became general. March broke through 24¾ cents and a buying order of 10,000 bales of May at 24.61 was finally filled without halting the decline. Scale orders appeared, but contracts were supplied by general liquidation.

The decline carried December to 24.35 and May broke through 24½ cents to 24.40. Each recovery in prices encountered cotton, the fact that previous rises had been passed exerting a disturbing influence on sentiment. At this time of the year mills, having protected themselves to an unusual extent earlier in the season, are not active buyers. There is a general disposition to leave no raw material on hand when inventories are taken Jan. 1 than is absolutely necessary. And this year, particularly, with a quantity of cotton contracted for in higher levels than those now prevailing, demand for actual cotton is reported slow. This has caused Southern holders to attempt protection by the sale of contracts in either New York or New Orleans owing to the lack of spot demand.

Southern and speculative liquidation coming just at this juncture has had a depressing effect on values. The break, however, has resulted more from pressure of contracts previously purchased than from operations for a decline. With so many Southern spot markets quoting middling cotton above New York contracts and only 37,000 bales in the local stock, with the whole question of supply and demand still in process of solution and a long way ahead to a new crop, there is little tendency to take to selling side.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

Further Concessions Reported in Foodstuffs—Eggs Turn Higher.

Further price concessions were reported again in yesterday's cash markets, the grains showing the most pronounced declines, lard, iron, lead and cottom joining in the downward movement. There was a slight upturn in eggs, a natural aftermath following the sharp drop of the last week, tin also moving up for a small gain. Groceries, other provisions and metals were firm.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Tuesday, a week before, and a year ago:

GAS STOCK CHANGE VOTED.

Consolidated Meeting Acts on No Par Proposal.

At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Consolidated Gas Company yesterday approval was granted for a change in the capitalization from $125,000,000 capital stock of $100 par value to 3,000,000 shares of no par common stock. This meeting followed a special meeting held Monday at which the issuance of $125,000,000 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock was approved.

Of the 3,000,000 shares of no par value common stock, 2,500,000 are to be issued to present stockholders in the ratio of two shares of the new for one of old while the remaining 500,000 shares are offered to present shareholders to the extent of 20 per cent. of their holdings at $50 a share.

Gold support came in late with a rally to 88¾ cents at the close, or ¼ cent over the more deferred contracts. It is understood that the heavy selling of December early, which was instrumental in turning the market downward, was for foreign account, and the late action suggested that an oversold condition prevailed among local bidders.

The Armour interest continues to talk very bullish on all grains, although the news is largely against a substantial upturn in corn at the present time, and one of the original bulls expressed the belief today that Chicago will be called upon to absorb the bulk of the country movement from now until next March. Philadelphia offered corn to Boston today at 2 cents less than Chicago.

Snow's report suggested a crop of about 2,800,000,000 bushels, or the same as the previous month, and compared with 3,051,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Oats closed ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower, with December showing a strong undertone and, at no time, was it lower than the previous close.

Rye was up a quarter of 1 cent on seaboard buying and export sales the past two days were estimated at a round 1,000,000 bushels.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 1,426,000 bushels; week ago, 1,685,000; last year, 1,299,600. Shipments were 937,000 bushels; week ago, 1,465,000; last year 473,000.

Corn receipts were 1,327,000 bushels; week ago, 1,018,000; last year, 1,441,000, and shipments, 907,000 bushels; week ago, 426,000; last year, 435,000.

CONSIDER LOWERING IMMIGRATION BARS

NO DECISION IS REACHED

President May Refer to Subject In Message to Congress Without Making Recommendation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—When President Harding goes before Congress to deliver his annual address he may have something to say on the immigration question, which has become acute on account of the shortage of unskilled labor in some industrial establishments. The situation was discussed at a meeting of the Cabinet today and afterward it was said at the White House that the subject might be included in the President's address, although he had not determined definitely.

No decision was reached at the Cabinet meeting as to how an effort to have the present restrictive immigration law modified should be framed, although the impression was given that there was no likelihood of a recommendation by the President that the immigration bars should be let down. Information that countries of Northern and Western Europe were not taking advantage even of the provision of the law which enables immigrants from any country to enter the United States up to 3 per cent. of the number of persons from that country in the United States as shown by the Federal census of 1910 seemed to make an impression on the Cabinet members.

Great pressure is being brought on the Government to have the bars let down to overcome the shortage of labor. Most of this comes from industrial interests. At the same time there is opposition from organized labor.

An indication of the attitude of the Administration was afforded by the views of Secretary Davis, who attended the Cabinet meeting fresh from a two months' tour of the country for study of the conditions of labor and the effect of the 3 per cent. immigration law on the labor situation. He disputes the contention that the industrial boom justifies the wholesale admission of immigrants. According to figures prepared by his department, Denmark and the United Kingdom filled little more than half the quota of immigrants permitted to those countries, and Norway and Sweden less than one-half, while Germany immigration was slightly more than one-fourth of the allowed quota of 3 per cent. Countries of Southern and Southeastern Europe spent their full quotas, but the aggregate of European immigration from all countries was less than 3 per cent.

Secretary Davis is preparing amendments to the existing immigration law which provide for a test as to physical and mental qualifications of all emigrant aliens at their point of debarkation and a blood test, the examinations to be made by Public Health and Immigration Bureau officers on duty abroad.

It was said at the White House that the Cabinet did not consider the immigration question in the light of the current effort to amend the restrictive immigration law so as to permit the entry of refugees driven from Near Eastern countries by the Turkish Nationalist forces.

TO HONOR A. S. SOMERS.

Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce to Elect Him President.

Arthur S. Somers, member of the Board of Education and President of the Sumner Savings Bank, Brooklyn, has been unanimously selected by the nominating committee of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce to become President of that body. Interborough-Manhattan Readjustment

Notice of Call for Payment of New Notes

To Holders of Certificates of Deposit for Interborough-Metropolitan Bonds and Interborough Rapid Transit Company Stock:

The Interborough-Manhattan Plan of Readjustment has been declared operative by concurrent action of the three Committees therein named.

The undersigned Committee, therefore, calls for payment on December 27, 1922 of the purchase price of the new Interborough Ten-Year Six Per Cent. Gold Notes ($160 for each $1,000 Bond or $32 for each share of stock, as the case may be), which depositors have elected to purchase under the Plan.

Depositors, upon presentation of their certificates to the depositary on or before December 27, 1922, for stamping thereon of a notation of the securities delivered and in case of those stamped with election to purchase new notes (Option 1), upon payment, on or before said date, of the purchase price of such notes, will be entitled to receive on said date or as soon thereafter as they are ready for delivery new securities as follows:

Bond depositors electing Option 1 will receive per $1,000 Bond, upon payment of $160 in cash:
- $160 new Interborough Notes,
- 5.25 shares Interborough Voting Trust Certificates,
- 3 shares Fifth Avenue Bus Corporation Voting Trust Certificates.

Bond depositors electing Option 2 will receive per $1,000 Bond:
- 2.1 shares Interborough Voting Trust Certificates,
- 2 shares Fifth Avenue Bus Corporation Voting Trust Certificates.

Stock depositors electing Option 1 will receive per share:
- $32 new Interborough Notes, and
- 1 share Interborough Voting Trust Certificate.

Bond depositors who have not heretofore elected Option 1 may do so up to December 27, 1922.

Depositors who by December 20th present their Certificates with a memorandum, in the form which can be obtained from the Depositary, of the names and denominations in which the new securities are desired, and pay for the new notes on December 27th, may receive their new securities on that date. There will inevitably be some delay in delivering new securities to depositors who do not furnish this information by December 20th.

New York, November 27, 1922.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—4¼ per cent. for the best names. Monday—4¼ per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

***

The Three-Piece Suit.

In the Spring lines of suits the three-piece one is well to the fore, in accord with earlier predictions. This kind, which has as its third part a "vest" in a color contrasting to that of the suit proper, is being offered at a lower price range than it was for last Spring. The attempt is thus being made to popularize the type, as an added stimulus to the good business in suits which is now anticipated. Several manufacturers also believe that the cape will come back during the next season, and say that this garment will be worn with the three-piece suit.

Why "Jobs" Are Missing.

With the Fall season practically over from the garment wholesalers' standpoint, the market is now being combed for "jobs." The principal endeavor is to secure lots of coats, as suits have been moving very poorly at retail, but it cannot be said that any large degree of success is being met with. Resident buyers say that cheap lots of the higher grade coats are in very limited supply, with only small quantities available here and there as manufacturers switch their attention to their Spring lines. Taking the situation generally, previous predictions of a dearth of "jobs" appear to be well substantiated.

Winter Resort Lines Have Sold.

Although retailers of the higher grades of men's footwear are just as backward about placing advance Spring business in a large way as those who handle the cheaper lines, they have bought their usual amounts of shoes designed for wear at the Winter resorts. In the golf shoes, the tendency has been almost entirely toward grain leathers and heavy veals. For boardwalks, dance pavilions and tennis courts, white and combination oxfords have everything their own way. Buckskin is seen combined with several other kinds of leather, one of the most attractive combinations being white buck and genuine pig skin. Many of these oxfords are made in blucher models and without the boxes.

Gray Goods Ease Off Here.

Quite a marked improvement in demand in the local gray goods market was reported yesterday, although most of the business was done by second hands and for spot delivery. In the printcloth business were limited sales of 39-inch 80 squares at 12¼ cents; 39-inch 68-72s at 10½ cents (possibly 10¾ cents) 39-inch 64-60s at 9½ cents, and 38½-inch 60-48s at 9¼ cents for Eastern goods and 8¾ cents for Southern. The sheetings sales were said to include 37-inch 48-square, four-yard cloths at 10¾ cents, with some concerns still asking 11c. 38-inch 56-60, four-yard goods at 11¾ cents and, in the lighter sheetings, 36-inch 5.50s at 8¾ cents. Sales of specialties and fine-yarn goods were limited, from all account, with prices more irregular than for some time.

Sales of Wing Collars.

Manufacturers report the sale of the wing collar on the increase. It is being stressed in the advertising of the leading concerns, and the demand for the current season is said to be larger than for a number of years past. It was said yesterday by the executive of one of the leading collar makers that this increased call is due to the use of this style for street wear, but rather to the increased use of evening dress on the part of many men. He said a return to more formal wear was beginning that promised to get stronger. There was no reason to believe, however, that the wing kind was superseding others used for everyday wear, as the leading seller of the line was a regular, medium height collar, with moderate points, which allowed about three-quarters of inch of the space.

Brushed Golf Coats Selling Well.

Brushed golf coats for women continue to top the demand for the more popular-priced lines of novelty knitted garments. Brushed slip-over sweaters and scarfs also selling, but in nothing like the volume of the golf coats. An interesting feature of the coat business is that the better goods are outselling, in pieces as well as dollars and cents, the lower-priced articles. The most favorable coats are made with fancy fronts and plain backs and sleeves, and the best sellers combine backs and sleeves of a camel hue, with fronts brought out in fancy patterns. Spring goods are now being "lined up," and the indications are that, even in pure silk goods, the golf coat vogue will continue strong. There will, of course, be no brushing on the Spring models.

More Use of Window Displays.

One of the very evident aspects of present retail activities is the increased amount of attention being given by large local stores to their window displays. The main attempt has been to attract interest by novel showings in keeping with the current trend of consumer purchasing, and the standards of former holiday seasons have been excelled in many respects. Display men in their instructions from store executives are that this form of indirect selling must be heavily stressed, and they have practically been given free rein to make their window displays as unique as possible. Scenic portrayals occupying whole windows are frequent in Fifth Avenue stores, while shops in the more moderate-priced centres are utilizing effective uncrowded group arrangements of related merchandise. Wholesalers also are utilizing their window space to much advantage than formerly.

Should Consider Retailers More.

Greater consideration of the merchandising problems of retailers by manufacturers when the latter are making up their new lines is among the things advocated by the recently organized United Women's Wear League of America. The purpose is to increase the sales volume of its members and so to reduce the cause for complaints by retail buyers of a lack of proper co-operation. While, it is pointed out, it is often possible for manufacturers to make their selling prices unusually low by offering garments on a close margin and while the merchandise thus offered may be a good value from the wholesale standpoint, it may very likely stick on the retailers' shelves for a long time. Because of this, manufacturers are finding it of value to all concerned to make a more detailed study of all phases of the retail business than they ever did before.

Offers Service to Purchasers.

The makers of a clock that is driven by a small dry cell battery is now offering to consumer buyers of it a novel service to keep them posted as to when the battery, which is guaranteed to run the clock at least a year, needs changing. Attached to each clock shipped from the factory is a stamped, self-addressed postcard enclosed in a manila envelope. On this card is stamped the number of the clock and the date of the battery shipped with it. The purchaser of the clock is asked to write his name and address on the card and mail it back to the maker immediately. This card is kept on file at the main office, and at the end of the first battery year the owner of the clock is sent a fresh battery free of charge. Each year thereafter the owner is notified personally when it is time to insert a new battery, and is also told how and where one can be obtained most easily.

Good Outlook for Prints.

Prints continue to occupy the centre of the stage in the discussions of Spring business in the silk trade. The view is reiterated that the business done in these fabrics will probably set new records for them for the calendar year, with practically every one in the trade "rushing" prints, it is pointed out, there are certain contingencies not so favorable that may happen. That there will be competition of a severe kind is thought likely. The larger percentage of the printed fabrics will probably be crêpe de chine, and, with the opportunity for cheapening offered, the price element is looked upon as a most important consideration. Where other weaves and individual designs are used, the competition will be much less than where so-called omnibus patterns are utilized. The former are sold on the basis of special appeal rather than on price, although competition may prevent the use of the higher priced fabrics. But, despite any objections raised in the trade, the belief is current that, even with the competition that may come, the season will be very good.

TO PUSH NEAR EAST TRADE.

Federated American Chambers of Commerce Formed.

Formation of the Federated American Chambers of Commerce of the Near East was announced yesterday at the offices of the organization, 29 Broadway, New York. The federation is composed of the American Chamber of Commerce for the Levant with headquarters at Constantinople, the American Chamber of Commerce in Greece with headquarters at Athens and the American Chamber of Commerce of Egypt with headquarters at Alexandria.

Its purpose is to encourage trade between the United States and the Near East. The organization already has offices at Constantinople, Athens and Alexandria and is prepared to furnish trade information to exporters and manufacturers and to facilitate the development of trade, which it is felt will immediately develop following the conference at Lausanne.

The officers of the organization are: President, Lucien Irving Thomas, Standard Oil Company of New York; Chairman of the Board, James M. Dixon, of the Tobacco Products Company; Vice President, J. F. Lucey, of The Lucey Manufacturing Corporation; Treasurer, Neal Dow Becker, of the Hammond Typewriter Company; Secretary, E. E. Pratt, formerly Chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce.

BUSINESS NOTES.

H. B. Hull, general sales representative for Bernstein & Meyers for the past two years and a half, has resigned his position. He is now associated with the Hilf Costume Company in the same capacity. Mr. Hull was formerly connected with the Retail Research Association.

Present and former members of the Board of Managers of the Silk Association of America have arranged a luncheon in honor of M. W. Dippel to be held on Dec. 14. Mr. Dippel, who is President of the National Ribbon Company, will retire from active business at that time. He has taken a prominent part in the work of the association and is a member of the Board of Managers, in which capacity he has served since 1912.

$9,500,000 IN LOANS.

The Metropolitan Life Finances Many Private Dwellings.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company yesterday authorized loans on bond and mortgage amounting to $9,500,000.

Of this, $4,000,000 was for housing; $3,000,000 was for business buildings and $2,500,000 was on farms.

Of the housing loans, $2,500,000 was made outside of New York City on 537 dwellings and twenty apartment houses accommodating 808 families. These loans were made in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New York, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana, Chicago and other towns in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Utah. Loans on business buildings were twenty-five in number in twelve States.

The New York City loans were on 151 dwellings and five apartment houses, accommodating 438 families, and amounted to $1,500,000. These loans for housing were mostly in the Bronx, Brooklyn, Long Island City and Astoria.

The farm loans were in nineteen States, principal among which were Iowa, Missouri, Alabama, Indiana, South Dakota and Illinois, though substantial amounts were loaned in North Carolina, Idaho, Tennessee and Nebraska. The interest rate was that prevailing in the locality.

Commercial Leases.

At an aggregate rental exceeding $100,000 the Warranty Brokerage Corporation leased the first three floors of the six-story fireproof automobile building on the northeast corner of West End Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street, owned by the Auto Service Building Company, Arthur Garfield Hays, President. The lessee is former Commander William S. Read of the United States Navy, recently retired.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., have leased in conjunction with Bastine & Co. the store and basement at 112 and 114 East Nineteenth Street to the George Willcox Company, cotton goods.

Pease & Elliman have leased one of the stores in the new apartment building now being erected by A. Sokolsky at the northeast corner of sixty-fourth Street and Madison Avenue, to Daniel Reeves, the chain grocer.

The Hurlbert Garage Hotel Company leased a store on Broadway, directly south of southeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-first Street to the Pennsylvania Trunk and Bag Company, I. Protass, President, now located at 296 Fifth Avenue, for a term of years at a total rental of approximately $35,000. After extensive alterations and renovations the store will be used as a branch establishment for the sale of leather goods, sunks and bags. Tankoos, Smith & Co. were the brokers.

Butler & Baldwin, Inc., have leased for the Merchants and Manufacturers Exchange, the corner store of the Grand Central Palace Building at Forty-sixth Street and Lexington Avenue to James P. Silo & Son, auctioneers.

The New York and Paris Peacock Shoe Company, George E. Bueller, President, has leased, through Cross & Brown Company for Walter J. Salmon the first store in Forty-second Street west of the Bristol Building, for a long term of years, at an aggregate rental of $200,000. The store is to be used for the sale of ladies' shoes.

Charles F. Noyes Company leased to Charles S. Jonas & Bro. the store, basement and subcellar at 70 Duane Street for seven years at an aggregate rental of $30,000.

To Improve Flushing Plot.

The estate of Mary E. Parsons sold the large plot on the north side of Washington Place, near Percy Street, Flushing, to Leon A. Birck. Mr. Birck will erect a Colonial dwelling on the property for his own occupancy. J. Albert Johntra was the broker.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

Trading in Apartment Houses by Operators and Investors Is a Market Feature.

Operators and investors figured prominently in yesterday's real estate trading, when several apartment house properties in Manhattan and the Bronx changed ownership.

Isaac Lowenfeld and William Prager, operators, sold to William H. Numann 507 West 170th Street, a five-story new-law apartment, on a plot 50 by 100 feet, housing twenty-five families, with a rental of $14,000. The property was held at $80,000. The broker in the deal was Joseph P. Seltz.

They resold to John J. McDonnell 521 West 175th Street, adjoining the corner of Audubon Avenue, a five-story new-law apartment, on a plot 50 by 100 feet, housing twenty families, with a rental of $14,000. The property was held at $80,000. The broker in the deal was Charles Dubois.

The same sellers sold to the Primol Realty Corporation 2,240 Amsterdam Avenue, near 172d Street, a five-story new-law apartment with two stores, on a plot 48 by 84.4 feet, housing eighteen families, with a rental of $9,500. The property was held at $55,000. The broker in the deal was Jacob Price.

Hamilton Iselin & Co. sold for Frederick Brown, operator, the property at 390 to 398 Columbus Avenue, southeast corner of Seventy-ninth Street, a four-story house and stores, on a lot 18 by 76 feet, to a client.

Arnold Investing Company, Inc., operators, M. Rosenthal President, has purchased from Reyvan Realty Company, Inc., W. O. Reynolds President, 949 and 951 First Avenue, APARTMENTS FOR SALE OR TO LET.

So-Called "Pipe Dream" A $300,000,000 Reality

A "PIPE DREAM!" That is what any number of bankers, lawyers, and real estate men called the Co-Ownership of apartments idea about twenty-five years ago, when it first presented itself to my mind. Today, with more than $300,000,000 invested in co-operative apartments, I am in a position to PROVE that both the PRINCIPLE and PRACTICE of CO-OWNERSHIP is ECONOMICALLY SOUND!

Twenty-five years ago I said to rent payers: "If it pays a landlord to build an apartment for you to live in, it will pay you to build one for yourself.

People laughed at me! I went right ahead building many of them, all of which have been financially successful.

LAWYERS SAID: "It is legally impossible!"

BANKERS SAID: "It is not financially sound!"

REAL ESTATE MEN SAID: "Multiple ownership is impracticable. The landlord system is absolutely indispensable in a great city where multiple living conditions prevail."

That was twenty-five years ago!

Today, the real estate, legal and financial interests have forgotten their condemnation in the face of three hundred millions of dollars invested in demonstrating the success of what they deemed impossible.

Today many prominent lawyers, bankers and real estate men have invested their own good money, and unhesitatingly advised their clients to invest in what they called "Russell's Pipe Dream" twenty-five years ago.

I now prophesy that rent paying shall become a saving institution just as life insurance has become, in which that part of rent which amortises equity shall enrich the man who pays it instead of the landlord.

Just as life insurance enriched the owners of life insurance company stock before the evolution of life insurance mutualized its benefits, so shall the benefits of rent paying be mutualized.

It requires vision to see that a great day is dawning, which shall revolutionize the rent paying principle.

Twenty-five years from today few men will deny that they always believed in it.

But—I want you to believe in it now, not tomorrow! And I am going to supply you with some mighty good reasons for believing in it. These reasons will be printed in these columns every now and then.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A disturbance of appreciable intensity was central over the St. Lawrence Valley Thursday night and moving northeastward, and another of considerable intensity was moving inland over the North Pacific States, while an area of high pressure of great magnitude extended from the interior of Alaska southeastward over the Canadian Northwest and the Northern States to the Ohio Valley.

There have been rains almost generally east of the Mississippi River and in the Northern Plateau region and the Northern and Middle Pacific States, and local snows in the Northern Rocky Mountain region within the last twenty-four hours. The temperature has fallen in the lake region, the Great Central Valleys and in Montana, and it has not changed materially in other parts of the country. The weather was abnormally cold throughout the Northwest Tuesday night.

The indications are for generally fair weather Wednesday and Thursday in the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the Atlantic and Eastern Gulf States, except that local rains are probable in sections of the East Gulf States Wednesday and Thursday and in Tennessee and the lower Ohio Valley Thursday. The temperature will be lower in the lower lake region and in the Atlantic and Eastern Gulf States Wednesday, and it will not change materially Thursday.

Public School Notes.

Two new schools will be opened in Brooklyn within a week, it is announced by Associate Superintendent Edward B. Shallow. These are Public School 186, at Nineteenth Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street, with forty-eight rooms for 1,900 children, and the new Public School 84, at Nostrand Avenue and Hart Street, with a capacity of 1,988. The latter will take transfer pupils from old School 84, and from Schools 45 and 25.

Augustus Thomas, Executive Chairman of the Producing Managers' Association, will address the New York Academy of Public Education tomorrow night at its meeting in the Tower Room at City College.

The Associate and District Superintendents, at their dinner in the Aldine Club last evening, were addressed by Dr. Max G. Schlapp, of the Post Graduate Hospital, on the "Mental Maladjustment of Children."

A new continuation school, the eighth so far established, will be opened by Feb. 1, 1923, in Public School 168, Williamsburg, it is announced. It will accommodate 1,000 boys and girls.

Pacific Mails

Postmaster Morgan announces that mails of the following dates—Kobe, Nov. 16, and Yokohama, Nov. 17—which arrived per steamer Manila, were dispatched east from Seattle on Dec. 1, and mails dated Kobe, Nov. 17, and Yokohama, Nov. 18, which arrived per steamer Pennsylvania, were dispatched east from Seattle on Dec. 3. These mails are due in New York today.

Post Office Notice.

Postmaster Morgan announces that effective from Oct. 30, 1922, to June 30, 1923, the rate of postage applicable to letters mailed in Cuba and addressed for delivery in the United States is 2 cents per ounce or fraction of an ounce.

It has been observed that a number of letters addressed for delivery in Cuba have postage paid thereon at the rate of 1 cents per ounce, evidently due to a misunderstanding that the increased rate of postage also applies to letters for Cuba.

All concerned are hereby advised that the rate of postage on letters mailed in the United States and addressed for delivery in Cuba is 2 cents per ounce or fraction of an ounce, as heretofore.

"Effective immediately, parcel post packages may be accepted for Poland up to a weight limit of twenty-two pounds (ten kilograms)."

LABOR UNION BEATEN IN HAVERHILL VOTE

Citizens' Committee Ticket, Backed by Shoe Manufacturers, Wins Over Workers.

McFEE IS ELECTED MAYOR

Springfield and Pittsfield Choose Republican Mayors—Other Massachusetts Results.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 5.—A complete victory for the ticket supported by the Citizens' Committee, which had the backing of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association, over the ticket supported by the Shoe Workers' Protective Union was scored in the municipal election today, the most hotly contested ever held here.

Dr. William McFee was elected Mayor over Parkman B. Flanders, Mayor for the last two years and an avowed Socialist. George L. Martin and Samuel J. Levis were elected to the Board of Aldermen over Michael J. Kelleher and Fred W. Pierce.

Aged and infirm voters were conveyed to the polls in automobiles and invalids were taken from their beds to swell the totals. Dr. McFee led his opponent by 2,341 votes. The Shoe Workers' Protective Union claims a resident membership of 15,000.

For the first time in the city's history union labor took an active and open part in the election. Since last Fall, when the Shoe Workers' Protective Union announced that its members would support Mayor Flanders for re-election, and would endorse two candidates for the Board of Aldermen, the campaigns had been sharply contested. The Shoe Manufacturers' Association united in support of the Citizens' Committee on the announced ground that the election of a Socialist Mayor would hurt the city's business reputation.

The entrance of the union into the campaign grew out of a labor controversy between the Shoe Workers' Protective Union and the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union for the control of the workers. Leaders of the protective union declared that they were not getting a fair deal at the City Hall.

Today the breach between the protective union and the manufacturers was widened when counsel for the union announced that all negotiations for a new wage and working agreement had been broke off with the Shoe Manufacturers' Association. They said that this action was taken as a result of disclosures at Boston yesterday that the association was paying the expenses of counsel who were assisting Knipe Brothers, shoe manufacturers here, in an injunction suit against the union.

Fishermen Win Gloucester Fight.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Dec. 5.—Mayor Percy W. Wheeler was defeated today by William J. MacInnis by 372 votes in a contest for re-election.

It was largely a fishermen's campaign, and the stormiest in forty years. The vote was the largest ever cast in a Gloucester municipal election. MacInnis is Chairman of the American Race Committee, which sued the Mayor for slander. Fish dealers of Gloucester worked against the Mayor because of charges attributed to him that the merchants were selling rotten fish.

Results in Other Cities.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—Mayor Edwin F. Leonard, Republican, defeated his Democratic opponent, George H. Wrenn, in the election at Springfield today. Leonard received 9,172 and Wrenn 5,855 votes.

Charles W. Power, Republican, was elected Mayor of Pittsfield by a plurality of 315 over ex-Mayor Patrick J. Moore, Democrat. The Democrats retained control of the City Council, 10 to 4, and also of the School Board.

Chester P. Pearson, a department store merchant, was elected Mayor of Gardner in the first election since Gardner voted to incorporate as a municipality. He received 2,400 votes and his opponent, Nelson Beaudette, received 1,938.

Brockton had a Democratic landslide. Frank A. Manning, Democrat, defeated State Senator Edward N. Dahlborg, Republican, for Mayor, by 2,335 votes.

For the first time in ten years a Democrat was elected Mayor of Fall River. Edmond P. Talbot defeating Thomas J. Ashton, Republican, by 1,802 plurality.

FORD FOR BUSINESS MAYOR.

He Names Qualifications Detroit's Chief Should Have.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—Detroit's new Mayor should be possessed of three cardinal qualifications, in the opinion of Henry Ford. These qualifications are:

The man should be capable of managing the street railway and making municipal ownership a success.

He should understand engineering and transportation problems.

He should be free from the influence of professional politicians.

Mr. Ford pointed out that acquisition of the street railway system had greatly changed the character of the Mayor's duties and indicated that the resources of the Ford Motor Company would be placed at the disposal of the city in its efforts to make public ownership a success.

"Detroit ought not to elect a professional politician as Mayor," Mr. Ford said. "Get rid of the politicians. The Mayoralty of Detroit is largely an engineering job. But this need not necessarily mean it is a difficult job. It's easy for the man who knows how."

MELLON ASKS CUT IN SURTAX RATES TO HALT EVASION

Secretary, in His Annual Report, Says 50 Per Cent. Maximum Should Be Reduced a Half.

"TIME TO FACE THE FACTS"

Rates "Sound Productive," but Are Not—Urges Correction of Artificial Conditions.

SCORES TAX-EXEMPT ISSUES

Says This "Avenue of Escape" Costs Government Its Revenue and Business Its Capital.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Frankly recognizing that the high surtax rates which "sound productive" are becoming increasingly ineffective and are yielding less and less revenue each year, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, in his annual report submitted to Congress today, recommends a reduction of the maximum income surtax rate from the present 50 per cent. to not more than 25 per cent.

Secretary Mellon states that until some such readjustment as he suggests is made the yield of the higher surtaxes will tend, in the ordinary course of events, "to drop toward the vanishing point."

"The wise course is to reform the surtaxes now while the system still functions and at the same time to close, so far as possible, the gaps which now exist," he adds. "On this basis the revision can be made without loss of revenue and, in the long run, with material benefit to the revenues."

No general revision of the revenue laws is proposed nor additional taxes suggested by Secretary Mellon, who expresses the hope that any indicated Government deficit may be met through collection of back taxes and income from other sources.

The Secretary points out that the higher surtax rates, which run to 58 per cent. when the normal tax is included, place the heavy taxpayers under such a great temptation to reduce their taxable income that these taxpayers inevitably seek every permissible method of avoiding income subject to surtax, resulting in "an artificial situation which is not wholesome from the point of view of business or industrial development."

Must Correct Conditions.

"At the same time, it is impairing the revenues of the Government, for under existing conditions the higher surtax rates are undoubtedly operating to reduce rather than increase the revenues," he declares. "This presents a problem which calls for solution, and I believe it can be solved only by relieving on the one hand the pressure for reducing taxable income, and on the other hand by closing, so far as possible, the existing avenues of escape. To attempt to close the gaps alone will not be enough, for the existing rates of surtax cause such heavy pressure for avoidance that new gaps would surely be found. The high rates sound productive, but the fact remains that they are becoming increasingly ineffective and are yielding less and less revenue every year. The time has come to face the facts squarely and to correct the artificial conditions which now prevail."

To prove that the high surtaxes are gradually "defeating their own purpose," Mr. Mellon points to the anomalous situation that while net incomes increased greatly from 1916 to 1920, the amount of incomes over $300,000 dropped alarmingly. During the four-year period indicated the net income of all classes increased from $4,298,577,620 to $23,735,-229,183, the number of returns from 437,036 in 1916 to 7,259,944 in 1920; the number of returns of incomes over $300,-000 decreased during the same period from 1,296 in 1916 to 306 in 1920, and the amount of incomes over $300,000 from $992,972,986 to $246,854,585 in 1920.

In this way, he says, the high rates caused the steady disappearance of the taxable incomes to which they were intended to apply. He mentions the following as the means most frequently used to reduce the amounts of income subject to taxation:

1. Deductions of losses on sales of capital assets, with the failure to realize on capital gains.

2. Exchanges of property and securities so as to avoid taxable gains.

3. Tax-exempt securities.

4. Other avenues of escape, such as the division of property, the creation of trusts and the like.

How to Reach the Evil.

"Not all of these things can be controlled by law or by regulation. And most of them lead to unnatural and frequently harmful economic results," he continues. "To reach the evil the thing most necessary is the reduction of the surtax rates themselves in order to reduce the pressure for avoidance and maintain the revenues derived from the surtax."

Discussing the other methods of keeping down taxable income, the Secretary states that under the Revenue act of 1921 capital losses might entirely cancel real income, while capital gains are not realized at all, or if realized, are taxed at only 12½ per cent. Under the present system, he says, the Treasury is being "whipsawed," and he urges that the existing provision as to capital gains be made to apply correctly to capital losses and that the amount by which the tax may be reduced on account of losses from the sale of capital assets should not exceed 12½ per cent. of the amount of the loss.

"There would be a large extent check on many of the methods widely used by taxpayers at the present time for decreasing

The George Washington Struck By a Freighter Off Dover

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The British steamship Clyne Rock was in collision with the American steamer George Washington about 10 o'clock tonight off Dover, according to a wireless message from the Clyne Rock to Lloyds.

The stem of the Clyne Rock was badly cracked and the vessel was leaking, but she did not want immediate assistance.

No report has been received as to what happened to the George Washington, which was bound from Plymouth for Bremen.

PLUMBERS ACCUSE UNIONS OF COERCION

Fifty Millions in Contracts Will Be Lost Next Year if Remedy Is Not Found.

COSTS COULD BE CUT 40%

Inflated Wages Paid, Employers Assert, Because of Artificial Labor Shortage.

Artificial restraint of plumbing labor by the journeymen plumbers' unions in Manhattan and the Bronx threatens to result in the loss of $50,000,000 worth of plumbing contracts for 1923, members of the Association of Master Plumbers declared yesterday, in addressing an open meeting in Terrace Garden, 145 East Fifty-eighth Street. Several hundred employers in the industry attended the meeting, which was called for the purpose of bringing the abuses of the unions to the attention of the public.

The master plumbers called upon Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the Lockwood Committee, to make good his promise made more than a year ago to break up the alleged unlawful practices of the unions. They declared that if legal action was taken against the unions the cost of plumbing in this city would be reduced 30 to 40 per cent. At present, it was stated, through the artificial labor shortage master plumbers are forced to pay $10 and $15 a day to their men and guarantee overtime, although the union scale is $8 a day.

Several representatives of the union attended the meeting, but declined to comment as the charges of coercion and illegal labor restrictions. Mr. Untermyer has been invited to attend, but he did not appear, and the master plumbers said that he had sent no excuse. They explained that they wanted him to learn that the unions have not rescinded their admitted trade restrictions, as promised by the Lockwood Committee.

Charges Against Unions.

Refusing to permit each plumber to have a helper; refusing pipe cutting by machine and refusing to allow the cutting where it could be done quicker and cheaper in the shop or at the factory instead of on the job; forcing plumbing fixtures that are sent to jobs to be dismantled and reassembled by union men; refusing to recognize the cards of union men coming from other sections, although belonging to the same union; barring apprentices and refusing to allow helpers to handle tools, which prevents them from learning the trade.

Milton Schmaler, a master plumber, said that it would be 50 per cent. cheaper to cut pipe by machinery than by hand. The cutting by machinery relieves from 15 to 20 per cent. more labor, which can be used to better advantage elsewhere during the present labor shortage, he said.

"Conditions are serious," said Charles Murphy of Wells & Newton Company, Inc. "Many contractors are afraid to figure on contracts, as they do not know when they can finish a job on account of the labor situation."

He said that the restrictions on apprentices made it impossible to develop new journeymen and made it necessary to put two journeymen plumbers on a job, which one man with a helper could do. If each journeyman plumber were allowed a helper, he said, it would reduce the cost of construction from 5 to 10 per cent. and would increase the amount of labor available about 25 per cent.

Restrictions Check Building.

William Thompson, President of the association, said that if it were not for the artificial shortage of labor, railroad embargoes, coal shortage, strikes in other industries, &c., there would have been a great deal more building. "It is expected that the coming year will witness a greater building activity, he said," but if obstructive conditions are going to prevail, many investors will re-

COAL CRISIS ACUTE; MILLER AND WOODIN CALL A CONFERENCE

State Fuel Administrators to Devise Means to Cope With Emergency.

COLD DISCLOSES SITUATION

Officials Ask Householders to Make Use of Steam Sizes and Soft Coal.

CITY OFFERS FREE WOOD

Street Cleaning Commissioner Announces List of Distribution Points.

Drastic measures to meet an emergency coal situation, emphasized by the onset of bitter weather, are to be devised and put into effect throughout the State at a conference in Albany today. The meeting at the Capitol has been called by William H. Woodin, State Fuel Administrator, after consulting with Governor Miller, who will attend and play a leading part in plans to deal more effectively with a state of things rapidly becoming grave. District administrators of the entire State have been directed to mobilize at the Albany meeting. They will play a twofold part, presenting in detail the exact situation in the regions they control, and departing to make the conference decisions effective in every city and village and every rural community in New York.

One of the most radical steps that may result from the gathering, it was learned last night, is an order making it compulsory upon every householder to buy with each load of domestic anthracite coal, a certain percentage of buckwheat coal. Urgent appeals already have been made to the public to enter the market for coal in varied sizes and kinds, some particularly well adapted to the grate or the furnace in the home, but it was intimated that the response had not been sufficiently general to justify those responsible in leaving the question to the acquiescence, or convenience, of the individual buyer.

More Soft Coal To Be Used.

Much attention will be given, when Governor Miller, Mr. Woodin and Mr. Woodin's aides gather around the conference table, to the extent to which the kind of coal burned shall be regulated by rigid order. The degree to which soft coal may be substituted for anthracite will be dealt with exhaustively, and if it seems practicable, an effort may be made to force apartment houses and office buildings to substitute the more plentiful bituminous fuel. Whatever further means may seem advisable to deal with an emergency complicated by the fact that the whole country's available supply of anthracite unquestionably is very short, will be given the status of regulations, backed up by the law under which the Administration operates. The conference, in other words, will start with the fact before it that by no conceivable means can the available hard coal supply be stretched to meet normal general requirements; hence both substitution and curtailment are in order.

Free Wood for Coalless.

Distribution of free wood to those unable to obtain coal was ordered by Commissioner of Street Cleaning Alfred A. Taylor yesterday in an effort to alleviate the suffering brought on by the sudden cold wave, and State Fuel Administrator William H. Woodin called upon householders to begin using coal substitutes. He said that there was 156,000 tons of substitute fuel, steam and soft coal, lying around New Jersey and New York terminals.

In order that the east side districts may be taken care of, Herman Morris, Director of the Downtown Chamber of Commerce, was appointed yesterday as Assistant Administrator for the east side, on recommendation of Harry H. Schlacht, President of the East Side Board of Trade. Mr. Morris, who will have an office at 150 Delancy Street, will take measures to prevent coal profiteering among the dealers selling fuel in the poor districts.

The sharp drop in temperature yesterday brought a flood of complaints of lack of coal to the fuel administration offices. George J. Eltz, Manhattan Administrator, said that his office alone had received 128 complaints, eighteen of them from the Department of Health. State Fuel Administrator Woodin said that his office was doing everything possible to get coal to the outlying dis-

Clubman's Will Rewards 203 Who Were Kind; Judges, Actresses and Bootblacks on His List

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—With the payment in Oakland of $388,000, divided in small bequests to 203 men and women, which began today in the County Superior Judge E. S. Robinson, the last chapter was closed of the life of Joseph Biasgno, a San Francisco clubman, who chose his friends for their friendliness rather than their station in life.

The will of Biasgno is regarded as one of the curiosities of the legal world; the Bohemia of San Francisco regards it as a monument of honor to him and, to themselves, whom he remembered in his will as "friends who have been kind to me."

All day yesterday and today the benefiaries called at the court of Judge Robinson for their share of Biasgno's bequests, few of which totaled above $5,000. The beneficiaries included society women, actresses, waitresses, mistress, bootblacks, headwaiters, waiters, bathboys, judges, attorneys, physicians, business men, city officials, cafe owners, saloonkeepers and on down to a woman who had been a friend of his brother and whom he had never seen.

To Marjorie Rambeau, Broadway star and movie actress, was left $1,000. Camille Mathebush, proprietor of the Berges and Frank's Restaurant, where Biasgno dined for many years, received $5,000. Harry Morgan, a fat boy at the Union League Club, was remembered with $700. Superior Judge James C. Quinn of Oakland receives $5,000. Bequests of $1,000 each were left to County Clerk George Cross; Hattie White, matron of the Alameda County Jail; Dr. S. H. Buteau, Commissioner William H. Bacons and William Fitzmaurice, all of Oakland.

Others among the legatees were Dr. John Gallwey of San Francisco and Mrs. Lulu H. Webster and Miss Clara Franck, prominent East Bay society women.

Biasgno died in San Francisco on Nov. 4, 1919. He was a native of this city and a son of Luigi Biasgno, well known in the early history of San Francisco as a merchant.

LOST—FAMILY OF 10; LEAVE SAD FATHER

All Pictures and Most of Furniture Also Gone in Sudden Exit From Brooklyn Home.

SENDS OUT PLEA IN AN AD.

"Come Back," He Says, "and I Will Buy the New House in Bay Ridge You Wanted."

"My wife and children. I am broken-hearted. Communicate with me at once. We can arrange matters. I am distressed and need you. Your father, B. Carlson."

With this advertisement, which he inserted in THE NEW YORK TIMES last night, Mr. Carlson started out to find his wife, five grown, unmarried children, a married son with his wife and two children, all of whom disappeared early last Saturday morning from the Carlson home in Flatbush, Brooklyn.

According to Mr. Carlson, all were at home when he returned from work last Friday night. They pleased with him because another home in Bay Ridge, for which he was saving that price, were too high this Fall. He is positive that this was the only difference between them on Friday night. The next morning, before Mr. Carlson awoke all ten had vanished.

And not only had they vanished, but with them went a large part of the furniture and all the family pictures, even to the picture of Mrs. Carlson, taken for the passport for Sweden last Spring. Mary is Mr. Carlson's story is:

"I all happened so suddenly that I hardly know just what to say. I have been employed in a big department store, in charge of all repairs, for more than twenty years. I have saved a little money, about $6,500, and it's all put away in different banks. I guess that's where the trouble started.

"I have been happy in my home, please don't say where it is or was, for I don't want people bothering around there. There were eleven of us who lived in the house. My wife and I, our six children, all grown; my son's wife and their two children. Lately all the family have been after me to buy a new home. They say they do not like it where we live and want a house on Bay Ridge.

"Last Friday, when I came home from work my wife began arguing with me about the new house.

"'No,' I told her. 'Prices are too high this Fall. Wait until the Spring comes and when there are lower prices I will buy you a new house and we will go and live there.'

"This argument went on until quite late, but I wouldn't give in. The last thing before I went to bed, I said, 'No, no new house till next Spring.'

"I have been troubled with insomnia lately so that it is hard for me to sleep at night. Therefore on Friday night I didn't sleep much, hardly at all, in fact. But toward morning I dropped off to sleep and slept until nearly noon.

"Everything was very still when I woke up, so still that I didn't know what to make of it. I called my wife, but she didn't answer. I called my daughter and my grandchildren. Then I jumped out of bed. They were all gone.

"They had not disturbed my room, but the furniture was gone from the other rooms, even the pictures on the walls; all the pictures of the family that we had. They had torn my wife's picture off the passport that she had made to go with me to Sweden last Spring. That was gone, too.

"Mr. Carlson said that he waited two days, expecting surely that some member of his family would write him or at least let him know where they had gone. Hearing nothing on Monday, he called up places where his children had been employed. He was told, he said, that they had all left their positions the week before, and none of the employers knew where they had gone. Then he went to the home of his brother, S. Carlson, who lives in another part of Brooklyn.

"They help me find my family," he said. "I would give anything to get them back. Tell them for me I will buy the new house. I will do anything if only I can get them back."

Mr. Carlson said that he had not yet made an appeal to the police.

CATHOLICS TO GUARD CHURCHES IN CANADA

MONTREAL, Dec. 6.—Officials of various Catholic orders today announced elaborate plans for guarding church property against incendiaries believed responsible for fires which have destroyed or damaged several Catholic institutions in Canada within the last few weeks.

The Rev. Father Louis Lalonde, of the Church of the Gesu in this city announced their armed guards and trained watchdogs would be used to protect his church and that sacred vessels and historic records would be placed in cement vaults with iron-barred windows.

The Sulpician Fathers, guarding the historic Fabrique Notre Dame here, added that they would take similar precautions.

Church officials made it plain that they believed the outbreak of fires fanatical in character, to be of a distinctly suspicious nature. Some expressed flatly the belief that an organized band of firebugs had started a malicious campaign against churches, convents and Catholic educational institutions.

Father Lalonde, in announcing the precautions which the various orders in Montreal intended to take, declared they were absolutely necessary to preserve priceless archives. At Notre Dame alone are stored scores of scripts dating back to 1663.

SIX ARMY MEN DIE IN MID-AIR COLLISION

Fokker Slices the Tail Off a Martin Bomber and Both Plunge to Earth in Flames.

TWO PERISH IN VAIN LEAPS

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 6.—Two army officers and four enlisted men perished in an explosion and gasoline fire that followed a mid-air collision between a Fokker airplane and a Martin bomber, this morning near Langley Field, north of Hampton Roads. The charred bodies of five victims were taken from the battered steel skeletons of the two machines, while the sixth jumped from one plane as the crash came, dying in instant death.

The dead are:

KLINKA, Private E. de, 1415 Fry Street, Chicago.

DOYLE, Captain BENTON A., pilot of the Martin, of St. Louis.

JOHNAN, Private THOMAS, Deepsten, Ga.

ROLAS, Private LEON, 631 North Fourth Street, Philadelphia.

Eye witnesses declare that at the instant of the accident the two planes were manoeuvring at a low altitude, probably not more than 200 feet above the ground. The Martin bomber was making what is called a deep bank on a turn, and the Fokker, apparently failing to see the other plane because it was just then rising for altitude, attempted to cut in behind the heavier machine. The tail of the Martin was literally sliced off the fuselage, while the Fokker was so badly crushed by the smash that it was put out of commission.

Both craft catapulted earthward at frightful speed. They were enveloped in flames before they hit the ground. The roar of the impact as they landed was followed by the blast of two great explosions. The gasoline tanks let go in the furnace heat that enveloped them and everything combustible about the planes was reduced to ashes in less than two minutes.

Hundreds of rescuers rushed into the corn field where the planes fell within a few yards of each other, only to be driven back by the intense heat. It was several minutes before those trapped in the tangled framework of the craft could be reached. They were dead then. The scene recalled that which attended the collapse of the Roma less than a year ago.

Private Rolas, one of those who jumped from the Fokker, lived for probably five minutes after being picked up. Another private who jumped was buried under the machine and burned to death.

Those who saw the tragedy are practically unanimous in declaring that it happened because neither pilot saw the other until it was too late. It is said that Major Gearhart, as quickly as he discovered that he was rising into the path of the Martin, the leader of the bombing squadron, made every effort to avoid the crash by trying to fly at an angle between the leader and the next nearest plane. But he just failed to clear the tail of the bomber.

Hit from the rear after they seemingly had passed the Fokker, it is probable that the crew of the bomber never knew just what had happened to them before they met death instantly. There were no water facilities with which to fight the fire.

Colonel Danforth, commander of Langley Field, immediately surveyed the scene. Major Barksdale, chief of Inquiry, to investigate the accident and, if possible, to fix any blame. The board, of course, will seek to determine the cause, but not a soul on either machine lived to tell the story.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 6.—An army De Havilland 4 airplane, which left Langley Field, Va., this morning, for the purpose of mapping out an air mail route between Washington, D. C., and Dayton and Cleveland, Ohio, was wrecked late today at Barton, near here.

Lieut. Jr. Meadows, an observer, sustained minor lacerations about the face. Sergeant Loupious, pilot of the machine, was uninjured.

According to Loupious the machine developed engine trouble and in attempting to make a landing the plane was smashed.

Hungary to Protest.

BUDAPEST, Dec. 6.—Baron Koranyi, former Minister of Finance, left for London today to discuss the question of reparations.

From London he will go to Paris and resume his efforts to make the Allies understand that the complete economic collapse of Hungary is inevitable if the allied demands for reparations are enforced.

He also will inform the Allies that the Serbian Government will judge if the allied demands are pressed.

15-MINUTE CHAT IN LIBRARY

"MENTALLY ALERT AS EVER"

Wilson Spoke "Clearly and With Precision of Thought"—Tiger Gets War College Ovation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Woodrow Wilson received Georges Clemenceau this afternoon.

The meeting was a fifteen-minute reunion between the two men who were virtual dictators in wartime but who have suffered disappointment since they parted over three years ago. One is making slow recovery from broken health, in virtual seclusion since the rejection by his own country of his ideal for world peace. The other, 81 years old, with an assassin's bullet in his back, was called the "Father of Victory" by the people of his country, who then denied him the one honor he coveted—the Presidency of the French Republic.

The last time these two men saw each other was on the night of June 28, 1919, on the platform of Gare des Invalides in Paris. The Treaty of Versailles had been signed six hours before. Woodrow Wilson was leaving for Brest to sail for home on the George Washington, taking with him the treaty that had just been signed, together with another treaty that would bind the United States with Great Britain to protect France against invasion.

Only six hours before, in the Hall of Mirrors of the Versailles Palace, Georges Clemenceau, Premier of France and President of the Paris Peace Conference, called the plenipotentiaries of twenty-nine nations to order and announced: "The signatures will be given now and they amount to a solemn undertaking to execute the conditions embodied by the Treaty of Peace. I now invite the delegates of the German Reich to sign the treaty."

Three years and five months later M. Clemenceau arrived in this country to plead that Germany was not executing the conditions of peace, and that America in leaving Europe had left France unprotected.

An "Affectionate" Meeting.

Only two men know what went on in the library on the second floor of No. 2,340 S Street this afternoon. Shortly before 5 o'clock a motor car drew up in front of the house. Some photographers got out and set up their cameras in the driveway. More automobiles arrived carrying newspaper men and more photographers. Passers-by stopped and there was a group of some two hundred people in front of the Wilson home. Precisely at 5:30 a squad of motorcycle police, escorting a motor car, turned into S Street. The knot of people parted and a limousine with M. Clemenceau and Colonel Stephen Bonsal drew up at the front door. There was a short cheer, photographers' flares flashed, and the door closed.

John Randolph Bolling, Mr. Wilson's brother-in-law and secretary, conducted M. Clemenceau to the second floor. Here Mrs. Wilson received him, took him to the library and left. The two framers of the Treaty of Versailles were alone. Mr. Wilson was seated in a chair from which he did not rise during the entire interview.

M. Clemenceau later described the meeting as "affectionate, of more than the utmost cordiality, as between old friends."

Old times in Paris were recalled. Mr. Wilson made no reference either to M. Clemenceau's speeches or to his mission to this country. The subject was brought up by the Tiger, who informed Mr. Wilson that the mention of the ex-President's name in his addresses had caused more applause than any point he made. This appeared to please Mr. Wilson.

Finally, M. Clemenceau, fearing that his visit might fatigue his host, arose to leave, and he said that if he could be of any service to Mrs. or Mr. Wilson he was at their disposal.

M. Clemenceau said tonight that he had found Mr. Wilson somewhat stouter, but as "mentally alert as ever." He noticed no difference in the former President's ease of mind that he spoke "clearly and with precision of thought."

From the Wilson home M. Clemenceau returned to the home of his host, Henry

Expect King and Prince To Visit Ireland Soon

Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—It is rumored that it is likely the King and the Prince of Wales may pay a visit to Ireland some time next year if order has been sufficiently restored.

It is said the subject was mentioned when Governor General Healy was in London last week and may be officially discussed when he next visits London.

I hear from Ireland that many members of the present Irish Government would very much like such a visit, as it would prove that only an infinitesimal proportion of the Irish people are Republican.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 6.—A suggestion that the King may go to Dublin to officiate at the formal opening of the new Irish Parliament is made by The Courier, which recalls the hope expressed in the King's speech at the opening of the Northern Parliament at Belfast in June, 1921, that a similar ceremony might be performed before long in Southern Ireland.

INTERNAL GOLD LOAN PLANNED BY GERMANY

Cuno Will Propose It to Allies for Stabilization and Reparation Payments.

ALSO TO GIVE GUARANTEES

Envoy to Rush Scheme to Reparation Board Before Premiers Meet in London.

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—An internal gold loan, the money to be used for stabilization and cash reparations payments, is to be proposed to the Reparation Commission by the German Government, according to a report in circulation in Berlin tonight.

The Government intends to notify the Reparation Commission of the project in time to enable the commission to submit the proposal to the coming conference, which is to be held in London by the allied leaders.

The note to the Reparation Commission will supplement the proposals made in the communication to the commission on Nov. 13, according to information in the possession of Reichstag leaders, and will pledge Germany to specific guarantees in connection with her reparations obligations and internal reforms.

It is reliably stated that Chancellor Cuno will indicate an internal gold loan as the pivotal feature of his reparations program, designating that half of the amount shall be devoted to stabilization and half to reparations. It is asserted that the Chancellor has been assured the co-operation of industrial, financial, commercial, shipping and agricultural interests.

The loan, it is learned, will be guaranteed by the Reparation Commission under the same provisions named in the Government's previous note, with the presupposition that an adjustment of ultimate reparations payments will now be definitely fixed.

Nothing has been announced regarding the sum to be raised or the manner of levying the loan, but Reichstag leaders believe that the Government, in the communication which it is said will be dispatched to Paris before the end of the week, will indicate an amount between 20,000,000,000 and 30,000,000,000 gold marks, in addition to the payments already rendered, as representing Germany's total capacity to pay as reparations.

Chancellor Cuno is determined to have the proposal in the possession of the Reparation Commission in time to enable the commission to submit the proposal to the London conference.

Dr. Bergmann, the Government's special adviser on reparations, arrived in Berlin today from Paris and conferred with the Chancellor. It is expected that he will have the commission to go on Friday to London for the conference there.

The Government's action has been timed partly to forestall any precipitate action on the part of the Entente in connection with the assessment of a million marks fine on the towns of Passeh and Ingolstadt in Bavaria, imposed because of the attacks on members of the Interallied Control Commission.

While it is believed the Government's primary purpose in floating the loan is to assure France such reparations payments for January, it aims incidentally to facilitate the informal attempts now being made with a view to galvanizing Franco-German industrial relations in connection with their bearing on reparations.

AMERICA DECLARES FOR OPEN STRAITS; ALLIED PLAN PUT IN

Ambassador Child Demands Full Access to the Black Sea in Peace and in War.

NO FORTS, THE ALLIES SAY

Their Program Calls for Demilitarization and Entry of Warships at All Times.

FOR INTERNATIONAL REGIME

Control to Be Exercised by a Board Including American, Turkish and Russian Members.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LAUSANNE, Dec. 6.—Speaking in the name of the allied powers, Lord Curzon laid before the Turks and Russians today the decision that not only must the Turkish Straits be free to merchantmen of all nations, but to warships under all flags as well, and that the shores of the Dardanelles and the Bosporus must be demilitarized, under international control. The Allies, however, accept the limitation that no one power shall at any time send into the Black Sea naval forces in excess of those of the Black Sea power with the strongest navy.

Ambassador Child, speaking for the American Government, read a statement stating in general terms the desire of this Washington Government that ships of commerce and war enjoy the freedom of the Straits. The effect of Mr. Child's statement is to give important support to the allied position as opposed to the Russian contention that the Straits should be closed to all warships except those of Turkey.

The Turks will state their attitude to the allied plan on Friday. It is understood that they will accept the demilitarization scheme, but will try to make such restriction on the number of foreign warships as to amount almost to closing the Straits against them in case there were trouble. It is felt that they are not much afraid of attacking Russia on the one hand and England on the other, one sight of the British lion and the Russian bear showing their teeth over the straits is far from reassuring to the Turks, who would gladly embrace any decision which would please both Russia and England, if such a thing were possible.

Turks Open to Argument.

The Turks tonight seem to have developed a more favorable attitude toward the allied plan. Whereas during the afternoon they called it impossible, Ismet Pasha says tonight that it "may serve as the basis of a satisfactory discussion."

It is understood that the allied experts were authorized to tell the Turkish experts this afternoon that the Allies intended to stand pat on the important features of their scheme, being open to suggestions only for the modification of details.

It is not the intention of the American delegates to proffer any compromise plan, although it seems that every one would like to have them do so. On account of the generality of Mr. Child's statement, many constructions are being put on it. While on the face of things the American declaration of the right of American warships to go wherever American merchant ships go, supports the allied case, yet his statement about depending on agreement rather than force to take care of the Russians and Turks as an argument against any allied military precautions. Again, Mr. Child's failure to say anything about limiting the tonnage or number of warships which shall stand in the Straits causes the Russians and Turks to say that America goes even further than the Allies in her demand for "freedom."

That part of the American statement demanding freedom for the commerce of all nations on an equal footing causes no quarrel. Every one is in accord on that point. Mr. Child's claim for freedom of passage for neutral ships in time of war is accepted by the Allies, although the Turks argue that it would deprive them of the right to lay mine fields against the ships of an enemy country.

Mr. Child directly attacked the Russo-Turkish claim of absolute Turkish sovereignty over the Straits when he said that no one nation by virtue of its geographical position should have the right to close an international highway, adding: "Unlimited control of the Straits and the Black Sea by any one nation is against the policy of the world."

"It is our view," he said, "that the Question of the Black Sea is to be solved only by disarmament. More than this, it is our belief that even armaments designed to keep the Straits open are in fact a danger to the freedom of the Black Sea."

On the point of warning Mr. Child took direct issue with the Russian demand that the Straits be closed to warships, saying that it would be unreasonable to exclude warships from every international body of water.

Recalling the steps toward naval armaments taken by the United States, Mr. Child said that they did not mean that America gave up the right to live the seas and protect her commerce. He cited the humanitarian role played by American warships in the recent Near East crisis to show that men-of-war were not always instruments of destruction. He concluded by saying:

"We still believe in common with every commercial nation which seeks to export a free port of water in the world, and we will not be satisfied if our ships of commerce may not pursue their peaceful errands over the Chinese and our sister ports of the world."

Summarizing the attitude expressed by Lord Curzon, Ismet Pasha and Ambassador Child, the Turkish delegate declared that the Turkish Government would not accept the proposal to demilitarize the Straits, but would accept the proposal to internationalize the Straits, with the exception that Turkey should have the right to close the Straits in time of war.

Mrs. Phillips Eludes Los Angeles Sheriff; Thought to Have Sought Refuge in Mexico

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6.—The search for Mrs. Clara Phillips, slayer of Alberta Meadows, who escaped early yesterday from the Los Angeles County Jail, was in active progress today throughout Southern California and Lower California, but up to a late hour was without result.

Despite rumors of "ups and downs," Sheriff's Deputies held to their original belief that the hammer murderess had fled across the border into Mexico, and plans were made to extend the search as far south as Ensenada, on the west coast of Lower California peninsula, about ninety miles south of San Diego. San Francisco authorities were asked to join in the hunt.

Since her escape the Sheriff's office and the police have received many reports that Mrs. Phillips had been seen at various places. One, which at first was regarded with hope by Sheriff Traeger, came in a telephone call from Long Beach.

A man who withheld his name gave what he said was the street number of a house where Mrs. Phillips was hiding. A posse, headed by the Sheriff, rushed to Long Beach, only to find there was no such address. Efforts to trace the call there failed.

Relatives of Mrs. Phillips expressed surprise when informed of her escape, which, it was reported, was planned during a telephone conversation Mrs. Phillips had with her husband. Permission to use a direct line from the jail without interference from the authorities.

Ed T. Johnson, sportsman, was examined late today at the Sheriff's office regarding the escape. He denied all knowledge of it. He was a prisoner in the jail last Summer, became acquainted with Mrs. Phillips and aided her in getting counsel, but had not been in communication with her recently.

Armour L. Phillips, husband of the fugitive, who was detained at the Sheriff's office all day, was told late in the afternoon he need remain no longer, but was asked to keep in touch with the deputies. He said he hoped his wife would not be recaptured.

Trillion Paper Marks in Germany by Year End; Presses Printed 110,300,000,000 Last Week

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—A trillion paper marks by Dec. 31 is the prospect held out by the German money presses, whose latest six-day run has resulted in an addition of 110,300,000,000 marks to the nation's already swollen paper flood, this during the last week in November.

These figures are shown by the latest report of the Reichsbank, which gives the total notes in circulation up to the end of November as 784,000,000,000 marks.

The Reichsbank's weekly returns have continued to show an almost psychotechnic progression in the increase in Germany's currency inflation since Christmas. When the weekly increase was only 14,200,000,000. The amount of the loan bank certificates, which technically also are rated as circulation media, continues to show a steady rise. The certificates now number 17,900,000,000, as against 10,600,000,000 a year ago.

Financial experts continue to evince curiosity over the Reichsbank's further ability to meet the constant drain of its resources for the nation-wide credit demand. They infer already hold more than one-half the amount of the bills of exchange and checks being 240,956,000,000 marks, whose six maturities two months ago were only one-fifth of their total.

The substitution in March 15 discount and Treasury bills has become even more pronounced, and while this form of the circulating media formerly was chiefly held by private banks and industrial and commercial establishments, the great demand for credit has prompted the previous holders to unload this paper on the Reichsbank, which now possesses four-fifths of the Treasury bills, 872,220,000,000 marks issued as a relief to the floating debt.

have "complete freedom of navigation and passage by day and night, under any flag and with any kind of cargo, without any formalities or tax or charge whatsoever." In time of war, Turkey being neutral, they shall have the same right. In time of war, if Turkey is a belligerent, neutral vessels and commercial aircraft shall have freedom under the restriction of not carrying men or contraband for the foes of Turkey, and Turkey shall have the right of search.

For war vessels in time of peace there is to be complete freedom, subject to the limitation that no outside power can have in the Black Sea more warship tonnage than the most powerful country bordering on that sea. In case of the demilitarization of the Black Sea, each power is to have the right to send three vessels, only one of which shall exceed 10,000 tons.

In time of war, if Turkey is neutral, warships are to have freedom of passage subject to the peace-time limitation, with the provision that this limitation may not imperil the belligerent situation in the Black Sea of any power concerned.

No fighting is to take place in the Straits.

The project for demilitarization lays down zones on each side of the Bosporus and Dardanelles which shall contain no war establishments except a force not exceeding 10,000 men, which the Turks may station in the vicinity of Constantinople.

No mine fields are to be allowed in the Straits under any conditions.

A commission composed of delegates from France, England, Japan, Italy, Russia, the United States, Turkey, Greece, Rumania, Jugoslavia and Bulgaria is to supervise the carrying out of the regulations. The Turkish member is to be Chairman.

Bitterness in Anglo-Russian Debate.

The meeting at which the plan was presented was marked by an acrimonious debate between the British and the Russians. Lord Curzon began his long reply to M. Tchitcherin's proposals of two days ago by saying that, while talking in high-sounding sentences about the general welfare, the Russians were trying to turn the Black Sea into a Russian lake, with faithful Turkey as a guardian. He informed M. Tchitcherin that he had attempted something he couldn't carry through. While he admitted that the present Russian plan was the one which had been put by the Allies during most of the nineteenth century, he said Russia had always opposed it. The policies of Russia and the rest of Europe, he said, were now reversed; for, whereas the Allies now had no wish to hinder Russian warships from using the Straits, the Russians wished to close them to European warships. He reminded M. Tchitcherin that neither Rumania nor Bulgaria showed any desire to be locked up in the Black Sea with Russia.

"What the Russians are trying to do," he said, "is not to create a stable and durable system, fair alike to all Powers and all interests concerned, but to convert an accidental and probably ephemeral grouping of Powers resulting from the recent war into the permanent control of those areas, whether for purposes of aggression or of defense. That is a solution which is not only eminently unjust, but which could not hope to endure."

Lord Curzon gave many instances of Russia's abuse of her control of the Black Sea, when she had it, and told how the Turks had abused their mastery of the Straits. After the experiences of the World War, he said, a return to the system which was in effect in 1914 could not be considered. The Russians, he continued, ignored the principle of international law that the passage between the two seas should be regarded as an international highway. He reminded M. Tchitcherin that Russia had the right to send her warships through the Suez, Panama and Kiel Canals, as well as all other sea passages.

"M. Tchitcherin says the opening of the Straits to warships would place the Black Sea at the mercy of the strongest naval power," he said. "But the closing of the Straits will place the Black Sea at the mercy of Russia herself. M. Tchitcherin is very much disturbed at the preponderance of forces of any one power at the mouth of the Dardanelles. That is because the preponderance happened to be British. But he doesn't object to a preponderance in the safe seclusion of the Black Sea, provided only it is Russian. Such is the contribution of the Russian delegation to the doctrine of equal rights of nations and the peace and contentment of mankind."

Lord Curzon then read a summary of the allied plan. Camille Barrère for France and the Marquis di Garroni for Italy supported the plan outlined by Lord Curzon as representing the views of all the Allies.

Tchitcherin's Propaganda Speech.

M. Tchitcherin then delivered a propaganda speech against England, saying that if the English and Russian positions on the Black Sea question had been reversed it was because Russia was no longer an imperialist nation. Referring to Lord Curzon's well-known book, "The Russian Advance in Asia," he said there was no longer any such danger, and that the real danger to peace was the English advance in Europe.

"Russia wants a wall against any English advance in the regions where she is interested," said M. Tchitcherin, thereby unconsciously revealing the true inwardness of his Straits policy. International control, he said, meant nothing but trouble. Objecting to the allied plan, he said: "You are forcing Russia to arm, arm, arm." Whereas Russia wanted disarmament, England answered with something which was a perpetual menace.

In concluding his propagandist remarks M. Tchitcherin said:

"Listening to you, Lord Curzon, I felt that the guiding idea of your speech was to create a system directed against Russia. We propose peace to you, and you propose war against us. The Russian revolution has made the Russian people a nation whose entire force is concentrated in its Government, with an energy unknown in history, and if war is forced upon it, it will never capitulate.

"You are perhaps disturbed that our horsemen have reappeared on the heights of Pamir and because you have no longer opposed to you the half-witted Czar who in 1895 ceded you the Hindu-Kush. But it is not war, but peace, we offer you, basing it upon the principle of a dividing wall between us. This perforation is a fair example of the attitude of the Russian delegates toward England.

Lord Curzon arose and said:

"I am indeed grateful to hear of Russia's desire for peace and for the good of mankind. I must take that to mean that the proposals Russia has made to this conference will now be torn up."

In that spirit the meeting ended.

Tchitcherin's Fling at America.

When asked tonight his opinion of Mr. Child's statement, M. Tchitcherin said:

"The declaration is not clear to me. If Mr. Child means to say that the North American fleet can go freely wherever an American citizen may go he is in flagrant violation of the policy of the Washington disarmament conference. If President Harding's representative in speaking of the peaceful work of warships means isolated warships carrying peace mission—if American peace missions must travel on warships—we can dispense with him."

LAUSANNE, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—Today's developments at the conference, including the allied proposal for the control of the Turkish Straits and Ambassador Child's statement of America's views on the same subject, have greatly created a similar impression here. Only after the most careful study of the proposals will the Angora Government be able to make its reply, and in that spirit the meeting ended today.

SEE MACHIAVELLIAN PLAN

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Dec. 6.—A sensation has been caused here by a report from Lausanne that England is negotiating with Rumania for the establishment of two coaling stations—one version even says a naval base—on the Rumanian Black Sea coast.

The Soviet Government appears to think England is now personifying "world imperialism" and is "determined to maintain the Oriental races in servitude." Accordingly the Moscow press bursts into an excited revelation of British plans of aggression.

Naturally oil, without which no newspaper political editorial is nowadays complete, plays a leading part in the English machinations. But there are Russians here who look beyond the "topic of the day" for their interpretation of events. They see a more reasonable if more sinister background for the strong game the British are playing in the Near East than any attempt to control the Baku oil fields which were once actually under the lion's paw at a time when the Soviet Government and its Turkish ally were far weaker than they are today.

No Short-Sighted Oil Grab.

Supplementing the Marxian economic interpretation of history by appreciation of the effect of long-standing racial rivalries, they judge Britain's policy not as a short-sighted grab at oil fields whose exclusive possession inevitably would range her on the opposite side from America, with whom her evident interest dictates she remain on the best possible terms, but as a deliberate continuation of the British Foreign Office policy for the last fifty years—with the brief intermission of the death struggle with Germany—a policy of rivalry with Russia for supremacy in Asia.

The resulting stimulation of Russian nationalism, which is such a striking feature of this country today, has reminded Britain, say these Russians, that the Russian menace to Indian and British influence or possessions in Central Asia is not what it was of old.

From the British viewpoint it matters little whether the Czar's Government wished to put Asiatic peoples under the Russian flag or the Soviet Government to emancipate them into independent republics. The result for the British in both cases involves their own ejection. When British troops dig in at Chanak or Britain dickers with Rumania for bases in the Black Sea, both, say the Russians, are moves in a game against them.

All of which tends to explain the stiffness of the Soviet attitude at Genoa, The Hague and Lausanne.

"Why deal with our enemies," is Russia's argument, "when the great potential friend of Russia—the United States—is absent and aloof?"

It is almost ludicrous how the clear-sighted and non-fanatical statesmen in the Soviet State, as in Genoa growing every day as nationalism strengthens and the ideal of world revolution becomes more distant, is acquiring the ideal not, of course, of an alliance, but at least a working friendly agreement with America, quite oblivious of the fact that the large majority of American citizens still regard Russia as a land of desolation, bloodshed and despair.

"If one tells them that, they reply: 'Well, sooner or later your public will know better, and anyway we can afford to wait.'"

Russia's Policy to Wait.

That is the key to Russia's foreign policy today—she feels she can afford to wait. It is the explanation, too, of the excitement caused by the report of the British dicker with Rumania, which in the last analysis raises a doubt whether a waiting policy is really the best and whether the alternative of coming to terms with Britain now is not preferable to indefinite waiting for more favorable terms later when a rapprochement with America is finally secured.

In any case, the comment on the subject in the Russian press is a good thing from the standpoint of the Soviet Government. On the eve of elections for the All-Russian Soviet the reporter of "British menace" rallies wavering to the Government standard and stills the murmurs of "hard shell" Communists yearning for the "purer" if less comfortable and practical system in vogue before the days of years ago.

Perhaps after all that is the main purpose for the moment of this agitation. But that it should, as it has, become the subject of general conversation and interest in all sections of Russian opinion is one more proof of the awakening of the national consciousness which today is the principal factor in shaping Russia's future.

RUSSIAN CONFERENCE GETS DOWN TO WORK

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Dec. 6.—A compromise was finally reached today in the discussion of the Russian disarmament program by the border States, which at one moment became so keen as to threaten a rupture of the negotiations.

"Led by the Poles, whose chief, Prince Radziwill, is the outstanding figure among the visitors, the States flatly refused to consider the concrete Russian proposals for an immediate reduction of military forces unless the Russians agreed to prepare the way by the discussion of a general compact of non-aggression and an arbitration treaty.

The Soviet leaders pride themselves on being "hardboiled," and Litvinoff went the limit in figuring the introduction into the conference of what he and his colleagues term "scrap of paper agreements"—that is, treaties unaccompanied by concrete action.

"History shows that all nations break treaties when it suits their convenience," said the Russians, cynically, "therefore if you really intend to disarm don't put it down on paper, but go right ahead and reduce your armies as we suggest."

The visitors couldn't see it that way, and Litvinoff, after his point had been pressed home sufficiently, finally made some concessions.

The conference will now get down to work on a triple programme: formulation of a compact of non-aggression, arbitration agreements and a practical scheme for a progressive general reduction of forces on the lines proposed by Russia.

Taking it by and large, the prospects of a real measure of success are fairly good. All the participants in the conference wish is to reduce their armies if they can do it safely, and it is significant that the border States no longer form a solid bloc against Russia, as in the recent discussions Lithuania supported the Russian viewpoint from the outset, and at the end Esthonia and Finland helped to force the compromise upon the Letts and Poles.

Turks Want More Troops in the Capital.

Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LAUSANNE, Dec. 6.—The Turks decided tonight to protest against the limitation by the Allies of the number of Turkish troops in Constantinople to 10,000. The Angora Government is insistent upon its right to maintain there whatever forces it considers necessary to defend the capital.

The Turks will also protest against the depth of the demilitarized zone which the Allies have traced about the Straits to a depth of about twenty-five miles from the coast. They are unwilling that such a zone should be made more than ten miles wide.

After a long and careful examination of the statement of American policy which Ambassador Child made today, the Turks asserted tonight that they could not understand it and did not know what it was all about.

MR. CHILD PLEASES LONDON.

Daily Mail Says He Has Given Allies "Important Accession of Strength."

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—While the London newspapers give prominence to Ambassador Child's "freedom of the Straits" statement at Lausanne and describe it as a striking feature of yesterday's discussion on the subject, there is very little comment.

The Daily Mail says that in America's support the Allies have received an important accession of strength, and it adds: "We are in warm sympathy with the United States view, which will have all our moral support."

J. L. Hamilton, The Daily Chronicle's special correspondent at Lausanne, says that Mr. Child's statement "is, like everything that originates in these days from Washington, vague and sensible, but its general tendency is clear and not obviously inconsistent with the allied position was worked out quite independently of Lord Curzon's statement, which he had never heard until he was presented today. The Ambassador declared that the British Foreign Secretary's statement impressed him as quite liberal and not in conflict with the American position.

Statement of America's Views.

In his speech Mr. Child said:

"I have listened with interest to the points of view of the various delegations on the subject of the Straits and trust that a statement of the views of the American representatives will not be unwelcome.

"Our position is based upon the policy of our Government, which stands for complete and equitable freedom, without special privilege, for our commerce and for the commerce of other nations.

"The application of this policy to the question of the Straits is not difficult. We desire for the good of our interest, as well as for the good of all, including those peoples and nations that border on the Black Sea, that nothing shall be done that will take from any of them—Bulgaria or Russia, the Ukraine or Turkey, Rumania or Georgia—guarantees that they shall be accessible to the commerce of the world. Accessibility to that commerce is their right.

"It is equally the right of the commerce of the world to reach the peoples of this region. I do not understand that any delegation here would openly deny that right for times of peace. This is not sufficient. It is in keeping with the progress of world administration and enlightened international purposes that the commerce of neutral nations shall not be interrupted during a state of war.

"Freedom of the Straits is a term too limited to cover the field of this discussion, which involves the freedom of all those nations which border on the Black Sea and of all those nations outside the Straits who desire to reach them on their friendly errands.

"We cannot accept the position stated by any one who has spoken regarding the position of the nations on the Black Sea who have heard no one speak with the assent of all. We cannot accept the position that the future of commerce in the Black Sea is the exclusive affair of the nations bordering upon it. We assert that it is the concern of all the nations of the earth.

"It is untenable that any one nation by virtue of its geographical position should hold the power of depriving every other nation of these rights. This would be not only against the interests of our national policy; it would be against the interests of every nation on the Black Sea. It would be against the whole historical development of the freedom of the Black Sea.

"Unlimited control of the Straits and the Black Sea by any one nation is against the policy of the world. I do not understand that any nation will deny these fundamental principles of the freedom of the Black Sea. I do not understand that Turkey denies them. I do not even understand that any nation having an eye for extension of its territory or seeking to control the policies of Turkey will be heard here to deny them.

"I assume these fundamental principles will be established by this conference, and, if possible, will be guaranteed by this conference. No other result would satisfy the view of my Government. Without presuming to speak specifically for the others, I assume that no other result would satisfy either the nations inside or outside the Straits.

Urges Disarmament on the Black Sea.

"It is our view that the freedom of the Black Sea is to be gained only by disarmament. More than this, it is our belief that even armament designed to keep the Straits open is, in fact, a danger to the freedom of the Black Sea.

"If any nation or group of nations representing the interests of all the nations accepts the trusteeship of the freedom of the Black Sea, this trusteeship may be carried out, we believe, with a greater guarantee of good faith and constancy if reliance is placed upon agreements rather than upon force.

"It is impossible for me to overlook the proposal made by one declaration here that by such agreements all warships should be excluded from the Black Sea. I would find it equally reasonable to exclude warships from every other international body of water.

"No nation has gone further than the United States in its policies of naval disarmament, but no nation would be readier to uphold the good sense of maintaining a sufficient naval force to act as the police of the free seas, to protect its citizens and their ships wherever they might be, to suppress piracy or other menaces, and to act at times for the public good and to give relief to the suffering, just as the ships of war have recently done in the Near East.

"Ships of war are not necessarily agents of destruction; on the contrary, they may be agents of preservation and serve a good and peaceful ends in the prevention of disorder and the maintenance of peace.

"We—I believe in common with every commercial nation—wish access to every free body of water in the world, and we will not be satisfied if our ships of war may not pursue their peaceful errands wherever our citizens and our ships may go."

Warships and military airplanes of belligerent powers can not exercise the right of capture or search or resort to any other act of hostility in the zone of the Straits. They will be prohibited from remaining more than twenty-four hours beyond the time necessary to traverse the Straits unless obliged to prolong their stay by a major force.

When war exists and Turkey is one of the belligerents Turkey must not interfere with free passage by neutral ships. The submarines of the powers at peace with Turkey can traverse the Straits only on the surface and cannot be submerged.

Article 5 regulates the sojourn of ships in the ports of the Straits and the Black Sea. It declares that the preceding articles do not prejudice Turkey's right to frame necessary regulations concerning the number of warships and military airplanes of any one power that may simultaneously visit the Turkish ports and the right to fix the limit of their stay.

The countries of the Black Sea are to have the same rights with reference to their ports. Further provisions stipulate that the signatory powers, which before 1914 had the right to maintain guardships in the Straits, shall be authorized to keep this right under the same conditions.

WASHINGTON RETICENT AS TO STRAITS POLICY

But It Is Doubted if the Government Could Refuse Representation on Control Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Secretary Hughes and other high officials of the Administration today refrained from comment on reports from Lausanne relative to the attitude of the American official observers toward the question of the freedom of the Dardanelles and Bosporus, but admitted that definite instructions had been forwarded to Ambassador Child for the guidance of the American delegation with respect to the freedom of the Straits and all other questions under consideration or likely to be raised at the conference.

This reticence was not due to any desire for concealment in the matter, but was merely based on the belief that official comment here and possible garbling in the cabling of news reports to Lausanne might complicate the work of the American delegates. So the officials preferred to leave the matter to the discretion of the American delegation on the scene.

What the Government wants is definite assurance regarding the absolute freedom of the Turkish Straits to the commerce of the world in peace or war, not only as affecting the countries bordering the Black Sea, but those of the outside world as well. It is understood that the United States does not favor the construction of forts on the shores of the Straits, and that it believes disarmament both in the Straits and along the coasts of the Black Sea is to be desired; also that the United States looks with favor on the proposition for an international trusteeship of the Straits by means of an international commission of control or some similar regime.

As long ago as March 24, 1920, the American Government indicated its favor of such international control when, in a formal note from Secretary Colby to Ambassador Jusserand, it demonstrated that it felt that when Russia was restored under a Government that could speak for it otherwise than through the lips of the present Moscow autocracy, legitimate Slav interests in the question of the freedom of the Straits, should not be ignored.

Whether Ambassador Child had been authorized to promise that the United States would accept membership on an international commission for the control of the Straits could not be ascertained from any high official today; but the interest of the United States in the question of the freedom of the Straits is very great, and it is not believed that the Harding Administration would feel ready to refuse representation on such a body, if it was also suggested today that the attitude of the Turks in making it clear that the National Government would be disinclined to accept any sort of international supervision over the Straits is one which the United States might participate might increase the likelihood of America's accepting membership in a Straits commission.

'INDIAN CHIEF' DEMANDS RETURN OF MANHATTAN

Offers St. Nicholas Society a Bearskin, but Wants a Barrel of Rum.

Chief Sheet Lightning last night startled 250 persons who attended the eighty-seventh dinner of the St. Nicholas Society of New York in the Biltmore Hotel, when, garbed in a feathered headdress and beaded costume of the Iroquois tribe, he presented a bearskin to the toastmaster and demanded the return of Manhattan Island or a barrel of rum.

The Indian Chief's demand first was made in the language of the Iroquois tribe. Then he turned to the Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield, President of the society, and explained in perfect English what it was all about.

"The white man got Manhattan Island from the Indians for $24, a bag of wampum and a barrel of rum," he said, as the toastmaster unrolled the large bearskin. "The Indians now demand the return of Manhattan Island or you must give us our rum."

"Your claim has been taken over by a rival tribe—the tribe of Tammany," Dr. Duffield explained, when the laughter of the diners had partly subsided. "They captured it to the tune of 400,000 votes, and control all its money and firewater. I suggest that you have somebody introduce you to Charlie Murphy, Chief."

Chief Sheet Lightning then dejectedly gathered up the bearskin and, shuffling toward the corridor outside the dining hall, muttered something in the dialect of his tribe, which a bystander later interpreted as "What a chance I'd have with Murphy."

The dinner was the largest in attendance in the history of the society. Before the speechmaking began the stewards of the society, headed by E. G. Schermerhorn, the Chairman, placed on the toastmaster's dais a large, crude-ly fashioned weathervane, which was willed to the society by Washington Irving, its founder.

The weathervane, for many years crowned the Town House of New Amsterdam during the occupation by the Dutch and later held a position on the roof of the home of Irving at Sleepy Hollow. Among the speakers were Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, Dr. D. H. Andrae, Consul General of the Netherlands; Irving T. Bush, Dr. Frank Crane and the Rev. Dr. Joseph Ford Newton.

ASK £840 FOR KIPLING MS.

One of Author's Earliest Unpublished Works Held by Sotheran's.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—What is claimed as the earliest unpublished manuscript of Rudyard Kipling is being offered for sale for 800 guineas by Messrs. Sotheran. It is a twelve-page manuscript entitled, "At the Pit's Mouth. Personal Recollections of Duncan Parrenness. Translated by R. K." It is a satire on Anglo-Indian Society, written in 1884.

With the manuscript are offered three Kipling letters relating to its history since it was written. There are many author's notes on the MS. and instruction to an authoress to whom it was originally sent for publication to "embroider" certain parts of it.

Between 1911 and 1914 the woman who still held the story tried to get Kipling to agree to its publication. He replied:

"I do not recall the MS., but I do not see my way clear to give permission for publication of a work written by me more than a generation ago. If it would be convenient to you to dispose of the MS., I will send you a check in exchange."

The Daily Chronicle representative was informed by Sotheran's that the woman sold the MS. to them. The copyright was actually in law, with Kipling, and whoever bought the story could not publish it [illegible] be privately printed [illegible] matter," it was [illegible] Bibliopolite in [illegible] printed such docu-

INTERNAL GOLD LOAN PLANNED BY CUNO

Germany's future may be made or marred forever. Chancellor Cuno feels that his government must not have the support only of the classes which are represented in the present Cabinet, but also active co-operation and sympathy of the masses that stand behind the United Socialist Party.

It will be remembered that the main reason for the Socialists' refusal to join the Cuno Cabinet was that some of its members belong to the German People's Party which is not outspokenly Republican. Herr Cuno, it is learned, is now ready to make large concessions to the Socialists if they will join his government. After repeated conferences with President Ebert, who promised to use his great influence with the Socialist leaders, some of the most prominent of these have consented to persuade their party to give Cuno its active support on condition that any professed monarchist be removed from the Cabinet.

Professor Zinsheimer Frankfurt, the Socialist leader, publishes in pamphlet form an earnest warning to his party friends not to delay any longer, because Germany's most fatal hour is close at hand. Karl Kauthy, at a mass meeting at Cologne today implored the Socialist Party to immediately offer Chancellor Cuno its aid in the Government. In all probability some changes in the Cabinet will take place shortly, some monarchists making room for Socialists.

BRUSSELS PARLEY IN DOUBT.

French Now Think It Cannot Be Held This Year.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—It is scarcely any longer expected in Paris that the Brussels conference will be held this year, it will be with regret that the French Government will abandon this hope, but the impossibility of any general settlement being obtained at present has weighed strongly on opinion during the last two weeks and forced the conclusion that a postponement must be granted.

For this the reasons are many. When they came to France three weeks ago the Belgian Premier and Foreign Minister insisted that the conference should not be held unless its success was assured. They urged on Premier Poincaré that a postponement was preferable to allied differences at the conference table, and made it clear that they were not willing to move in the matter unless there was complete accord among the Allies before the conference began.

Since then it has become plain that Mr. Bonar Law, while sympathetic toward the French case, is, for the present at least, unwilling to commit himself to anything like the full Poincaré program. Close study of the British Premier's statements in Parliament have shown the French that the hustling tactics with which M. Poincaré secured his invitation to London are not likely to succeed further, and that delay is more likely than pressure to bring about the assent of England to any sweeping settlement. The British Government, it is realized, wants first to discuss its position with the United States and to have the Near East conference safely out of the way before tackling another.

Even the preliminary London conversations are now regarded here with some nervousness, for it is felt that if there is the least disagreement among the Allies the Turks will not be slow to take advantage of it, and the unity of front hitherto preserved at Lausanne may appear to Oriental minds as a simple façade and not a reality.

It is for these reasons that Premier Poincaré has considerably altered his intentions about his London trip. He is still keeping his real proposals a close secret, but enough has become known to indicate that the London conversations will be confined to a discussion of the situation which has arisen as a result of the German note of Nov. 13.

In that note the German Government asked that Germany's liabilities be definitely fixed—or rather refixed in such a way as to permit it to make its budgetary arrangements. Further, the German Government asked that all payments both in cash and kind should be suspended for three of four years.

It is to these two points in the German note that the French Premier, it is understood, will confine himself during the London conversations. He will argue that unless the British are prepared to go to Brussels and make a general settlement with all their own and France's creditors he cannot consent to any new fixation of the German debt. At the same time he will point out that the French Government cannot consent to any reduction of the German debt without the consent of Parliament, and the only way this could be secured would be if there was a compensating reduction of France's debts.

If then, the British Government does not see its way clear to go at once to Brussels, Premier Poincaré's supporters say, they will demand that the second of German requests be refused and that no moratorium be granted without those guarantees which M. Poincaré asked for in London last August. He has half a dozen times announced that no new moratorium can be granted Germany without "productive guarantees," and for the present it is believed he is prepared to waive all the rest of the program on condition that these are secured.

It will be a popular move in France, for a time at least, and during the interval the Premier hopes that circumstances will again change in his favor and both the cancellation of debts and an international loan become possible. Even his demands for direct control of German finance are likely to be postponed for the present.

The point of greatest hope in French minds just now that the new British Government will consent to the guarantee proposals may be derived from British action with regard to the fines imposed on the Bavarian towns of Passau and Ingolstadt. It was, it is stated, with the warm approval of the British Commander-in-Chief for his Government, that these fines were imposed and other measures taken insure respect for the personnel and work of the Military Control Commission in Germany.

In this fact is seen an indication that the new British Government is determined to insist on respect for the treaty and that whatever differences of opinion there may be between the Governments as to the ultimate financial solution to be found they are in agreement that Germany is not to be allowed to escape by insolence from all her obligations.

Curzon and Mussolini to Confer.

Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

ROME, Dec. 6.—It is announced here that Signor Mussolini will leave Milan tomorrow at noon on his way to London. It is further stated that Lord Curzon will meet him and ride with him as far as Lausanne to discuss the problems that have arisen in the Near East conference.

LONDON AWAITS HOUGHTON.

Harvey and Fletcher Expected to Hold a Conference There.

LONDON, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—The presence in London of Henry P. Fletcher, American Ambassador to Belgium, and the expected arrival tonight from Paris of Alanson B. Houghton, Ambassador to Berlin, is believed here to foreshadow a conference with Ambassador Harvey relative to the coming meeting here of the Allied Premiers, to discuss reparations and financial questions.

It is learned that Ambassador Harvey will return tomorrow afternoon from Warwick Castle, where his wife is ill, to meet Mr. Fletcher and Mr. Houghton. The latter, fresh from his conversations with Ambassador Harvey and Roland W. Boyden in Paris, will describe conditions in Germany and reflect the French views, enabling Mr. Harvey to be well posted in preparation for the Allied conference proceedings, on which he will keep Washington informed.

It is stated that the informal conversations among the American diplomats should not give rise to false reports regarding participation of the United States in the London conference, for it is as yet undecided whether America shall be even unofficially represented by an observer.

The British official view regarding America's participation is based on the Government's established policy of not embarrassing the United States by issuing an invitation to the Allied powers, but heartily welcoming observation or participation by an interested

FOURTH VIOLENT DEATH IN TOWN OF ORFORD

ORFORD, N. H., Dec. 6.—Another episode in the series of fatalities of which this town has been the scene during the last month was completed tonight when Frederick Bedell, a lumber merchant, who attempted suicide this morning by shooting himself through the head at his home here, died at a hospital at Hanover. Bedell had been rushed to the hospital late today in the forlorn hope that an operation might save his life.

Tonight county officials and citizens were puzzled over this the fourth death by violence in the little town since early November. On Nov. 13 the bodies of John and Charles Davis, aged brothers, were found in their home on the outskirts of Orford, the heads crushed with an axe. Two days later Earl Hibbard, a lumberman, committed suicide while hunting a mile or so from the Davis home. Bedell was the fourth of the series.

Exhausting every clue to trace the slayers of the Davis brothers, the authorities sought for days to establish some connection between the murder of the two old men and Hibbard's suicide but failed. John Davis was reputed to carry a large amount of cash, the savings of the two for many years, and the police theory was that robbery was the motive of the murderer.

Last Saturday county authorities renewed their investigation in the Davis case, questioning a number of residents of Orford as to their knowledge of the old men's movements in their last days of life. Bedell was among those questioned. His fingerprints were taken for comparison with those found on the handle of the axe in the Davis home. Officials said tonight, however, that they "had nothing on Bedell."
